INTRODUCTION.

AT the very outset, the humbleness of what is professed in the present work cannot be set forth too strongly. With the aim of enabling English people to read as a connected whole the last twenty-seven chapters of Isaiah, without being frequently stopped by passages of which the meaning is almost or quite unintelligible, I have sought to choose, among the better meanings which have been offered for each of these passages, that which seemed the best, and to weave it into the authorised text in such a manner as not to produce any sense of strangeness or interruption. This is all that I have attempted; not to translate or to correct independently, for which my knowledge of Hebrew, —not more than sufficient to enable me in some degree to follow and weigh the reasons offered by others in support of their judgments,—and, indeed, my resources of all kinds, would be totally inadequate; but to use the work of more competent translators and correctors, to use it so as to remove difficulties in our authorised version which admit, many of them, of quite certain correction; and yet to leave the physiognomy and movement of the authorised version quite unchanged. Such a work of emendation may be, I hope, of a useful character, but it is certainly of a humble one; and the reader is especially begged to note that to this, and no more, does the present work aspire.

With like prominence must be set in view its provisional character. It makes no pretensions to be permanent. Persons of weight and of proved qualifications are now engaged in revising the Bible, and their revision must undoubtedly be looked to as that which, it is to be hoped, may obtain general currency. To have one version universally received is of the greatest advantage. And their corrections will, probably, be much more extensive than those attempted here, and will extend far more to small points of detail; thus aiming at absolute correctness, at perfection. A version thus perfectly correct will most justly, if successful in other respects, supersede any private and partial attempts. Such a partial attempt is mine; an attempt, not to present an absolutely correct version of the series of chapters treated, but merely to remove such cause of disturbance as now, in the authorised version, prevents their being read connectedly, with understanding of what they mean, and with the profit and enjoyment that might else be drawn from them.

The present attempt was originally planned for the benefit of school-children. It appears in this larger form, because it has been found useful by many who are not school-children, and who find the small print of a school-book irksome. But it was intended in the first instance for the young and for the unlearned, and this its original design must not be forgotten.

The Hebrew language and genius, it is admitted by common consent, are seen in the Book of Isaiah at their perfection ; this has naturally had its effect on the English translators of the Bible, whose version nowhere perhaps rises to such beauty as in this Book. Whatever may be thought of the authorship of the last twenty-seven chapters, every one will allow that there comes a break between them and what goes immediately before them, and that they form a whole by themselves. And the whole which they form is large enough to exhibit a prolonged development and connexion, and yet is of manageable length, and comes within fixed limits. Add to which, it is a whole of surpassing interest ; so that, while Isaiah is styled the greatest of the prophets, the evangelical prophet, and St. Jerome calls him not so much a prophet as an evangelist, and Ambrose told Augustine to read his prophecies the first thing after his conversion, and this prophet is of all Old Testament writers the one far most quoted in the New,—while all this is so, it is, moreover, in the last twenty-seven chapters that the greatest interest is reached ; inso-much that out of thirty-four passages from him which Gesenius brings together as quoted in the New Testament, there are twenty-one from these last chapters against only thirteen from the rest of the Book. Finally, not only have the last twenty-seven chapters this poetical and this religious interest, but they have also an historical interest of the highest order; for they mark the very point where Jewish history, caught in the current of Cyrus's wars and policy, is carried into the great open stream of the world's history, never again to be separated from it.

The reader, therefore, may well be glad to have these chapters put by themselves, and made intelligible to him. I have also detached from their received place, and printed as an appendix to the last twenty-seven chapters, certain earlier chapters of the Book of Isaiah:—the 13th with the 14th down to the end of the 23rd verse, the 21st down to the end of the 10th verse, the chapters from the beginning of the 24th to the end of the 27th, and the 34th and 35th chapters. These chapters are undoubtedly connected by their subject with the concluding series, and should be read in connexion with them by every student who wishes to apprehend the concluding series fully. Evidently, as both they and this series now stand in his Bible, they are baffling to him; and this is due partly to their arrangement, partly to obscurities in the translation. To shew how this is so, let us take the 21st chapter of Isaiah down to the end of verse 10. Thus it stands in our Bibles:—

THE burden of the desert of the sea. As whirlwinds in the south pass through; so it cometh from the desert, from a terrible land.

2. A grievous vision is declared unto me; the treacherous dealer dealeth treacherously, and the spoiler spoileth. Go up, O Elam: besiege, O Media: all the sighing thereof have I made to cease.

3. Therefore are my loins filled with pain: pangs have taken hold upon me, as the pangs of a woman that travaileth: I was bowed down at the hearing of it; I was dismayed at the seeing of it.

4. My heart panted, fearfulness affrighted me: the night of my pleasure hath he turned into fear unto me.

5. Prepare the table, watch in the watch-tower, eat, drink: arise, ye princes, and anoint the shield.

6. For thus hath the LORD said unto me, Go set a watchman, let him declare what he seeth.

7. And he saw a chariot with a couple of horsemen, a chariot of asses, and a chariot of camels; and he hearkened diligently with much heed:

8. And he cried, A lion: My lord, I stand continually upon the watch-tower in the daytime, and I am set in my ward whole nights:

9. And behold, here cometh a chariot of men, with a couple of horsemen. And he answered and said, Babylon is fallen, is fallen; and all the graven images of her gods he hath broken unto the ground.

10. O my threshing, and the corn of my floor: that which I have heard of the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, have I declared unto you.

And then the chapter goes on without any interruption, in verses of just the same look, to a wholly different matter.

Now the general reader, who has the bare text of a common Bible and nothing more, may perceive that there is something grand in this passage, but he cannot possibly understand it; and this is due partly to the want of explanations, partly to the arrangement, partly to obscurity in the translation. He requires to be told first, as a reader would be told before reading an ode of Pindar, what it is all about; he requires to have the passage separated for him from that with which it has no connexion; and he requires to have the text made much clearer, both in its words and in its punctuation.

To supply explanations, it may be thought, is a matter which need not embarrass us much; but the same cannot be said of re-arranging and correcting. For it must always be remembered, that, in dealing with the English Bible, we are dealing with a work consecrated in the highest degree by long use and deep veneration.

With respect to the novel way of dividing, arranging, and presenting their single Psalms or single Chapters, which recent translators, following Ewald, have adopted: in him and them, and for his and their purpose, we may acquiesce in it; but for an ordinary reader it changes the face of the Bible too startlingly and entirely. The divisions in our common Bibles, however, do mark too little the connexion of the sense, do often break it too arbitrarily, and of themselves create difficulties for the reader. This will not be denied; but the question is, how to apply a remedy without innovating overmuch. Now, it so happened that I had for many years been in the habit of using a Bible¹ where the numbers of the chapters are marked at the side and do not interpose a break between chapter and chapter; and where the divisions of the verses, being numbered in like manner at the side of the page, not in the body of the verse, and being numbered in very small type, do not thrust themselves forcibly on the attention. Breaks between the chapters, too, this Bible admits, but only when the sense seems urgently to call for them; and sometimes, from the same motive, it even breaks a verse in the middle. It had always struck me how much more connected and comprehensible the sense of the Bible, and particularly of certain parts of the Bible, such as the Prophetical Books and the Epistles, appeared in this arrangement than in that of our common Bibles; insomuch that here things would often look comparatively lucid and hanging together, which in our common Bibles looked fragmentary and obscure. Well, then, it suggested itself to me to try, for conveying to the general reader our series of chapters, this mode of arrangement, extending it a little and simplifying it a little; extending it by using breaks, if this seemed required by the sense, a little more frequently; and simplifying it by getting rid of italics, signs, references, and all apparatus of this sort, which readers such as I have in view hardly ever understand, and are more distracted than helped by. So one might hope to exhibit this series of chapters in a way to give a clue to their connexion and sense, yet without making them look too odd and novel.

So far for the arrangement: but even a more important matter was correction, since an unintelligible passage, baffling the reader and throwing him out, will often, as I have said, spoil a whole chapter for him; and there are many such passages in the authorised version. To avoid this check in reading the grand series of chapters at the end of Isaiah, I had gradually made for my own use the corrections which seemed indispensable; these corrections, after having been carefully revised, are adopted in the text now offered. And by indispensable corrections I mean this: corrections which enable us to read the authorised version without being baffled and thrown out. The urgent matter, of course, is to get rid of the stoppage and embarrassment created by such things as: 'He made his grave with the wicked . . . because he had done no violence;' or as: 'That prepare a table for that troop, and that furnish the drink-offering for *that number*¹.' A clear sense is the indispensable thing. Even where the authorised version seems wrong, I have not always, if its words give a clear sense, thought it necessary to change them. When, however, the right correction seems to give a sense, either clearer, or higher in poetic propriety and beauty, than the authorised version, I have corrected.

For example. I think it certain that at verse 15 of the 65th chapter the right rendering is: 'And ye shall leave your name for a curse unto my chosen, So may the Lord God slay thee!'—the words in italics being the words of the curse, as in Jeremiah xxix: 'Of them (Zedekiah and Ahab) shall be taken up a curse by all the captivity of Judah which are in Babylon, saying, The Lord make thee like Zedekiah and Ahab!' But the authorised version gives a perfectly clear sense: 'And ye shall leave your name for a curse unto my chosen; for the LORD God shall slay thee;'—and I have therefore left this as it stands. Again, at verse 18 of the 66th chapter, I think the right rendering almost certainly is: 'But I——their works and their thoughts!—it shall come, that I will gather all nations,' &c.; the expression being, as Ewald explains it, a broken, indignant one, with this sense:—Utterly to confound and shame the expectations and practices of the faithless, idol-seeking Jews (who have been the subject of the preceding verse), idolatrous nations themselves shall come and worship me. But the authorised version: 'For I know their works and their thoughts' (referring to the idolatrous Jews of the preceding verse);—and then, after a pause, passing to another subject: 'It shall come, that I will gather all nations,'—gives, perhaps, a yet clearer sense, though, I am inclined to believe, not the right sense; but the sense given being good and clear, I think it better to abstain from change. It may seem at variance with this, that, for instance, in the last clause of the 46th chapter: 'I will place salvation in Zion for Israel my glory,' which is quite clear, I have yet allowed myself to make a change, and to substitute: 'I will give salvation to Zion; to Israel my glory.' But this is because, while the change appears, from the law of parallelism in Hebrew poetry, perfectly certain, the observance here of this law gives, at the same time, a decided gain in poetic propriety and beauty. So, too, in verse 14 of the 43rd chapter: 'I have sent to Babylon and have brought down all their nobles, and the Chaldeans, whose cry is in the ships.' This cannot be right, but it gives a sense which may be made out. We may refer to what Heeren says of the maritime trade of Babylon in the Persian Gulf, and explain the last clause of the Chaldean fleets there, and of the joyful hailing and shouting of the sailors. But we so little associate Babylon with a maritime trade and fleets, that this sense for the passage is a strained and unacceptable one. Whereas the more correct rendering, 'I have sent to Babylon, and do make them all to flee away, and the Chaldeans upon the ships of their pleasure,' associates Babylon with her great feature,—the river and the use of the river; and so gives a sense, if not absolutely plainer, yet poetically much more natural and more pleasing. Here therefore is a case where our rules justify a change.

But when a change, however pleasing and ingenious, depends on taking license to alter by guess the original text, I have regarded it as quite forbidden. There is a difficult expression in verse 17 of the 66th chapter, 'behind one tree in the midst,' where the word tree is supplied by our English translators, and the original has only 'behind one in the midst.' Now, the Hebrew word for behind nearly resembles the Hebrew word for one, and Ewald proposes to read, in place of the word for one, the word for behind repeated; so that the meaning will be: 'Back, back in the innermost sanctuary!'—a cry of recoil of the idol-serving and superstitious renegade Jews at the approach of their uninitiated, and, as they thought, profane countrymen. This suits well with the 'I am holier than thou!' attributed to the same renegades, and as a conjectural emendation it is highly plausible and attractive; still, a conjectural emendation it is, and therefore, as I consider, not permissible for our purpose here. All we may do is to supply a word giving a better sense than the word tree, and such a word is chief,—the ringleader or chief in the idolatrous processions and ceremonies held in the sacred gardens.

So it will be evident that our range for alteration is limited; indeed, it may almost be said, in general, to be restricted to those cases where in the authorised version there is unintelligibility or ambiguity baffling the reader and throwing him out. A translator whose aim is purely scientific, to render his original with perfect accuracy, will have much more latitude, and no one can blame him for taking it; but then the public he must propose to himself is different. And a body of Bible-revisers, probably, acting by public authority, ought, as I have already said, to take much more latitude, and to correct the old version not only where it is unintelligible, but also wherever they think it in error. But my object is such that to retain as far as possible the old text of the English Bible is very desirable, nay, almost indispensable. I want to enable the reader to apprehend, as a whole, a literary work of the highest order. And the Book of Isaiah, as it stands in our Bibles, is this in a double way. By virtue of the original it is a monument of the Hebrew genius at its best, and by virtue of the translation it is a monument of the English language at its best. Some change must be made for clearness' sake, without which the work cannot be apprehended as a whole; but the power of the English version must not be sacrificed, must, if possible, be preserved intact. And though every corrector says this, and pays his compliment to the English version, yet few proceed to act upon the rule, or seem to know how hard it is to act upon it when we alter at all, and why it is hard. Let us try and make clear to ourselves exactly what the difficulty is.

The English version has created certain sentiments in the reader's mind, and these sentiments must not be disturbed, if the new version is to have the power of the old. Surely this consideration should rule the corrector in determining whether or not he should put Jehovah where the old version puts Lord. Mr. Cheyne, the recent translator of Isaiah,—one of that new band of Oxford scholars who so well deserve to attract our interest, because they have the idea, which the older Oxford has had so far too little, of separated and systematised studies,—Mr. Cheyne's object is simply scientific, to render the original with exactness. But how the Four Friends, who evidently, by their style of comment, mean their very interesting and useful book, The Psalms Chronologically Arranged, for religious use, for habitual readers of the Psalms, and who even take, because of this design, the Prayer-Book version as their basis,—how they can have permitted themselves to substitute Jehovah for Lord passes one's comprehension. Probably because they were following Ewald; but his object is scientific. To obtain general acceptance by English Christians, who, that considers what the name in question represents to these, what the Psalms are to them, what a place the expression The Lord fills in the Psalms and in the English Bible generally, what feelings and memories are entwined with it, and what the force of sentiment is,—who, that considers all this, would allow himself, in a version of the Psalms meant for popular use, to abandon the established expression The Lord in order to substitute for it Jehovah? Jehovah is in any case a bad substitute for it, because to the English reader it does not carry its own meaning with it, and has even, which is fatal, a mythological sound. The Eternal, which one of the French versions uses, is far preferable. The Eternal is in itself, no doubt,

¶ a better rendering of Jehovah than The Lord. In disquisition and criticism, where it is important to keep as near as we can to the exact sense of words, The Eternal may be introduced with advantage; and whoever has heard Jewish school-children use it, as they do, in repeating the Commandments in English, cannot but have been struck and satisfied with the effect of the rendering. In his own private use of the Bible, any one may, if he will, change The Lord into The Eternal. But at present, for the general reader of the Bible or of extracts from it, The Lord is surely an expression consecrated. The meaning which it in itself carries is a meaning not at variance with the original name, even though it may be possible to render this original name more adequately. But, besides the contents which a term carries in itself, we must consider the contents with which men, in long and reverential use, have filled it; and therefore we say that The Lord any literary corrector of the English Bible does well at present to retain, because of the sentiments this expression has created in the English reader's mind, and has left firmly fixed there.

It is in deference to these pre-established sentiments in the reader that we prefer, so long as the sense is well preserved, for any famous passage of our chapters which is cited in the New Testament, the New Testament rendering, because this rendering will be to the English reader the more familiar, and touches more chords. For instance, in the 2nd verse of the 43rd chapter, He shall not cry nor lift up is the Old Testament rendering. He shall not clamour nor cry might in itself be better; but He shall not strive nor cry seems best of all, because the New Testament has made it so familiar. For the same reason, the change in the first clause of the 53rd chapter¹ was originally made with the utmost reluctance, and it has been now, after re-consideration, abandoned. This is mentioned to shew what deference I really feel to be due to the pre-established sentiments above spoken of.

But perhaps there would not be much difficulty if we had only to avoid rash change in these marked cases. There is a far subtler difficulty to be contended with. The English Bible is a tissue, a fabric woven in a certain style, and a style which is admirable. When the version was made, this style was in the air. Get a body of learned divines, and set them down to translate, the right meaning they might often have difficulty with, but the right style was pretty well sure to come of itself. This style is in the air no longer;—that makes the real difficulty of the learned divines now at work in Westminster. And exactly in what the style consists, and what will impair it, and what sort of change can be brought into it, and to what amount, without destroying it, no learning can tell them; they must trust to a kind of tact. Every one agrees that in correcting the English Bible (we do not now speak of re-translation in an aim of scientific exactness) you must not change its style. The question is, what kinds of alteration do change its style? By two kinds of alteration, it may be affirmed, you change its style; you change it if you destroy the character of the diction, and you change it if you destroy the balance of the rhythm. Either is enough; and one has only to state these two conditions to make it clear how entirely the observance of them must be a matter of tact, and cannot be ensured by any external rules. It is often said that no word ought to be used in correcting the English Bible which is not there already. This is pedantry; no word must be used which does not suit the Bible-diction, but plenty of words may suit it which do not happen to be there already. And after all, what have you gained, if you get a word which is ever so much a Bible-word, and put it in so as to spoil the rhythm? The style of the Bible is equally changed, whether it is the character of its diction that you destroy, or the balance of its rhythm.

Thus quite petty changes may have a great and fatal effect; the mass of a passage may be left (and this is what a corrector generally understands by shewing 'affectionate reverence for the Authorised Version'), and yet by altering a word or two the Bible-style may be more changed than if the passage had been half re-written. I name Bishop Lowth with the highest respect. He, Vitranga, and the Jewish commentator Aben-Ezra, are perhaps the three men who, before the labours of the Germans in our own century, did most to help the study of Isaiah. And what Lowth did was due mainly to fine tact and judgment in things of poetry and literature; this enabled him to make his just and fruitful remarks on the structure of the composition of the Hebrew prophets, and on the literary character of the whole Hebrew Scriptures. And he could point out, in Sebastian Castellio's Latin version, the fault of 'the loss of Hebrew simplicity, the affectation of Latin elegance,' and observe that 'to this even the barbarism of the Vulgate is preferable.' And he saw the merit, both in diction and in rhythm, of our authorised English version: 'As to the style and language,' he says, 'it admits but of little improvement;' all he proposed to himself was to 'correct and perfect it.' But in good truth style, such as the beginning of the 17th century knew it, was at the end of the 18th century no longer in the air. Else how could a man of Lowth's sound critical principles and fine natural tact have thought that he perfected 'Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem,' by making it 'Speak ye animating words to Jerusalem;' or 'Taught him knowledge,' by substituting 'Impart to him science;' or 'Hear now this, thou that art given to pleasures, that dwellest carelessly,' by 'Hear now this, O thou voluptuous, that sittest in security;' or 'Yet did we esteem him stricken,' by 'Yet we thought him judicially stricken;' or 'When thou shalt make his soul an offering for sin,' by 'If his soul shall make a propitiatory sacrifice;' or 'My salvation is near to come,' by 'My salvation is near, just ready to come?' Surely this is not to be called perfecting but marring.

So, too, Mr. Cheyne, who, scientific though his object be, nevertheless talks of governing himself in making changes, by 'the affectionate reverence with which the Authorised Version is so justly regarded,' may be rendering his original with more accuracy when he writes : 'He shall not fail nor be discouraged till he have set religion in the earth, and the sea-coasts wait for his doctrine.' But he must not imagine that he is making a slight change in the rhythm of 'He shall not fail nor be discouraged, till he have set judgment in the earth ; and the isles shall wait for his law ;' for he destroys the balance of the rhythm altogether. He may or may not be expressing the prophet's meaning in appropriate English, which he says is his design, when he puts 'Who hath believed our revelation,' for 'Who hath believed our report,' or 'He was tormented, but he suffered freely, and opened not his mouth,' for 'He was oppressed, and he was afflicted, yet he opened not his mouth ;' but he is not governing himself by 'the affectionate reverence with which the Authorised Version is so justly regarded,' for he is changing its effect totally. And this, though there may be only a word or two altered, or though the new and imported words may be honest Bible-words like the old.

Hence we see how delicate is the matter we are touching, when we take in hand the authorised version to correct it. And as there is so much risk, it seems the safest way, first indeed to be very shy of correcting needlessly ; but then, if there is need to correct, to keep if possible the cast of phraseology and the fall of sentence already given by the old version, and to correct within the limits of these, transgressing the limits of neither. For instance: 'He was taken from prison and from judgment, and who shall declare his generation? for he was cut off out of the land of the living; for the transgression of my people was he stricken.' This needs correction, for it gives no clear sense; but it possesses a cast of phraseology and a fall of sentence which are marked, which we all know well and should be loath to lose. Mr. Cheyne substitutes: 'From oppression and from judgment was he taken,—and as for his generation, who considered that he was cut off out of the land of the living, for the transgression of my people he was stricken.' This is hardly clearer, indeed, than the old version; still, the old version's cast of phraseology is on the whole maintained, but what has become of its fall of sentence? Surely it is better to try and keep this too; and if we say: 'He was taken from prison and from judgment; and who of his generation regarded it, why he was cut off out of the land of the living? for the transgression of my people was he stricken!'—we do at least try to keep it. It would be easy to translate the verse more literally by changing its words and rhythm more radically; but what we should thus gain in one way is less than what we should lose in another.

However, the safest way, of course, is to abstain from change; and the trial of the corrector is in deciding where to make change and where not.

For the public and authorised corrector the latitude is greater, as I have said, than for an attempt like mine. I will destroy and devour at once, in verse 14 of chapter 42, is clear and gives a tolerable sense, so I have kept it; but it can hardly be the sense of the original (although this sense is not quite certain), and public and authorised correctors might do well to change it. But I doubt whether any corrector should, merely for the sake of being more exactly literal, change good words which give the general sense of the original. For example, in the second verse of the first chapter of our series, 'Her iniquity is pardoned' sufficiently conveys the general sense; 'Her sin-offering is accepted' is more exact, but there is no adequate reason for change. But the next clause, 'She hath received at the Lord's hand double for all her sins,' is ambiguous. It may mean, her punishments are twice as much as her sins, or it may mean, her blessings are twice as much as her punishments. It does mean the latter, but the words would lend themselves to the former meaning more readily. Lowth substitutes, 'She shall receive at the hand of Jehovah blessings double to the punishment of all her sins;' the right sense is given, but the rhythm of the old version is gone. Whereas the changing only one word would have left the rhythm as it was, and yet have made the meaning quite clear: 'She shall receive at the Lord's hand double for all her rue.'

Lowth in this passage changes the tense of the verb, and here too is a point where, it should be noticed, great heed is requisite. Very often, in the Hebrew prophets and poets, the time is a kind of indeterminate one, neither strictly present, past, nor future. They speak of God's action; and the time of God's action is the time of a general law, which we can without impropriety make present, past, or future, as we will. So in Horace's famous lines declaring how regularly punishment overtakes the wicked: 'Raro antecedentem scelestum deseruit pede pœna claudo;' the verb here might almost equally well, as far as the sense is concerned, be deseruit, or deseret, or deserit,—hath abandoned, shall abandon, or doth abandon. Very often, where the time is of this kind, the form of the Hebrew verb does not make it certain for us, as in Latin, how we shall render. The authorised version, having in view the nature, as popularly conceived, of prophetic speech, always leans to the future. Some modern translators uniformly lean the other way; but in all cases where the sense is not certainly brought out better by one tense than another, the corrector of the English Bible had better, in my opinion, hold his hand; for to change the tense is, very often, to change the rhythm. In the particular text of our prophet which we have just been discussing, the authorised version has the verb in the past tense: 'She hath received at the Lord's hand double for all her sins.' Lowth changes it to the future: 'She shall receive.' The present, however, is more vivid: 'She receiveth;' for this represents the compensation as actually taking place and begun. But it is the future tense in the authorised version which nine times out of ten raises the question of change. Take as an example: 'The isles shall wait for his law;' where I have rendered, 'Far lands wait for his law.' For, surely, waiting is already prospective enough without weakening it by making it more prospective still; so that here, it seems to me, the meaning gains decidedly if we change the tense to the present. But except where there is a decided gain of this sort, I have let the futures of the old version stand.

So, too, as to that often recurring expression, the isles, the islands. This rendering is consecrated by its long and universal use; not only our Bibles have it, but the Septuagint and the Vulgate have it also, and Luther has it. And it is noble and poetical. Coasts, strands, is more literal, and is the rendering preferred by the modern German translators, and by Mr. Cheyne following them. But where the coasts and isles of the Mediterranean are alone intended, and no stress is meant to be specially laid on their remoteness, isles, which is more distinct and beautiful than coasts, seems preferable. Sometimes, however, remoteness is an important part of the idea, and then neither isles nor coasts quite satisfies. This is so in the passage quoted a little way back: 'The isles shall wait for his law.' The full meaning is not here brought out; nor does Mr. Cheyne bring it out any more by 'The sea-coasts wait for his doctrine.' Lowth has: 'The distant nations shall earnestly wait for his law;' and this is undoubtedly the meaning, only distant nations is prosaic, and breaks the character of the Bible-style. Therefore, where remoteness seems a prominent part of the idea, I have used the rendering far lands; as here: 'Far lands wait for his law.' But in general I have retained the well-known isles.

And the same with those noble and consecrated expressions, judgment, righteousness; I have hardly ever meddled with them. To talk, indeed, like Mr. Cheyne, of setting religion in the earth, instead of setting judgment in the earth, seems to me wanton; but in our series of chapters there are several places where saving health, salvation, undoubtedly renders the original more truly than the righteousness of the English Bible. Here I have hesitated, and there was considerable inducement to change; still, the notions of righteousness and of the salvation belonging to righteousness do in our prophet so run into one another, and the word righteousness in the English Bible is so noble a word in itself, and so weighty an element of rhythm, that again and again, even after changing, I have gone back to it.

In short, I have had a most lively sense of the risk one runs in touching a great national monument like the English Bible; and how one is apt, by changes which seem small, to mar and destroy utterly. If I am asked why I could not wait for the revision promised by Convocation, I answer that several years, probably, will have yet to go by before the revision comes, and even then it will not give us what is wanted,—this admirable and self-contained portion of the Bible, detached to stand as a great literary whole. But I will add, too, that I think there is a danger with any body of modern correctors of changing too much, and of thinking that little things, especially, may be freely changed without harm. And I am conscious of an 'affectionate reverence' for the diction and rhythm of the English Bible, greater even, perhaps, than that of many of the official revisers,—a reverence which, while for our purpose some change in the text is needed, makes me eager, notwithstanding, to preserve its total effect unimpaired, and binds me, in this aim, to a moderation in altering much more than commonly scrupulous. After all, the total number of changes made is considerable, for clearness required it; but nothing would be so gratifying to me as to find that a reader had gone from the beginning of the chapters to the end without noticing anything different from what he was accustomed to, except that he was not perplexed and thrown out as formerly. No corrector should wish to claim any property in the English Bible. That work, and the glory of it, belongs to the old translators, and theirs, even if their work is amended, it should remain. Even their punctuation one would gladly retain; but this one finds oneself more and more, the more one deals with it, obliged in the interest of clearness and effect to alter.

I must still add a word about the notes and explanations. I have no design in the present work to discuss, or even to raise, questions which are in dispute between different schools of Biblical interpreters. There ought to be nothing in the book which should hinder the adherent of any school of Biblical interpretation or of religious belief from using it. The authorship of our series of chapters is a vexed question; and undoubtedly I believe that the author of the earlier part of the Book of Isaiah was not the author of these last chapters. There is nothing to forbid a member of the Church of England, or, for that matter, a member of the Church of Rome either, or a member of the Jewish Synagogue, from holding such a belief; but it is not a belief which a work like the present has to concern itself with. Our work ought simply to place itself, in presenting the last twenty-seven chapters of Isaiah, at the moment of history where the contents of them become simplest, most actual, most striking. Now, this moment evidently is the moment of Cyrus's attack on Babylon and contemplated restoration of the Jews. This is the moment when to the Jewish nation itself these chapters must undoubtedly have come out with far more clearness and fulness than could have been possible a hundred and fifty years earlier, when the matters handled must have been mere predictions of unknown future events. The greatness of Hebrew prophecy, or even its special character, are not concerned here. In my belief the unique grandeur of the Hebrew prophets consists, indeed, not in the curious foretelling of details, but in the unerring vision with which they saw, the unflinching boldness and sublime force with which they said, that the great unrighteous kingdoms of the heathen could not stand, and that the world's salvation lay in a recourse to the God of Israel. But, anyhow, the general prophecy that the great unrighteous kingdoms of the heathen could not stand was all that could in the time of Ahaz be fully effective ; the full effect of all the particulars in our twenty-seven chapters must have been reserved for the time when these particulars began visibly to explain themselves by being produced and fulfilled. This every one must admit. Even those who believe that the prophecy existed in the reign of Ahaz, a century and a half before the conquests of Cyrus, will allow that at the moment of the conquests of Cyrus its significance would be brought out much more fully. And therefore we desire to place the reader in the position of a Jew reading the chapters at that critical moment, when the wars and revolutions with which they deal had a nearness, grandeur, and reality they could not have before or afterwards. But any one is free to suppose, if he likes, that these chapters, so apposite and actual at that moment, were an old prediction which had been in the possession of the Jews long before. Whether this was so or not, whether it is consistent with the true nature of Hebrew prophecy that this should have been so, are questions into which the present work does not enter, and ought not to enter.

Some persons will say, probably, that the notes and explanations confine themselves too much to the local and temporary side of these prophecies ; that the prophecies have two sides, a side towards their nation and its history at the moment, and a side towards the future and all mankind ; and that this second side is by much the more important. I admit unreservedly that these prophecies have a scope far beyond their primary historical scope, that they have a secondary, eternal scope, and that this scope is the more important. The secondary application of the 53rd chapter of Isaiah to Jesus Christ, is much more important than its now obscure primary historical application. To deny this would, in my judgment, shew a very bad critic ; but it would shew a very bad critic, also, to believe that the historical and literary substratum in the Bible is unimportant. Yet this belief is widespread and genuine ; but I answer,—and here is the justification of works like the present,—that it is of very high importance ; that without this historical and literary substructure the full religious significance of the Bible can never build itself up for our minds, and that those who most value the Bible's religious significance ought most to regard this substructure. Admirably true are these words of Goethe, so constant a reader of the Bible that his free-thinking friends reproached him for wasting his time over it : ‘ I am convinced that the Bible becomes even more beautiful the more one understands it ; that is, the more one gets insight to see that every word, which we take generally, and make special application of to our own wants, has had, in connexion with certain circumstances, with certain relations of time and place, a particular, directly individual reference of its own.’

So that though our series of chapters, like the Bible in general, contains more, much more, than what our notes chiefly deal with, yet this too, nevertheless, is of very high importance and leads up to that more. Moreover, it has the advantage of not offering ground for those religious disputes to which a more extended interpretation of the Bible often gives rise. What disputes it offers ground for are of the sort which may arise out of any historical and literary enquiry, and they are the fewer the more the enquiry is conducted in an unassuming and truly scientific manner; when that only is called certain which is really certain, and that which is conjecture, however plausible, is allowed to be but conjecture. It sets Bible-readers against all historical and literary investigation of the Bible, when novelties are violently and arrogantly imposed upon them without sufficient grounds. No one who has been studying the Book of Isaiah should close his studies without paying homage to the German critics who in this century have accomplished so much for that Book; and to two great names, perhaps, above all,—Gesenius and Ewald. Ewald, that ardent spirit,—whose death, the other day, may probably almost stand as marking a date in the history of German learning, and as closing a period,—Ewald exhibited in a signal degree, over and above all his learning, two natural gifts: the historical sense and the poetical sense; the poetical sense, in my opinion, in a yet higher degree than the historical. But for both the literary and the historical investigation of the Bible he has done wonders; yet perhaps no one has done more to offend plain readers with such investigation, by a harsh and splenetic dogmatism, as unphilosophical as it is unpleasing. His great fault is that he will insist on our taking as certainty what is and must be but conjecture. He knows just when each chapter and portion of a chapter was written, just where another prophet comes in and where he leaves off; he knows it the more confidently the more another critic has known differently. But know in these cases he cannot, he can but guess plausibly; and sometimes his guess, which he gives as certain, has much to discredit even its plausibility. Our series of chapters, for instance, he insists we shall believe was written in Egypt, not Babylon, because Persia is called in it the north, and Persia is north to Egypt, not to Babylon. How strange that it never occurred to him, before thus making a certainty where there can be none, that Persia is north to Zion; and that for the Jewish exile in Babylon, Zion, the centre of his thoughts, may well also have been the centre of his geography!

The more we are content to let our text speak for itself, to try and follow its intentions and elucidate them without imposing on it ours, the better critics we shall be certainly, but also the less risk we shall run of indisposing ordinary readers to sane Biblical criticism by rash changes, or by assertions pressed too far. There can hardly be a more interesting enquiry than who the servant of God, so often mentioned in our series of chapters, really was. We all know the secondary application to Jesus Christ, often so striking; but certainly this was not the primary application. Who was originally meant? the purged idealised Israel? or a single prophet, the writer of the book? or the whole body of prophets? or the pious and persisting part of the Jewish nation? or the whole mass of the Jewish nation? It may safely be said that all these are meant, sometimes the one of them, sometimes the other; and the best critic is he who does not insist on being more precise than his text, who follows his text with docility, allows it to have its way in meaning sometimes one and sometimes the other, and is intelligent to discern when it means one and when the other. But a German critic elects one out of these several meanings, and will have the text decidedly mean that one and no other. He does not reflect, that in his author's own being all these characters were certainly blended: the ideal Israel, his own personal individuality, the character of representative of his order, the character of representative of the pious and faithful part of the nation, the character (who that knows human nature can doubt it?) of representative of the sinful mass of the nation. How then, when the prophet came to speak, could God's servant fail to be all these by turns? No doubt, the most important and beautiful of these characters is the character of the ideal Israel, and Ewald has shewn poetical feeling in seizing on it, and in eloquently developing its significance. Gesenius, Ewald's inferior in genius, but how superior in good temper and freedom from jealousy and acrimony! seizes in like manner on the character of representative of the order of prophets. But both of them make the object of their selection a hobby, and ride it too hard; and when they come to the perilous opening of the 49th chapter, both of them permit themselves, in order to save their hobby, to tamper with the text. These are the proceedings which give rise to disputes, cause offence, make historical and literary criticism of the Bible to be regarded with suspicion. A faithful, simple, yet discriminative following of one's author and his text might avoid them all.

I have been too long; but the present attempt is new, and needed explanation. One word of yet more special explanation has still to be added. A variety of interpretations of any passage is hardly ever given; one interpretation is adopted, and the rest are left without notice. This is not because I consider the interpretation to be in all cases certain, but because the notes are written for those who want not to occupy themselves with weighing rival interpretations, but to get a clear view of the whole. I make no apologetic phrases about the faults of my own editing and annotating. It is not that I am unconscious of their defectiveness; but I know that the work for which they in some sort open a way is so important as far more than to make up for it.

To make a great work of soul pass into the general mind is not easy; but our series of chapters have one quality which facilitates this passage for them,—their boundless exhilaration. Much good poetry is profoundly melancholy; now, the life of the generality of people is such that in literature they require joy. And if ever that 'good time coming,' for which we all of us long, was presented with energy and magnificence, it is in these chapters; it is impossible to read them without catching its glow. And they present it truly and with the true conditions. It is easy to misconceive it on a first view, easy to misconceive its apparent conditions; but the more these chapters sink into the mind and are apprehended, the more manifest is their connexion with universal history, the key they offer to it, the truth of the ideal they propose for it. Many of us have a kind of centre-point in the far past to which we make things converge, from which our thoughts of history instinctively start and to which they return; it may be the Persian War, or the Peloponnesian War, or Alexander, or the Licinian Laws, or Cæsar. Our education is such that we are strongly led to take this centre-point in the history of Greece or Rome; but it may be doubted whether one who took the conquest of Babylon and the restoration of the Jewish exiles would not have a better. Whoever began with laying hold on this series of chapters as a whole, would have a starting-point and lights of unsurpassed value for getting a conception of the course of man's history and development as a whole. If but for a certain number of readers this could happen, what access would they thus gain to a new life, unknown to them hitherto! what an extending of their horizons, what a lifting them out of the present, what a suggestion of hope and courage! 'It is a stingy selfishness,' says Barrow, 'which maketh us so sensible of crosses and so uncapable of comfort.' There are numbers whose crosses are so many and comforts so few that to the misery of narrow thoughts they seem almost driven and bound; what a blessing is whatever extricates them and makes them live with the life of the race! Our acts are, it is most true, infinitely more important than our thoughts and studies; but the bearing which thoughts and studies may have upon our acts is not enough considered. And the power of animation and consolation in those thoughts and studies, which, beginning by giving us a hold upon a single great work, end with giving us a hold upon the history of the human spirit, and the course, drift, and scope, of the career of our race as a whole, cannot be over-estimated. Not pathetic only, but profound also, and of the most solid substance, was that reply made by an old Carthusian monk to the trifler who asked him how he had managed to get through his life:—'*Cogitavi dies antiquos, et annos æternos in mente habui*¹.'

THE GREAT PROPHECY OF ISRAEL'S RESTORATION.

[In the year 722 B.C. the kingdom of Israel fell; its capital, Samaria, was taken by Shalmaneser, king of Assyria, and its ten tribes were carried away into Assyria. Of the chosen people in the Holy Land, therefore, 'there was none left but the tribe of Judah only.' The great eastern empire of Assyria was then at its height of power; Media, Persia, and Babylon were subject to it, and it was hoping to conquer Egypt, with which Hoshea, the last king of Israel, had made an alliance. The kingdom of Judah, also, leaned towards Egypt; for Judah, though it survived, was tributary to Assyria, and hoped by help of Egypt to break the Assyrian power. Eight years after the destruction of the kingdom of Israel, Hezekiah, the king of Judah, refused to pay his tribute any longer: the king of Assyria, Sennacherib, invaded Egypt and Palestine, but without success, and his army which appeared before Jerusalem was, according to the Jewish accounts, destroyed. At this time Babylon threw off the yoke of Assyria and sent an embassy to gain the friendship of Hezekiah; Media also made itself independent. Sennacherib regained his hold upon Babylon, but the end of Assyria's greatness was drawing nigh. She again lost Babylon; and in the year 625 B.C. the king of Babylon, in conjunction with the king of Media, took Nineveh and destroyed for ever the Assyrian empire. The kingdom of Media with Persia, on the one hand, and the kingdom of Babylon, on the other, were Assyria's heirs and successors. Judah, after the death of Hezekiah, had no returning gleam of political prosperity. In 588 B.C., thirty-seven years after the fall of the kingdom of Assyria, and a hundred and thirty-four years after the fall of the kingdom of Israel, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon made a final invasion of Judah, took Jerusalem, and carried away the king and the chief part of the people to Babylon. But Nebuchadnezzar's brilliant reign founded no enduring power for Babylon. His successors became engaged in war with the Medo-Persian kingdom; and it was this kingdom which was to grow and succeed. Under Cyrus the Persian its fortunes prevailed. In 548 B.C., forty years after the fall of Jerusalem, Cyrus conquered the wealthy Lydian monarchy of Croesus, and the Greek cities on the western coast of Asia Minor; then, in the year 541 B.C., he turned upon Babylon, defended by its walls and waters. Against their enslaver and oppressor the Jewish exiles in Babylon saw uplifted the irresistible sword of God's instrument, this Persian prince, to whose religion the Babylonian idolatry was hateful; a victorious warrior, a wise and just statesman, favourable to Babylon's prisoners and victims, and disposed to restore the exiles of Judah to their own land. Assyria had fallen, Babylon was now falling; and in this supreme hour is heard the voice of God's prophets, commanded to comfort God's people, as follows:—]

(Isaiah 40-66.)

40 COMFORT ye, comfort ye my people, saith your God.

2 Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem, and cry unto her that her warfare is accomplished, that her iniquity is pardoned; that she receiveth of the LORD'S hand double for all her rue.

3 A VOICE of one that crieth! In the wilderness prepare ye the way of the LORD, make straight in the desert a highway for our God.

4 Every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain and hill shall be made low; and the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough places plain;

5 And the glory of the LORD shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together: for the mouth of the LORD hath spoken it.

6 A voice said, Cry! And he said, What shall I cry?—All flesh is grass, and all the goodliness thereof is as the flower of the field:

7 The grass withereth, the flower fadeth, because the spirit of the LORD bloweth upon it: surely the people is grass.

8 The grass withereth, the flower fadeth; but the word of our God shall stand for ever.

- 9 O THOU that bringest good tidings to Zion, get thee up into the high mountain; O thou that bringest good tidings to Jerusalem, lift up thy voice with strength; lift it up, be not afraid; say unto the cities of Judah, Behold your God!
- 10 Behold, the Lord GOD will come with strong hand, and his arm shall rule for him: behold, his reward is with him, and his recompence before him.
- 11 He shall feed his flock like a shepherd: he shall gather the lambs with his arm, and carry them in his bosom, and shall gently lead those that are with young.
- 12 Who hath measured the waters in the hollow of his hand, and meted out heaven with the span, and comprehended the dust of the earth in a measure, and weighed the mountains in scales, and the hills in a balance?
- 13 Who hath directed the Spirit of the LORD, or being his counsellor hath taught him?
- 14 With whom took he counsel, and who instructed him, and taught him in the path of judgment, and taught him knowledge, and shewed to him the way of understanding?
- 15 Behold, the nations are as a drop of a bucket, and are counted as the small dust of the balance: behold, he taketh up the isles as a very little thing!

- 16 And Lebanon is not sufficient to burn, nor the beasts thereof sufficient for a burnt offering.
- 17 All nations before him are as nothing; and they are counted to him less than nothing, and vanity.
- 18 To whom then will ye liken God? or what likeness will ye compare unto him?
- 19 The workman melteth an image, and the goldsmith spreadeth it over with gold, and casteth silver chains.
- 20 He that is too poor for oblation chooseth a tree that will not rot; he seeketh unto him a cunning workman to prepare an image, that shall not be moved.
- 21 Have ye not known? have ye not heard? hath it not been told you from the beginning? have ye not understood from the foundations of the earth?
- 22 He that sitteth above the circle of the earth, and the inhabitants thereof are as grasshoppers? that stretcheth out the heavens as a curtain, and spreadeth them out as a tent to dwell in?
- 23 That bringeth the princes to nothing? he maketh the judges of the earth as vanity. ^
- 24 Yea, scarce shall they be planted, yea, scarce shall they be sown, yea, scarce shall their stock take root in the earth; and he shall blow upon them, and they shall wither, and the whirlwind shall take them away as stubble.

- 25 To whom then will ye liken me, or shall I be equal? saith the Holy One.
- 26 Lift up your eyes unto the heavens, and behold! who hath created these things? he bringeth out their host by number, he calleth them all by names; by the greatness of his might, for that he is strong in power, not one faileth.
- 27 Why sayest thou, O Jacob, and speakest, O Israel, My way is hid from the LORD, and my judgment is passed over from my God?
- 28 Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the LORD, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? there is no searching of his understanding.
- 29 He giveth power to the faint, and to them that have no might he increaseth strength.
- 30 Even the youths shall faint and be weary, and the young men shall utterly stumble;
- 31 But they that wait upon the LORD shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint.
- 41 KEEP silence before me, O islands, and let the nations renew their strength! let them come near, then let them speak; let us come near together to judgment.

2 Who raised up from the east the man with whom goeth victory, gave the nations before him, and made him rule over kings? he gave them as the dust to his sword, and as driven stubble to his bow.

3 He pursued them. and passed safely, even by the way that he had not gone with his feet.

4 Who hath wrought and done it? even he that called forth the generations from the beginning: I the LORD, the first, and to the last I am he.

5 Far lands saw it, and feared; the ends of the earth were afraid, draw near, and come.

6 They help every one his neighbour, and every one saith to his brother, Be of good courage.

7 So the carpenter encourageth the goldsmith, and he that smootheth with the hammer him that smiteth the anvil, saying of the solder, It is good: and he fasteneth it with nails, that it should not be moved.

8 But thou, Israel my servant, Jacob whom I have chosen, the seed of Abraham my friend;

9 Thou whom I have taken from the ends of the earth, and called thee from the extreme borders thereof, and said unto thee: Thou art my servant, I have chosen thee, and not cast thee away;

10 Fear thou not, for I am with thee! be not dismayed, for I am thy God! I will strengthen thee, yea, I will help thee, yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness.

11 Behold, all they that were incensed against thee shall be ashamed and confounded! they shall be as nothing; and they that strive with thee shall perish.

12 Thou shalt seek them, and shalt not find them, even them that contended with thee; they that war against thee shall be as nothing, and as a thing of nought.

13 For I the LORD thy God will hold thy right hand, saying unto thee, Fear not; I help thee!

14 Fear not, thou worm Jacob, and thou handful Israel! I help thee, saith the LORD, and thy redeemer is the Holy One of Israel.

15 Behold, I will make thee a new sharp threshing instrument having teeth: thou shalt thresh the mountains, and beat them small, and shalt make the hills as chaff.

16 Thou shalt fan them, and the wind shall carry them away, and the whirlwind shall scatter them; but thou shalt rejoice in the LORD, and shalt glory in the Holy One of Israel.

17 When the poor and needy seek water, and there is none, and their tongue faileth for thirst, I the LORD will hear them, I the God of Israel will not forsake them.

- 18 I will open rivers on high places, and fountains in the midst of the valleys: I will make the wilderness a pool of water, and the dry land springs of water.
- 19 I will plant in the wilderness the cedar, the acacia tree, and the myrtle, and the olive tree; I will set in the desert the cypress tree, and the pine, and the box tree together:
- 20 That they may see, and know, and consider, and understand together, that the hand of the LORD hath done this, and the Holy One of Israel hath created it.
- 21 PRODUCE your cause, saith the LORD; bring forth your strong reasons, saith the King of Jacob.
- 22 Let them bring them forth, and shew us what shall happen: let them shew the former things, what they be, that we may consider them, and know the latter end of them; or declare us things for to come.
- 23 Shew the things that are to come hereafter, that we may know that ye are gods! yea, do good, or do evil, that we may be dismayed, and behold it together!
- 24 Behold, ye are of nothing, and your work of nought: an abomination is he that chooseth you.

- 25 I have raised up one from the north, and he shall come: from the rising of the sun, that he should call upon my name: and he shall come upon princes as upon mortar, and as the potter treadeth clay.
- 26 Who hath declared from the beginning, that we may know? and beforetime, that we may say, It is right! yea, there is none that sheweth, yea, there is none that declareth, yea, there is none that hath heard your words.
- 27 I the first said to Zion, Behold, behold it! and I gave to Jerusalem one that bringeth good tidings.
- 28 I look, and there is no one; even among them, and there is no counsellor, that, when I should ask of them, could answer a word.
- 29 Behold, they are all vanity! their works are nothing: their molten images are wind and confusion.
- 42 BEHOLD my servant, whom I uphold, mine elect, in whom my soul delighteth! I have put my spirit upon him: he shall declare judgment to the Gentiles.
- 2 He shall not strive, nor cry, nor cause his voice to be heard in the street.
- 3 A bruised reed shall he not break, and smoking flax shall he not quench : he shall declare judgment with truth.

4 He shall not fail nor be discouraged, until he set judgment in the earth : far lands wait for his law.

5 Thus saith God the LORD, he that created the heavens, and stretched them out ; he that spread forth the earth, and that which cometh out of it ; he that giveth breath unto the people upon it, and spirit to them that walk therein :

6 I the LORD have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and will keep thee, and give thee for a mediator of the people, for a light of the Gentiles ;

7 To open the blind eyes, to bring out the prisoners from the prison, and them that sit in darkness out of the prison house ;

8 I the LORD : that is my name ! and my glory will I not give to another, neither my praise to graven images.

9 Behold, the former things are come to pass, and new things do I declare : before they spring forth I tell you of them.

10 SING unto the LORD a new song, and his praise from the end of the earth, ye that go down to the sea and all that is therein ; the isles, and the inhabitants thereof !

- 11 Let the wilderness and the cities thereof lift up their voice, the villages that Kedar doth inhabit : let the inhabitants of the rock sing, let them shout from the top of the mountains.
- 12 Let them give glory unto the LORD, and declare his praise in the islands.
- 13 The LORD shall go forth as a mighty man, he shall stir up his zeal like a man of war : he shall cry, yea, roar : he shall behave himself mightily against his enemies.
- 14 I have long time holden my peace ; I have been still, and refrained myself : now will I cry like a travailing woman ; I will destroy and devour at once.
- 15 I will make waste mountains and hills, and parch up all their herbs ; and I will make the rivers dry land, and I will dry up the pools.
- 16 And I will bring the blind by a way that they knew not, I will lead them in paths that they have not known : I will make darkness light before them, and crooked things straight. These things will I do unto them, and not forsake them.
- 17 They shall be turned back, they shall be greatly ashamed, that trust in graven images, that say to the molten images, Ye are our gods.
- 18 Hear, ye deaf ! and look, ye blind, that ye may see !

- 19 Who is blind, but my servant? or deaf, as my messenger that I would send? who is blind as God's liegeman, and blind as the LORD'S servant?
- 20 Seeing many things, but thou observest not; having the ears open, but he heareth not.
- 21 The LORD was pleased to do it for his righteousness' sake; to magnify the law, and to make it honourable.
- 22 But this is a people robbed and spoiled; they are all of them snared in dungeons, and they are hid in prison houses: they are for a prey, and none delivereth; for a spoil, and none saith, Restore.
- 23 Who among you will give ear to this? who will hearken and hear concerning the fore time?
- 24 Who gave Jacob for a spoil, and Israel to the robbers? did not the LORD, he against whom we have sinned? for they would not walk in his ways, neither were they obedient unto his law.
- 25 Therefore he hath poured upon him the fury of his anger, and the strength of battle; and it hath set him on fire round about, yet he knew not, and it burned him, yet he laid it not to heart.
- 43 But now thus saith the LORD that created thee, O Jacob, and he that formed thee, O Israel! Fear not, for I have redeemed thee; I have called thee by thy name, thou art mine!

- 2 When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee, and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee: when thou walkest through the fire, thou shalt not be burned, neither shall the flame kindle upon thee.
- 3 For I am the LORD thy God, the Holy One of Israel, thy Saviour: I give Egypt for thy ransom, Ethiopia and Saba for thee.
- 4 Because thou art precious in my sight, honourable, and I have loved thee, therefore will I give men for thee, and people for thy life.
- 5 Fear not, for I am with thee! I will bring thy seed from the east, and gather thee from the west;
- 6 I will say to the north, Give up! and to the south, Keep not back! bring my sons from far, and my daughters from the ends of the earth;
- 7 Even every one that is called by my name: for I have created him for my glory, I have formed him, yea, I have made him.
- 8 Bring forth the blind people that have eyes, and the deaf that have ears!
- 9 Let all the nations be gathered together, and let the Gentiles be assembled: who among them can declare this? Or let them shew us former things! let them bring forth their witnesses, that they may be justified! let one hear, and say, It is truth!
- 10 Ye are my witnesses, saith the LORD, and my servant whom I have chosen, that ye may know and believe me, and understand that I am he: before me there was no God formed, neither shall there be after me.

11 I, even I, am the LORD, and beside me there is no saviour.

12 I have declared, and have saved, and I have shewed, and it was no strange god that was among you: therefore ye are my witnesses, saith the LORD, that I am God.

13 Yea, before the day was, I am he, and there is none that can take away out of my hand: I will work, and who shall let it?

14 Thus saith the LORD, your redeemer, the Holy One of Israel: For your sake I have sent to Babylon, and do make them all to flee away, and the Chaldeans upon the ships of their pleasure;

15 I the LORD, your Holy One, the creator of Israel, your King.

16 Thus saith the LORD, which maketh a way in the sea, and a path in the mighty waters;

17 Which bringeth forth the chariot and horse, the army and the power: (they shall lie down together, they shall not rise; they are extinct, they are quenched as tow.)

18 Remember not the former things, neither consider the things of old!

- 19 Behold, I do a new thing! now it shall spring forth! shall ye not know it? I will even make a way in the wilderness, and rivers in the desert.
- 20 The beast of the field shall honour me, the jackals and the ostriches: because I give waters in the wilderness, and rivers in the desert, to give drink to my people, my chosen,
- 21 This people that I formed for myself; they shall shew forth my praise.
- 22 BUT THOU hast not called upon me, O Jacob! but thou hast been careless of me, O Israel!
- 23 Thou hast not brought me the lambs of thy burnt offering, neither hast thou honoured me with thy sacrifices: I have not burdened thee with an offering, nor wearied thee with incense.
- 24 Thou hast bought me no sweet cane with money, neither hast thou filled me with the fat of thy sacrifices: but thou hast burdened me with thy sins, thou hast wearied me with thine iniquities.
- 25 I, even I, am he that blotteth out thy transgressions for mine own sake, and will not remember thy sins.
- 26 Put me in remembrance, let us plead together! declare thou, that thou mayest be justified!
- 27 Thy first father hath sinned, and thy teachers have transgressed against me.

28 Therefore I have profaned the princes of the sanctuary, and have given Jacob to the curse, and Israel to reproaches.

44 Yet now hear, O Jacob, my servant, and Israel, whom I have chosen !

2 Thus saith the LORD that made thee, and formed thee from the womb, which will help thee : Fear not, O Jacob, my servant ; and thou, Jeshurun, whom I have chosen !

3 For I will pour water upon him that is thirsty, and floods upon the dry ground : I will pour my spirit upon thy seed, and my blessing upon thine offspring :

4 And they shall spring up as the grass amidst water, as willows by the water courses.

5 One shall say, I am the LORD'S, and another shall call himself by the name of Jacob, and another shall subscribe with his hand unto the LORD, and surname himself by the name of Israel.

6 THUS saith the LORD the king of Israel, and his redeemer the LORD of hosts : I am the first, and I am the last ; and beside me there is no God.

7 And who, as I, hath foretold, (let him declare it, and set it in order for me !) since I appointed the ancient people ? and the things that are coming, and shall come, let them shew !

8 Fear ye not, neither be afraid! have not I told thee from aforetime, and have declared it? ye are even my witnesses. Is there a God beside me? yea, there is no God; I know not any.

9 They that make a graven image are all of them vanity, and their delectable things shall not profit; and they are their own witnesses; they see not, nor know, that they may be ashamed.

10 Who hath formed a god, or molten an image that is profitable for nothing?

11 Behold, all his fellows shall be ashamed, and the workmen, that are but men. Let them all be gathered together, let them stand up; they shall fear, they shall be ashamed together.

12 The smith with the tongs both worketh in the coals, and fashioneth it with hammers, and worketh it with the strength of his arms: yea, he is hungry, and his strength faileth: he drinketh no water, and is faint.

13 The carpenter stretcheth out his rule; he marketh it out with a line; he fitteth it with planes, and he marketh it out with the compass, and maketh it after the figure of a man, according to the beauty of a man; that it may remain in the house.

14 He heweth him down cedars, and taketh the cypress and the oak: he chooseth for himself among the trees of the forest: he planteth an ash, and the rain doth nourish it.

15 Then shall it be for a man to burn, for he will take thereof, and warm himself; yea, he kindleth it, and baketh bread; yea, he maketh a god, and worshippeth it; he maketh it a graven image, and falleth down thereto.

16 He burneth part thereof in the fire; with part thereof he eateth flesh; he roasteth roast, and is satisfied: yea, he warmeth himself, and saith, Aha, I am warm, I have seen the fire!

17 And the residue thereof he maketh a god, even his graven image: he falleth down unto it, and worshippeth it, and prayeth unto it, and saith: Deliver me, for thou art my god!

18 They have not known nor understood; for he hath shut their eyes, that they cannot see, and their hearts, that they cannot understand.

19 And none considereth in his heart, neither is there knowledge nor understanding to say: I have burned part of it in the fire, yea, also I have baked bread upon the coals thereof, I have roasted flesh, and eaten it; and shall I make the residue thereof an abomination? shall I fall down to the stock of a tree?

20 He feedeth on ashes: a deceived heart hath turned him aside, that he cannot deliver his soul, nor say : Is there not a lie in my right hand ?

21 Remember this, O Jacob and Israel, for thou art my servant ! I have formed thee, thou art my servant : O Israel, thou shalt not be forgotten of me !

22 I have blotted out, as a thick cloud, thy transgressions, and, as a cloud, thy sins : return unto me, for I have redeemed thee.

23 SING, O ye heavens, for the LORD hath done it : shout, ye foundations of the earth : break forth into singing, ye mountains, O forest, and every tree therein ! for the LORD hath redeemed Jacob, and glorified himself in Israel.

24 Thus saith the LORD, thy redeemer, and he that formed thee from the womb, I the LORD that maketh all things, that stretcheth forth the heavens alone, that spreadeth abroad the earth by myself ;

25 That frustrateth the tokens of the liars, and maketh diviners mad ; that turneth wise men backward, and maketh their knowledge foolish ;

26 That confirmeth his word to his servant, and performeth his counsel toward his messengers ; that saith to Jerusalem, Thou shalt be inhabited ! and to the cities of Judah, Ye shall be built, and I will raise up the decayed places thereof !

- 27 That saith to the deep, Be dry, and I will dry up thy rivers!
- 28 That saith of Cyrus, He is my shepherd, and shall perform all my pleasure, even saying to Jerusalem, Thou shalt be built, and to the temple, Thy foundation shall be laid!
- 45 Thus saith the LORD to his anointed, to Cyrus, whose right hand I have holden, to subdue nations before him; and I will ungird the loins of kings, to open before him the two leaved gates, and the gates shall not be shut;
- 2 I will go before thee, and make the crooked places straight: I will break in pieces the gates of brass, and cut in sunder the bars of iron:
- 3 And I will give thee the treasures hid in darkness, and concealed riches of secret places, that thou mayest know that I am the LORD which call thee by thy name, the God of Israel.
- 4 For Jacob my servant's sake, and Israel mine elect, I have even called thee by thy name: I have surnamed thee, though thou hast not known me.
- 5 I am the LORD, and there is none else, there is no God beside me: I girded thee, though thou hast not known me:
- 6 That they may know from the rising of the sun, and from the west, that there is none beside me: I am the LORD, and there is none else.

- 7 I form the light, and create darkness: I make peace, and create evil: I the LORD do all these things.
- 8 Drop down, ye heavens, from above, and let the skies pour down righteousness! let the earth open, and bring forth salvation, and let righteousness spring up together! I the LORD have created it.
- 9 Woe unto him that striveth with his Maker! Let the potsherd strive with the potsherds of the earth. Shall the clay say to him that fashioneth it, What makest thou? or thy work, He hath no hands?
- 10 Woe unto him that saith unto his father, What begettest thou? or to his mother, What hast thou brought forth?
- 11 Thus saith the LORD, the Holy One of Israel and his Maker: Ask ye me of things to come concerning my sons? and concerning the work of my hands command ye me?
- 12 I have made the earth, and created man upon it: I, even my hands, have stretched out the heavens, and all their host have I commanded.
- 13 I have raised him up in righteousness, and I will direct all his ways: he shall build my city, and he shall let go my captives, not for price nor reward, saith the LORD of hosts.
- 14 Thus saith the LORD: The labour of Egypt, and merchandise of Ethiopia and of the Sabeans, men of stature, shall come over unto thee, and they shall be thine: they shall come after thee; in chains they shall come over, and they shall fall down unto thee, they shall make supplication unto thee, saying: Surely God is in thee, and there is none else, there is no God!

15 Verily thou art a God whose way is hidden,
O God of Israel, the Saviour!

16 They shall be ashamed, and also confounded, all of them; they shall go to confusion together, that are makers of idols.

17 But Israel shall be saved in the LORD with an everlasting salvation; ye shall not be ashamed nor confounded, world without end.

18 For thus saith the LORD that created the heavens, God himself that formed the earth and made it; he hath established it, he created it not in vain, he formed it to be inhabited; I the LORD, and there is none else:

19 I have not spoken in secret, in a dark place of the earth: I said not unto the seed of Jacob, Seek ye me in vain! I the LORD speak up-rightly, I declare things that are right.

20 Assemble yourselves and come, draw near together, ye that are escaped of the nations! they have no knowledge that set up the wood of their graven image, and pray unto a god that cannot save.

21 Tell ye, and bring them near, yea, let them take counsel together! who hath declared this from ancient time? who hath told it from that time? have not I the LORD? and there is no God else beside me; a just God and a Saviour; there is none beside me.

22 Look unto me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth! for I am God, and there is none else.

23 I have sworn by myself, the word is gone out of my mouth in righteousness, and shall not return, that unto me every knee shall bow, every tongue shall swear.

24 Surely, shall one say, in the LORD have I righteousness and strength! Even to him shall men come, and all that are incensed against him shall be ashamed.

25 In the LORD shall all the seed of Israel be justified, and shall glory.

46 BEL boweth down, Nebo stoopeth, their idols are upon the beasts, and upon the cattle: they are borne that ye carried; they are a burden to the weary beast.

2 They stoop, they bow down together; they cannot deliver the burden, but themselves are gone into captivity.

3 Hearken unto me, O house of Jacob, and all the remnant of the house of Israel, which are borne by me from the birth, which are carried from the womb!

4 And even to your old age I am he, and even to hoar hairs will I carry you : I have made, and I will bear ; even I will carry, and will deliver you.

5 To whom will ye liken me, and make me equal, and compare me, that we may be like?

6 They lavish gold out of the bag, and weigh silver in the balance, and hire a goldsmith, and he maketh it a god : they fall down, yea, they worship.

7 They bear him upon the shoulder, they carry him, and set him in his place, and he standeth ; from his place shall he not remove : yea, one shall cry unto him, yet can he not answer, nor save him out of his trouble.

8 Remember this, and shew yourselves men ! bring it again to mind, O ye transgressors !

9 Remember the former things of old : for I am God, and there is none else ; I am God, and there is none like me ;

- 10 Declaring the end from the beginning, and from ancient times the things that are not yet done, saying: My counsel shall stand, and I will do all my pleasure.
- 11 Calling the eagle from the east, the man that executeth my counsel from a far country: yea, I have spoken it, I will also bring it to pass; I have purposed it, I will also do it.
- 12 Hearken unto me, ye obdurate, that are far from righteousness!
- 13 I bring near my righteousness: it shall not be far off, and my salvation shall not tarry: and I will give salvation to Zion; to Israel, my glory.
- 47 COME down, and sit in the dust, O virgin daughter of Babylon, sit on the ground! there is no throne, O daughter of the Chaldeans! for thou shalt no more be called tender and delicate.
- 2 Take the millstones, and grind meal! uncover thy locks, make bare the leg, uncover the thigh, pass over the rivers!
- 3 Thy nakedness shall be uncovered, yea, thy shame shall be seen: I will take vengeance, and I will be entreated of for thee by no man.
- 4 As for our redeemer, the LORD of hosts is his name, the Holy One of Israel.

5 Sit thou silent, and get thee into darkness, O daughter of the Chaldeans! for thou shalt no more be called, The lady of kingdoms.

6 I was wroth with my people, I polluted mine inheritance, and gave them into thine hand: thou didst shew them no mercy; upon the ancient hast thou very heavily laid thy yoke.

7 And thou saidst, I shall be a lady for ever! so that thou didst not lay these things to thy heart, neither didst remember the latter end of it.

8 Therefore hear now this, thou that art given to pleasures, that dwellest carelessly, that sayest in thine heart: I am, and none else beside me; I shall not sit as a widow, neither shall I know the loss of children.

9 But these two things shall come to thee in a moment in one day, the loss of children, and widowhood: they shall come upon thee in their perfection for the multitude of thy sorceries, and for the great abundance of thine enchantments.

10 For thou hast trusted in thy wickedness, thou hast said, None seeth me! Thy wisdom and thy knowledge, it hath perverted thee; and thou hast said in thine heart, I am, and none else beside me.

- 11 Therefore shall evil come upon thee, thou shalt not know from whence it riseth; and mischief shall fall upon thee, thou shalt not be able to put it off; and desolation shall come upon thee suddenly, which thou shalt not know.
- 12 Stand now with thine enchantments, and with the multitude of thy sorceries, wherein thou hast laboured from thy youth! if so be thou shalt be able to profit, if so be thou mayest prevail.
- 13 Thou art wearied in the multitude of thy counsels! Let now the astrologers, the stargazers, the prognosticators by the new moon, stand up, and save thee from these things that shall come upon thee.
- 14 Behold, they shall be as stubble! the fire shall burn them, they shall not deliver themselves from the power of the flame! it shall not be a coal to warm at, nor a fire for a man to sit before it.
- 15 Thus shall they be unto thee with whom thou hast laboured, even they with whom thou hast dealt from thy youth: they shall wander every one to his quarter; none shall save thee.
- 48 HEAR ye this, O house of Jacob, which are called by the name of Israel, and are come forth out of the fountain of Judah! which swear by the name of the LORD, and make mention of the God of Israel, but not in truth, nor in righteousness!

2 For they call themselves of the holy city, and stay themselves upon the God of Israel; the LORD of hosts is his name.

3 I have declared the former things from the beginning, and they went forth out of my mouth, and I shewed them; I did them suddenly, and they came to pass.

4 Because I knew that thou art obstinate, and thy neck is an iron sinew, and thy brow brass,

5 I have even from the beginning declared it to thee: before it came to pass I shewed it thee: lest thou shouldest say, Mine idol hath done them, and my graven image, and my molten image, hath commanded them.

6 Thou hast heard—see all this! and will not ye declare it? I shew thee new things from this time, even hidden things, and thou didst not know them.

7 They are created now, and not in the former time; even before this day thou heardest them not; lest thou shouldest say, Behold, I knew them.

8 Yea, thou heardest not, yea, thou knewest not, yea, beforehand thine ear was not opened; for I knew that thou wouldest deal very treacherously, and wast called a transgressor from the womb.

9 For my name's sake will I defer mine anger, and for my praise will I refrain for thee, that I cut thee not off.

10 Behold, I have refined thee, but not gotten therefrom silver ; I have tried thee in the furnace of affliction.

11 For mine own sake, even for mine own sake, will I do it : for how should my name be polluted? and I will not give my glory unto another.

12 Hearken unto me, O Jacob and Israel, my called ! I am he ; I am the first, I also am the last.

13 Mine hand also hath laid the foundation of the earth, and my right hand hath spread out the heavens : when I call unto them, they stand forth together.

14 All ye, assemble yourselves, and hear : which among them hath declared these things? The man whom the LORD loveth will do his pleasure on Babylon, and his chastisement on the Chaldeans.

15 I, even I, have spoken ; yea, I have called him : I have brought him, and he shall make his way prosperous.

- 16 Come ye near unto me, hear ye this: I have not spoken in secret from the beginning; from the time that it was, there am I. (And now the Lord GOD, and his Spirit, hath sent me.)
- 17 Thus saith the LORD, thy Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel: I am the LORD thy God which teacheth thee to profit, which leadeth thee by the way that thou shouldest go.
- 18 O that thou hadst hearkened to my commandments! then had thy peace been as a river, and thy righteousness as the waves of the sea:
- 19 Thy seed also had been as the sand, and the offspring of thy bowels like the grains thereof; his name should not have been cut off nor destroyed from before me.
- 20 Go ye forth of Babylon, flee ye from the Chaldeans, with a voice of singing declare ye, tell this, utter it even to the end of the earth! say ye: "The LORD hath redeemed his servant Jacob,
- 21 And they thirsted not when he led them through the deserts; he caused the waters to flow out of the rock for them; he clave the rock also, and the waters gushed out."
- 22 No peace, saith the LORD, unto the wicked!
- 49 LISTEN, O isles, unto me; and hearken, ye people, from far! The LORD hath called me from the womb: from the bowels of my mother hath he made mention of my name.

2 And he hath made my mouth like a sharp sword; in the shadow of his hand hath he hid me, and made me a polished shaft; in his quiver hath he hid me;

3 And said unto me, Thou art my servant, O Israel, in whom I will be glorified.

4 Then I said: I have laboured in vain, I have spent my strength for nought, and in vain; yet surely my righteousness is with the LORD, and my recompence with my God.

5 And now, saith the LORD that formed me from the womb to be his servant, to bring Jacob again to him, and that Israel may be gathered; (for I have honour in the eyes of the LORD, and my God is my strength;)

6 And he said: It is a small thing that thou shouldest be my servant to raise up the tribes of Jacob, and to restore the preserved of Israel; I will also give thee for a light to the Gentiles, that my salvation may be unto the ends of the earth!

7 Thus saith the LORD, the Redeemer of Israel, his Holy One, to him whom man despiseth, to him whom the people abhorreth, to a servant of tyrants: Kings shall see and arise, princes also shall worship, because of the LORD that is faithful, the Holy One of Israel, and he chose thee.

8 Thus saith the LORD: In an acceptable time have I heard thee, and in a day of salvation have I helped thee; and I will preserve thee, and give thee for a mediator of the people, to establish the land, to cause to inherit the desolate heritages;

9 That thou mayest say to the prisoners, Go forth! to them that are in darkness, Shew yourselves! They shall feed in the ways, and their pastures shall be in all high places;

10 They shall not hunger nor thirst, neither shall the heat nor sun smite them; for he that hath mercy on them shall lead them, even by the springs of water shall he guide them.

11 And I will make all my mountains a way, and my highways shall be cast up.

12 Behold, these shall come from far; and, lo, these from the north and from the west; and these from the land of Sinim.

13 Sing, O heavens, and be joyful, O earth, and break forth into singing, O mountains! for the LORD hath comforted his people, and doth have mercy upon his afflicted.

14 But Zion said: The LORD hath forsaken me, and my Lord hath forgotten me!—

- 15 Can a woman forget her sucking child, that she should not have compassion on the son of her womb? yea, they may forget, yet will I not forget thee!
- 16 Behold, I have graven thee upon the palms of my hands! thy walls are continually before me!
- 17 Thy children shall make haste; thy destroyers and they that made thee waste shall go forth of thee.
- 18 Lift up thine eyes round about, and behold! all these gather themselves together, and come to thee. As I live, saith the Lord, thou shalt surely clothe thee with them all, as with an ornament, and bind them on thee, as a bride doeth.
- 19 For thy waste and thy desolate places, and the land of thy destruction, shall now be too narrow by reason of the inhabitants, and they that swallowed thee up shall be far away.
- 20 The children which thou shalt have, after thou hast lost the other, shall say again in thine ears: The place is too strait for me; give place to me that I may dwell.
- 21 Then shalt thou say in thine heart: Who hath begotten me these, seeing I have lost my children, and am desolate, a captive, and removing to and fro? and who hath brought up these? Behold, I was left alone; these, where had they been?

22 Thus saith the Lord GOD: Behold, I will lift up mine hand to the Gentiles, and set up my standard to the nations; and they shall bring thy sons in their arms, and thy daughters shall be carried upon their shoulders.

23 And kings shall be thy nursing fathers, and their queens thy nursing mothers: they shall bow down to thee with their face toward the earth, and lick up the dust of thy feet; and thou shalt know that I am the LORD; for they shall not be ashamed that wait for me.—

24 Shall the prey be taken from the mighty, or the captivity of the righteous be loosed?—

25 But thus saith the LORD: Even the captives of the mighty shall be taken away, and the prey of the terrible shall be loosed: for I will contend with him that contendeth with thee, and I will save thy children.

26 And I will feed them that oppress thee with their own flesh, and they shall be drunken with their own blood, as with new wine; and all flesh shall know that I the LORD am thy Saviour, and thy Redeemer the mighty One of Jacob.

50 Thus saith the LORD, Where is the bill of your mother's divorcement, whom I have put away? or which of my creditors is it to whom I have sold you? Behold, for your iniquities have ye sold yourselves, and for your transgressions is your mother put away.

2 Wherefore, when I came, was there no man? when I called, was there none to answer? Is my hand shortened at all, that it cannot redeem? or have I no power to deliver? Behold, at my rebuke I dry up the sea, I make the rivers a wilderness; their fish stinketh, because there is no water, and dieth for thirst.

3 I clothe the heavens with blackness, and I make sackcloth their covering.

4 THE Lord GOD hath given me the tongue of the learned, that I should know how to speak a word in season to him that is weary: he wakeneth morning by morning, he wakeneth mine ear to hear as the learned.

5 The Lord GOD hath opened mine ear, and I was not rebellious, neither turned away back.

6 I gave my back to the smiters, and my cheeks to them that plucked off the hair: I hid not my face from shame and spitting.

7 For the Lord GOD will help me, therefore shall I not be confounded; therefore have I set my face like a flint, and I know that I shall not be ashamed.

8 He is near that justifieth me. Who will contend with me? let us stand together! who is mine adversary? let him come near to me!

9 Behold, the Lord GOD will help me; who is he that shall condemn me? lo, they all shall wax old as a garment, the moth shall eat them up.

10 Who is among you that feareth the LORD? let him obey the voice of his servant! that walketh in darkness, and hath no light? let him trust in the name of the LORD, and stay upon his God!

11 Behold, all ye that kindle a fire, that compass yourselves about with burning darts: get ye into the flame of your fire, and among the darts that ye have kindled! This shall ye have of mine hand: ye shall lie down in sorrow!

51 Hearken to me, ye that follow after righteousness, ye that seek the LORD! look unto the rock whence ye are hewn, and to the hole of the pit whence ye are digged.

2 Look unto Abraham your father, and unto Sarah that bare you; for I called him when he was alone, and blessed him, and increased him.

3 For the LORD shall comfort Zion, he will comfort all her waste places, and he will make her wilderness like Eden, and her desert like the garden of the LORD; joy and gladness shall be found therein, thanksgiving and the voice of melody.

- 4 Hearken unto me, my people, and give ear unto me, O my nation! for a law shall proceed from me, and I will make my judgment to rest for a light of the Gentiles.
- 5 My righteousness is near, my salvation is gone forth, and mine arms shall judge the people; far lands shall wait upon me, and on mine arm shall they trust.
- 6 Lift up your eyes to the heavens, and look upon the earth beneath! for the heavens shall vanish away like smoke, and the earth shall wax old like a garment, and they that dwell therein shall die in like manner; but my salvation shall be for ever, and my righteousness shall not be abolished.
- 7 Hearken unto me, ye that know righteousness, the people in whose heart is my law! fear ye not the reproach of men, neither be ye afraid of their revilings.
- 8 For the moth shall eat them up like a garment, and the worm shall eat them like wool; but my righteousness shall be for ever, and my salvation from generation to generation.
- 9 Awake, awake, put on strength, O arm of the LORD! awake, as in the ancient days, in the generations of old. Art thou not it that hath cut Rahab, and wounded the dragon?

10 Art thou not it which hath dried the sea, the waters of the great deep? that hath made the depths of the sea a way for the ransomed to pass over?

11 Even so the redeemed of the LORD shall return, and come with singing unto Zion, and everlasting joy shall be upon their head: they shall obtain gladness and joy, and sorrow and mourning shall flee away.

12 I, even I, am he that comforteth you! who art thou, that thou shouldest be afraid of a man that shall die, and of the son of man which shall be made as grass?

13 And forgettest the LORD thy maker, that hath stretched forth the heavens, and laid the foundations of the earth? and hast feared continually every day because of the fury of the oppressor, as if he were ready to destroy? and where is the fury of the oppressor?

14 The captive exile shall very soon be loosed; he shall not die in the pit, neither shall his bread fail.

15 For I am the LORD thy God, that divided the sea, whose waves roared: The LORD of hosts is his name.

- 16 And I have put my words in thy mouth, and I have covered thee in the shadow of mine hand, that I may plant the heavens, and lay the foundations of the earth, and say unto Zion: Thou art my people!
- 17 Awake, awake, stand up, O Jerusalem, which hast drunk at the hand of the LORD the cup of his fury! thou hast drunken the dregs of the cup of trembling, and wrung them out.
- 18 None to guide her among all the sons whom she hath brought forth! neither any to take her by the hand of all the sons that she hath brought up!
- 19 These two things are come unto thee: who shall be sorry for thee? desolation with destruction, and famine with the sword: by whom shall I comfort thee?
- 20 Thy sons have fainted, they lie at all corners of the streets, as a wild bull in a net: they are full of the fury of the LORD, the rebuke of thy God.
- 21 Therefore hear now this, thou afflicted, and drunken, but not with wine!
- 22 Thus saith thy Lord the LORD, and thy God that pleadeth the cause of his people: Behold, I have taken out of thine hand the cup of trembling, even the dregs of the cup of my fury; thou shalt no more drink it again:

23 But I will put it into the hand of them that afflict thee, which have said to thy soul, Bow down, that we may go over! and thou hast laid thy body as the ground, and as the street to them that went over.

52 Awake, awake, put on thy strength, O Zion! put on thy beautiful garments, O Jerusalem, the holy city! for henceforth there shall no more come into thee the uncircumcised and the unclean.

2 Shake thyself from the dust, arise, and sit up, O Jerusalem! loose thyself from the bands of thy neck, O captive daughter of Zion!

3 For thus saith the LORD: Ye have sold yourselves for nought, and ye shall be redeemed without money.

4 For thus saith the Lord GOD: My people went down aforetime into Egypt to sojourn there, and the Assyrian oppressed them for nought.

5 Now therefore what have I here, saith the LORD, that my people is taken away for nought? they that rule over them make them to howl, saith the LORD, and my name continually every day is blasphemed.

6 Therefore my people shall know my name: therefore they shall know in that day that I am he that doth speak: behold, it is I!

7 How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace! that bringeth good tidings of good, that publisheth salvation! that saith unto Zion, Thy God reigneth!

8 Thy watchmen lift up the voice, with the voice together do they sing; for eye to eye they do behold, how that the LORD doth bring again Zion.

9 Break forth into joy, sing together, ye waste places of Jerusalem! for the LORD hath comforted his people, he hath redeemed Jerusalem.

10 The LORD hath made bare his holy arm in the eyes of all the nations, and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God.

11 Depart ye, depart ye, go ye out from thence, touch no unclean thing! go ye out of the midst of her! be ye clean, that bear the vessels of the LORD!

12 For ye shall not go out with haste, nor go by flight; for the LORD will go before you, and the God of Israel will be your rereward.

13 Behold, my servant shall prosper, he shall be exalted and extolled, and be very high.

14 As many were astonished at thee—his visage was so marred more than any man, and his form more than the sons of men—

15 So shall many nations exult in him: kings shall shut their mouths before him: for that which had not been told them shall they see, and that which they had not heard shall they consider.

53 Who believed our report, and to whom was the arm of the LORD revealed?

2 For he grew up before him as a slender plant, and as a root out of a dry ground: he had no form nor comeliness, and when we saw him, there was no beauty that we should desire him.

3 He was despised and rejected of men, a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief; and we hid as it were our faces from him; he was despised, and we esteemed him not.

4 Surely he hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows! yet we did esteem him stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted.

5 But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him, and with his stripes we are healed.

6 All we like sheep were gone astray, we were turned every one to his own way; and the LORD hath laid on him the iniquity of us all.

7 He was oppressed, and he was afflicted, yet he opened not his mouth: as a lamb is brought to the slaughter, and as a sheep before her shearers is dumb, so he opened not his mouth.

8 He was taken from prison and from judgment; and who of his generation regarded it, why he was cut off out of the land of the living? for the transgression of my people was he stricken!

- 9 And he made his grave with the wicked, and with sinners in his death; although he had done no violence, neither was any deceit in his mouth.
- 10 Yet it pleased the LORD to bruise him; he hath put him to grief! When he hath made his soul an offering for sin, he shall see his seed, he shall prolong his days, and the pleasure of the LORD shall prosper in his hand:
- 11 He shall see of the travail of his soul, and shall be satisfied; by his knowledge shall my righteous servant justify many; for he shall bear their iniquities.
- 12 Therefore will I divide him his portion with the great, and he shall divide the spoil with the strong! because he hath poured out his soul unto death: and he was numbered with the transgressors; and he bare the sin of many, and made intercession for the transgressors.

54 SING, O barren, thou that didst not bear! break forth into singing, and cry aloud, thou that didst not travail with child! for more are the children of the desolate than the children of the married wife, saith the LORD.

- 2 Enlarge the place of thy tent, and let them stretch forth the curtains of thine habitations! spare not, lengthen thy cords, and strengthen thy stakes!
- 3 For thou shalt break forth on the right hand and on the left; and thy seed shall inherit the Gentiles, and make the desolate cities to be inhabited.
- 4 Fear not, for thou shalt not be ashamed! neither be thou confounded, for thou shalt not be put to shame! for thou shalt forget the shame of thy youth, and shalt not remember the reproach of thy widowhood any more.
- 5 For thy Maker is thine husband, the LORD of hosts is his name: and thy Redeemer the Holy One of Israel, the God of the whole earth shall he be called.
- 6 For the LORD hath called thee as a woman forsaken and grieved in spirit, and a wife of youth, when thou wast refused, saith thy God.
- 7 For a small moment have I forsaken thee, but with great mercies will I gather thee.
- 8 In a little wrath I hid my face from thee for a moment; but with everlasting kindness will I have mercy on thee, saith the LORD thy Redeemer.
- 9 For this is as the waters of Noah unto me; for as I have sworn that the waters of Noah should no more go over the earth, so have I sworn that I would not be wroth with thee, nor rebuke thee.

10 For the mountains shall depart, and the hills be removed ; but my kindness shall not depart from thee, neither shall the covenant of my peace be removed, saith the LORD that hath mercy on thee.

11 O thou afflicted, tossed with tempest, and not comforted ! behold, I will lay thy stones with fair colours, and lay thy foundations with sapphires ;

12 And I will make thy windows of agates, and thy gates of carbuncles, and all thy borders of pleasant stones.

13 And all thy children shall be taught of the LORD ; and great shall be the peace of thy children.

14 In righteousness shalt thou be established : be thou far from anguish, for thou shalt not fear ! and from terror, for it shall not come near thee !

15 Behold, if any gather together against thee, it is not by me : whosoever shall gather together against thee shall come over unto thy part.

16 Behold, I have created the smith that bloweth the coals in the fire, and that bringeth forth a weapon by his work ; and I have created the waster to destroy.

17 No weapon that is formed against thee shall prosper; and every tongue that shall rise against thee in judgment thou shalt condemn. This is the heritage of the servants of the LORD, and their righteousness of me, saith the LORD.

55 HO, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money! come ye, buy, and eat! yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price!

2 Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread, and your labour for that which satisfieth not? hearken diligently unto me, and eat ye that which is good, and let your soul
* delight itself in fatness.

3 Incline your ear, and come unto me! hear, and your soul shall live! and I will make an everlasting covenant with you, even the sure mercies of David.

4 Behold, I appointed him for a lawgiver to the nations, a prince and commander to the nations.

5 Behold, thou shalt call nations that thou knowest not, and nations that knew not thee shall run unto thee, because of the LORD thy God, and for the Holy One of Israel; for he hath glorified thee.

6 Seek ye the LORD while he may be found! call ye upon him while he is near!

- 7 Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the LORD, and he will have mercy upon him, and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon!
- 8 For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the LORD.
- 9 For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts.
- 10 For as the rain cometh down, and the snow from heaven, and returneth not thither, but watereth the earth, and maketh it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower, and bread to the eater:
- 11 So shall my word be that goeth forth out of my mouth; it shall not return unto me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it.
- 12 For ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace: the mountains and the hills shall break forth before you into singing, and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands.
- 13 Instead of the thorn shall come up the fir tree, and instead of the brier shall come up the myrtle tree; and it shall be to the LORD for a name, for an everlasting sign that shall not be cut off.

56 Thus saith the LORD : Keep ye judgment, and do justice ! for my salvation is near to come, and my righteousness to be revealed.

2 Blessed is the man that doeth this, and the son of man that layeth hold on it ! that keepeth the sabbath from polluting it, and keepeth his hand from doing any evil.

3 Neither let the son of the stranger, that hath joined himself to the LORD, speak, saying, The LORD hath utterly separated me from his people ! neither let the eunuch say, Behold, I am a dry tree !

4 For thus saith the Lord unto the eunuchs that keep my sabbaths, and choose the things that please me, and take hold of my covenant :

5 Even unto them will I give in mine house and within my walls a place and a name better than of sons and of daughters ; I will give them an everlasting name, that shall not be cut off.

6 Also the sons of the stranger, that join themselves to the LORD, to serve him, and to love the name of the LORD, to be his servants, every one that keepeth the sabbath from polluting it, and taketh hold of my covenant ;

7 Even them will I bring to my holy mountain, and make them joyful in my house of prayer : their burnt offerings and their sacrifices shall be accepted upon mine altar ; for mine house shall be called an house of prayer for all people.

8 The Lord GOD, which gathereth the outcasts of Israel, saith : Yet will I gather others to him, beside those that are gathered unto him.

9 ALL ye beasts of the field, come to devour, yea, all ye beasts of the forest !

10 His watchmen are blind, they are all ignorant ; they are all dumb dogs, they cannot bark ; sleeping, lying down, loving to slumber.

11 Yea, they are greedy dogs which can never have enough, and they are shepherds that cannot understand : they all look to their own way, every one for his gain, one and all of them.

12 Come, say they, I will fetch wine, and we will fill ourselves with strong drink ; and to morrow shall be as this day, and much more abundant.

57 The righteous perisheth, and no man layeth it to heart ; and merciful men are taken away, none considering that the righteous is taken away because of the evil.

2 He shall enter into peace ! they shall rest in their beds, whoso walked in his uprightness.

3 But draw near hither, ye sons of the sorceress, the seed of the adulterer and the whore !

4 Against whom do ye sport yourselves ? against

- whom make ye a wide mouth, and draw out the tongue? are ye not children of transgression, a seed of falsehood;
- 5 Enflaming yourselves with idols under every green tree, slaying the children in the valleys under the cliffs of the rocks?
- 6 Among the smooth stones of the valley is thy portion; they, they are thy lot! even to them hast thou poured a drink offering, thou hast offered a meat offering. Should I receive comfort in these?
- 7 Upon a lofty and high mountain hast thou set thy bed: even thither wentest thou up to offer sacrifice.
- 8 Behind the doors also and the posts hast thou set up thy remembrance: thou hast discovered thyself to another than me, and art gone up; thou hast enlarged thy bed, and made thee a covenant with them; thou lovedst their bed where thou sawest it.
- 9 And thou wentest unto Moloch with ointment, and didst increase thy perfumes, and didst send thy messengers far off, and didst go down even deep into hell.
- 10 Thou art wearied in the greatness of thy way, yet saidst thou not, There is no hope! thou hast yet found strength in thine hand, therefore thou wast not discouraged.

- 11 And of whom hast thou been afraid or feared, that thou hast lied, and hast not remembered me, nor laid it to thy heart? have not I held my peace even of old? and thou fearest me not.
- 12 I declare thy salvation! and thy handiwork, it shall not profit thee.
- 13 When thou criest, let thy companies of idols deliver thee! but the wind shall carry them all away, vanity shall take them. But he that putteth his trust in me shall possess the land, and shall inherit my holy mountain.
- 14 Thus shall it be said: Cast ye up, cast ye up, prepare the way, take the stumblingblock out of the way of my people!
- 15 For thus saith the high and lofty One that inhabiteth eternity, whose name is Holy: I dwell in the high and holy place, with him also that is of a contrite and humble spirit, to revive the spirit of the humble, and to revive the heart of the contrite ones.
- 16 For I will not contend for ever, neither will I be always wroth; for the spirit should fail before me, and the souls which I have made.
- 17 For the iniquity of his covetousness was I wroth, and smote him: I hid me, and was wroth, and he went on frowardly in the way of his heart.

- 18 I have seen his ways, and will heal him! I will lead him also, and restore comforts unto him and to his mourners.
- 19 I create the fruit of the lips! Peace, peace to him that is far off, and to him that is near, saith the LORD, and I will heal him!
- 20 But the wicked are like the troubled sea, when it cannot rest, whose waters cast up mire and dirt.
- 21 No peace, saith my God, to the wicked!

58 CRY aloud, spare not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet, and shew my people their transgression, and the house of Jacob their sins!

2 Yet they seek me daily, and desire to know my ways, as a nation that did righteousness, and forsook not the ordinance of their God: they ask of me the ordinances of judgment, they desire that God should draw nigh to them.

3 Wherefore have we fasted, say they, and thou seest not? wherefore have we afflicted our soul, and thou takest no knowledge? — Behold, in the day of your fast ye find pleasure, and exact all your labours!

4 Behold, ye fast for strife and debate, and to smite with the fist of wickedness! your fast this day is not a fast, to make your voice to be heard on high.

- 5 Is it such a fast that I have chosen? such a day that a man doth afflict his soul? is it to bow down his head as a bulrush, and to spread sackcloth and ashes under him? wilt thou call this a fast, and an acceptable day to the LORD?
- 6 Is not this the fast that I have chosen? to loose the bands of wickedness, to undo the heavy burdens, and to let the oppressed go free, and that ye break every yoke?
- 7 Is it not to deal thy bread to the hungry, and that thou bring the poor that are cast out to thy house? when thou seest the naked, that thou cover him; and that thou hide not thyself from thine own flesh?
- 8 Then shall thy light break forth as the morning, and thine health shall spring forth speedily, and thy righteousness shall go before thee, the glory of the LORD shall be thy reward.
- 9 Then shalt thou call, and the LORD shall answer; thou shalt cry, and he shall say, Here I am! If thou take away from the midst of thee the yoke, the putting forth of the finger, and speaking vanity;
- 10 And if thou draw out thy soul to the hungry, and satisfy the afflicted soul; then shall thy light rise in obscurity, and thy darkness be as the noon day.

- 11 And the LORD shall guide thee continually, and satisfy thy soul in drought, and make fat thy bones; and thou shalt be like a watered garden, and like a spring of water, whose waters fail not.
- 12 And they that shall be of thee shall build the old waste places: thou shalt raise up the ruins of many generations; and thou shalt be called, The repairer of the breach, The restorer of paths to dwell in.
- 13 If thou turn away thy foot from the sabbath, from doing thy pleasure on my holy day, and call the sabbath a delight, the holy of the LORD, honourable; and shalt honour him, not doing thine own ways, nor finding thine own pleasure, nor speaking thine own words;
- 14 Then shalt thou delight thyself in the LORD, and I will cause thee to ride upon the high places of the earth, and feed thee with the heritage of Jacob thy father; for the mouth of the LORD hath spoken it.
- 59 Behold, the LORD'S hand is not shortened, that it cannot save, neither his ear heavy, that it cannot hear;
- 2 But your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hid his face from you, that he will not hear.

- 3 For your hands are defiled with blood, and your fingers with iniquity; your lips have spoken lies, your tongue hath muttered perverseness.
- 4 None calleth for justice, nor any pleadeth for truth: they trust in vanity, and speak lies; they conceive mischief, and bring forth iniquity.
- 5 They hatch cockatrice' eggs, and weave the spider's web: he that eateth of their eggs dieth, and that which is crushed breaketh out into a viper.
- 6 Their webs shall not become garments, neither shall they cover themselves with their works: their works are works of iniquity, and the act of violence is in their hands.
- 7 Their feet run to evil, and they make haste to shed innocent blood: their thoughts are thoughts of iniquity; wasting and destruction are in their paths.
- 8 The way of peace they know not, and there is no right in their goings: they have made them crooked paths; whosoever goeth therein shall not know peace.
- 9 Therefore is judgment far from us, neither doth justice overtake us: we wait for light, but behold obscurity; for brightness, but we walk in darkness.
- 10 We grope for the wall like the blind, and we grope as if we had no eyes: we stumble at noon day as in the night; we are in desolate places as dead men.

11 We roar all like bears, and moan sore like doves: we look for judgment, but there is none; for salvation, but it is far off from us.

12 For our transgressions are multiplied before thee, and our sins testify against us; for our transgressions are with us, and as for our iniquities, we know them;

13 In transgressing and lying against the LORD, and departing away from our God, speaking oppression and revolt, conceiving and uttering from the heart words of falsehood.

14 And justice is turned away backward, and righteousness standeth afar off; for truth is fallen in the street, and equity cannot enter.

15 Yea, truth faileth! and he that departeth from evil maketh himself a prey.

And the LORD saw it, and it displeased him that there was no judgment.

16 And he saw that there was no man, and wondered that there was no intercessor: therefore his arm brought salvation unto him, and his righteousness, it sustained him.

17 For he put on righteousness as a breastplate, and an helmet of salvation upon his head; and he put on the garments of vengeance for clothing, and was clad with zeal as a cloak.

18 According to their deeds, accordingly he will repay; fury to his adversaries, recompence to his enemies; to the far lands he will repay recompence.

19 So shall they fear the name of the LORD from the west, and his glory from the rising of the sun, when the enemy shall come in like a flood, whom the Spirit of the LORD shall drive.

20 And a redeemer shall come to Zion, and unto them that turn from transgression in Jacob, saith the LORD.

21 As for me, this is my covenant with them, saith the LORD: My spirit that is upon thee, and my words which I have put in thy mouth, shall not depart out of thy mouth, nor out of the mouth of thy seed, nor out of the mouth of thy seed's seed, saith the LORD, from henceforth and for ever.

60 ARISE, shine, for thy light is come, and the glory of the LORD is risen upon thee!

2 For, behold, darkness doth cover the earth, and gross darkness the nations! but the LORD shall arise upon thee, and his glory shall be seen upon thee.

- 3 And the Gentiles shall come to thy light, and kings to the brightness of thy rising.
- 4 Lift up thine eyes round about, and see! all they gather themselves together, they come to thee! thy sons shall come from far, and thy daughters shall be carried upon the arm.
- 5 Then thou shalt see and rejoice, and thine heart shall flutter and be enlarged; because the abundance of the sea shall be converted unto thee, the treasures of the Gentiles shall come unto thee.
- 6 The multitude of camels shall cover thee, the dromedaries of Midian and Ephah; all they from Sheba shall come, they shall bring gold and incense, and they shall shew forth the praises of the LORD.
- 7 All the flocks of Kedar shall be gathered together unto thee, the rams of Nebaioth shall minister unto thee: they shall come up with acceptance on mine altar, and I will glorify the house of my glory.
- 8 —Who are these that fly as a cloud, and as the doves to their windows?
- 9 Surely the isles do wait upon me, and the ships of Tarshish in front, to bring thy sons from far, their silver and their gold with them, for the name of the LORD thy God, and for the Holy One of Israel, because he hath glorified thee!

- 10 And the sons of strangers shall build up thy walls, and their kings shall minister unto thee; for in my wrath I smote thee, but in my favour have I had mercy on thee.
- 11 Therefore thy gates shall be open continually, they shall not be shut day nor night; that men may bring unto thee the treasures of the Gentiles, and that their kings may be brought.
- 12 For the nation and kingdom that will not serve thee shall perish; yea, those nations shall be utterly wasted.
- 13 The glory of Lebanon shall come unto thee, the cypress tree, the pine tree, and the box together, to beautify the place of my sanctuary; and I will make the place of my feet glorious.
- 14 The sons also of them that afflicted thee shall come bending unto thee; and all they that despised thee shall bow themselves down at the soles of thy feet, and they shall call thee, The city of the LORD, the Zion of the Holy One of Israel.
- 15 Whereas thou hast been forsaken and hated, so that no man went through thee, I will make thee an eternal excellency, a joy of many generations.
- 16 Thou shalt also suck the milk of the Gentiles, and shalt suck the breast of kings; and thou shalt know that I the LORD am thy Saviour, and thy Redeemer the mighty One of Jacob.

- 17 For brass I will bring gold, and for iron I will bring silver, and for wood brass, and for stones iron: I will also make thy officers peace, and thine exactors righteousness.
- 18 Violence shall no more be heard in thy land, wasting nor destruction within thy borders; but thou shalt call thy walls Salvation, and thy gates Praise.
- 19 The sun shall be no more thy light by day, neither for brightness shall the moon give light unto thee; but the LORD shall be unto thee an everlasting light, and thy God thy glory.
- 20 Thy sun shall no more go down, neither shall thy moon withdraw itself; for the LORD shall be thine everlasting light, and the days of thy mourning shall be ended.
- 21 Thy people also shall be all righteous; they shall inherit the land for ever: the branch of my planting, the work of my hands, that I may be glorified.
- 22 A little one shall become a thousand, and a small one a strong nation: I the LORD will hasten it in his time.

61 THE Spirit of the Lord GOD is upon me; because the LORD hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the afflicted ; he hath sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound ;

2 To proclaim the acceptable year of the LORD, and the day of vengeance of our God ; to comfort all that mourn ;

3 To appoint unto them that mourn in Zion, to give unto them beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness ; that they might be called trees of righteousness, the planting of the LORD, that he might be glorified.

4 And they shall build the old wastes, they shall raise up the former desolations, and they shall repair the waste cities, the desolations of many generations.

5 And strangers shall stand and feed your flocks, and the sons of the alien shall be your plowmen and your vinedressers.

6 But ye shall be named the Priests of the LORD : men shall call you the Ministers of our God : ye shall eat the riches of the Gentiles, and in their glory shall ye boast yourselves.

7 For your shame ye shall have double ; and for confusion shall my people rejoice in their portion :

therefore in their land they shall possess the double ; everlasting joy shall be unto them.

8 For I the LORD love judgment, I hate robbery and wrong ; and I will give them their reward in truth, and I will make an everlasting covenant with them.

9 And their seed shall be known among the Gentiles, and their offspring among the people : all that see them shall acknowledge them, that they are the seed which the LORD hath blessed.

10 I WILL greatly rejoice in the LORD, my soul shall be joyful in my God ; for he hath clothed me with the garments of salvation, he hath covered me with the robe of righteousness, as a bridegroom decketh himself with ornaments, and as a bride adorneth herself with her jewels.

11 For as the earth bringeth forth her bud, and as the garden causeth the things that are sown in it to spring forth ; so the Lord GOD will cause righteousness and praise to spring forth before all the nations.

62 For Zion's sake will I not hold my peace, and for Jerusalem's sake I will not rest, until the righteousness thereof go forth as brightness, and the salvation thereof as a lamp that burneth.

2 And the Gentiles shall see thy righteousness, and all kings thy glory; and thou shalt be called by a new name, which the mouth of the LORD shall name.

- 3 Thou shalt also be a crown of glory in the hand of the LORD, and a royal diadem in the hand of thy God.
- 4 Thou shalt no more be termed Forsaken, neither shall thy land any more be termed Desolate; but thou shalt be called My delight is in her, and thy land Married; for the LORD delighteth in thee, and thy land shall be married.
- 5 For as a young man marrieth a virgin, so shall thy sons marry thee; and as the bridegroom rejoiceth over the bride, so shall thy God rejoice over thee.
- 6 —‘I have set watchmen upon thy walls, O Jerusalem, which shall never hold their peace day nor night.’—Ye that are the LORD’S remembrancers, keep not silence,
- 7 And give him no rest, till he establish, and till he make Jerusalem a praise in the earth!
- 8 The LORD hath sworn by his right hand, and by the arm of his strength: Surely I will no more give thy corn to be meat for thine enemies, and the sons of the stranger shall not drink thy wine for the which thou hast laboured!
- 9 But they that have harvested it shall eat it, and praise the LORD ; and they that have gathered thy wine shall drink it, in the courts of my holiness.

10 Go through, go through the gates ; prepare ye the way of the people ! cast up, cast up the highway ! gather out the stones ! lift up a standard for the nations !

11 Behold, the LORD hath proclaimed unto the end of the world : Say ye to the daughter of Zion, Behold, thy salvation cometh ! behold, his reward is with him, and his recompence before him !

12 And they shall call them, The holy people, The redeemed of the LORD ; and thou shalt be called, Sought out, A city not forsaken.

63 WHO is this that cometh from Edom, with dyed garments from Bozrah ? this that is glorious in his apparel, travelling in the greatness of his strength ? — ‘ I that speak in righteousness, mighty to save. ’ —

2 Wherefore art thou red in thine apparel, and thy garments like him that treadeth in the winefat ?

3 — ‘ I have trodden the winepress alone, and of the nations there was none with me ; then trod I them in mine anger, and trampled them in my fury, and their blood was sprinkled upon my garments, and I have stained all my raiment.

4 ‘ For the day of vengeance is in mine heart, and the year of my redeemed is come.

- 5 'And I looked, and there was none to help, and I wondered that there was none to uphold ; therefore mine own arm brought salvation unto me, and my fury, it upheld me.
- 6 'And I tread down the people in mine anger, and make them drunk in my fury, and I bring down their strength to the earth.'—
- 7 I WILL mention the lovingkindnesses of the LORD, and the praises of the LORD, according to all that the LORD hath bestowed on us ; and the great goodness toward the house of Israel, which he hath bestowed on them according to his mercies, and according to the multitude of his loving kindnesses.
- 8 For he said, Surely they are my people, children that will not lie ! so he was their Saviour.
- 9 In all their affliction he was afflicted, and the angel of his presence saved them : in his love and in his pity he redeemed them ; and he bare them and carried them all the days of old.
- 10 But they rebelled, and vexed his holy Spirit ; therefore he was turned to be their enemy, and he fought against them.
- 11 Then remembered his people the days of old and Moses, saying : Where is he that brought them up out of the sea with the shepherd of his flock ? where is he that put his holy Spirit within them ?

- 12 That led them by the right hand of Moses with his glorious arm, dividing the water before them, to make himself an everlasting name?
- 13 That led them through the deep, as an horse in the desert, and they did not stumble?
- 14 As a beast goeth down into the valley, the Spirit of the LORD caused them to rest: so didst thou lead thy people, to make thyself a glorious name.
- 15 Look down from heaven, and behold from the habitation of thy holiness and of thy glory! where is thy zeal and thy strength, the sounding of thy bowels and of thy mercies toward me? are they restrained?
- 16 Doubtless thou art our father, though Abraham be ignorant of us, and Israel acknowledge us not! thou, O LORD, art our Father! our Redeemer is thy name from everlasting!
- 17 O LORD, why hast thou made us to err from thy ways, and hardened our heart from thy fear? Return for thy servants' sake, the tribes of thine inheritance!
- 18 The people of thy holiness have had possession but a little while: our adversaries have trodden down thy sanctuary.
- 19 We are thine! thou never barest rule over them; they were not called by thy name.
- 64 Oh that thou wouldest rend the heavens, that thou wouldest come down! that the mountains might flow down at thy presence,

2 As the fire burneth the stubble, the fire causeth the water to boil! to make thy name known to thine adversaries, that the nations may tremble at thy presence!

3 When thou didst terrible things which we looked not for, thou camest down, the mountains flowed down at thy presence.

4 For since the beginning of the world men have not heard, nor perceived by the ear, neither hath the eye seen, O God, beside thee, who hath prepared such things for him that waiteth for him.

5 Thou meetest him that rejoiceth and worketh righteousness, those that remember thee in thy ways.

Behold, thou art wroth (for we have sinned) with thy people continually!—and shall we be saved?

6 We are all even as the unclean, and all our righteousnesses are as filthy rags; and we all are faded as a leaf, and our iniquities, like the wind, do take us away.

7 And there is none that calleth upon thy name, that stirreth up himself to take hold of thee; for thou hast hid thy face from us, and hast consumed us, because of our iniquities.

8 But now, O LORD, thou art our father! we are the clay, and thou our potter, and we all are the work of thy hand.

- 9 Be not wroth very sore, O LORD, neither remember iniquity for ever! behold, see, we beseech thee, we are all thy people!
- 10 Thy holy cities are a wilderness, Zion is a wilderness, Jerusalem a desolation.
- 11 Our holy and our beautiful house, where our fathers praised thee, is burned up with fire; and all our pleasant things are laid waste.
- 12 Wilt thou refrain thyself for these things, O LORD? wilt thou hold thy peace, and afflict us very sore?

65 I GAVE ear to them that asked not for me, I am found of them that sought me not. I said, Behold me, behold me, unto a nation that called not upon my name.

- 2 I have spread out my hands all the day unto a rebellious people, which walketh in a way not good, after their own thoughts;
- 3 A people that provoketh me to anger continually to my face; that sacrificeth in the gardens, and burneth incense upon the tiles;
- 4 Which remain among the graves, and lodge in the monuments; which eat swine's flesh, and broth of abominable things is in their vessels;

- 5 Which say: Stand by thyself, come not near to me, for I am holier than thou! These are a smoke in my nose, a fire that burneth all the day.
- 6 Behold, it is written before me; I will not keep silence, but will recompense, even recompense into their bosom,
- 7 Your iniquities, and the iniquities of your fathers together, saith the LORD, which have burned incense upon the mountains, and blasphemed me upon the hills; therefore will I measure the reward of their former work into their bosom.
- 8 Thus saith the LORD: As the new wine is found in the grape-cluster, and one saith, Destroy it not, for a blessing is in it! so will I do for my servants' sakes, that I may not destroy them all.
- 9 And I will bring forth a seed out of Jacob, and out of Judah an inheritor of my mountains; and mine elect shall inherit it, and my servants shall dwell there.
- 10 And Sharon shall be a fold of flocks, and the valley of Achor a place for the herds to lie down in, for my people that have sought me.
- 11 But ye are they that forsake the LORD, that forget my holy mountain, that prepare a table for Fortune, and that furnish the drink-offering unto that which destineth.

- 12 Therefore will I destine you to the sword, and ye shall all bow down to the slaughter; because when I called, ye did not answer, when I spake, ye did not hear, but did evil before mine eyes, and did choose that wherein I delighted not.
- 13 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD: Behold, my servants shall eat, but ye shall be hungry; behold, my servants shall drink, but ye shall be thirsty; behold, my servants shall rejoice, but ye shall be ashamed;
- 14 Behold, my servants shall sing for joy of heart, but ye shall cry for sorrow of heart, and shall howl for vexation of spirit.
- 15 And ye shall leave your name for a curse unto my chosen; for the Lord GOD shall slay you, and call his servants by another name;
- 16 That he who blesseth himself in the earth shall bless himself in the God of truth, and he that sweareth in the earth shall swear by the God of truth; because the former troubles are forgotten, and because they are hid from mine eyes.
- 17 For, behold, I create new heavens and a new earth; and the former shall not be remembered, nor come into mind.
- 18 But be ye glad and rejoice for ever in that which I create; for, behold, I create Jerusalem a rejoicing, and her people a joy!

- 19 And I will rejoice in Jerusalem, and joy in my people; and the voice of weeping shall be no more heard in her, nor the voice of crying.
- 20 There shall be no more thence an infant of days, nor an old man that hath not filled his days; for the child shall die an hundred years old, and the sinner being an hundred years old shall be accursed.
- 21 And they shall build houses, and inhabit them; and they shall plant vineyards, and eat the fruit of them.
- 22 They shall not build, and another inhabit; they shall not plant, and another eat; for as the days of a tree are the days of my people, and mine elect shall long enjoy the work of their hands.
- 23 They shall not labour in vain, nor bring forth for trouble; for they are the seed of the blessed of the LORD, and their offspring with them.
- 24 And it shall come to pass, that before they call, I will answer; and while they are yet speaking, I will hear.
- 25 The wolf and the lamb shall feed together, and the lion shall eat straw like the bullock, and dust shall be the serpent's meat. They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain, saith the LORD.

- 66 THUS saith the LORD: The heaven is my throne, and the earth is my footstool; where is the house that ye build unto me, and where is the place of my rest?
- 2 For all those things hath mine hand made, and all those things were, saith the LORD; but to this man will I look, even to him that is meek and of a contrite spirit, and trembleth at my word.
- 3 He that killeth an ox is the same that slayeth a man; he that sacrificeth a lamb, the same that cutteth a dog's throat; he that offereth an oblation, offereth swine's blood; he that burneth incense, is he that blesseth an idol. Yea, they have chosen their own ways, and their soul delighteth in their abominations!
- 4 I also will choose to mock them, and will bring their fears upon them; because when I called, none did answer, when I spake, they did not hear; but they did evil before mine eyes, and chose that in which I delighted not.
- 5 Hear the word of the LORD, ye that tremble at his word: Your brethren that hated you, that cast you out for my name's sake, said, Let the LORD be glorified, and let your joy appear! but they shall be ashamed.
- 6 —A voice of noise from the city, a voice from the temple, a voice of the LORD that rendereth recompence to his enemies!

7 Before she travailed, she brought forth : before her pain came, she was delivered of a man child.

8 Who hath heard such a thing? who hath seen such things? Shall a land be brought forth in one day, or shall a nation be born at once? for as soon as Zion travailed, she brought forth her children.

9 Shall I bring to the birth, and not cause to bring forth? saith the LORD; shall I cause to bring forth, and shut the womb? saith thy God.

10 Rejoice ye with Jerusalem, and be glad with her, all ye that love her! rejoice for joy with her, all ye that mourn for her!

11 That ye may suck, and be satisfied with the breasts of her consolations; that ye may milk out, and be delighted with the abundance of her glory.

12 For thus saith the LORD : Behold, I will extend peace to her like a river, and the glory of the Gentiles like a flowing stream : then shall ye suck, ye shall be borne upon her sides, and be dandled upon her knees.

13 As one whom his mother comforteth, so will I comfort you, and ye shall be comforted in Jerusalem.

- 14 And when ye see this, your heart shall rejoice, and your bones shall flourish like an herb ; and the hand of the LORD shall be known toward his servants, and his indignation toward his enemies.
- 15 For, behold, the LORD will come with fire, and with his chariots like a whirlwind, to render his anger with fury, and his rebuke with flames of fire.
- 16 For by fire and by his sword will the LORD plead with all flesh, and the slain of the LORD shall be many.
- 17 They that sanctify themselves, and purify themselves in the gardens behind one chief in the midst, eating swine's flesh, and the abomination, and the mouse, shall be consumed together, saith the LORD.
- 18 For I know their works and their thoughts.

IT shall come, that I will gather all nations and tongues ; and they shall come, and see my glory.

- 19 And I will set a sign among them, and I will send those that escape of them unto the nations, to Tarshish, Phul and Lud that draw the bow, to Tubal and Javan, to the isles afar off, that have not heard my fame, neither have seen my glory ; and they shall declare my glory among the Gentiles.

- 20 And they shall bring all your brethren for an offering unto the LORD out of all nations upon horses, and in chariots, and in litters, and upon mules, and upon dromedaries, to my holy mountain Jerusalem, saith the LORD, as the children of Israel bring an offering in a clean vessel into the house of the LORD.
- 21 And of them also will I take for priests and for Levites, saith the LORD.
- 22 For as the new heavens and the new earth, which I will make, shall remain before me, saith the LORD, so shall your seed and your name remain.
- 23 And it shall come to pass, that from one new moon to another, and from one sabbath to another, shall all flesh come to worship before me, saith the LORD.
- 24 And they shall go forth, and look upon the carcasses of the men that have transgressed against me; for their worm shall not die, neither shall their fire be quenched, and they shall be an abhorring unto all flesh.

NOTES.

CHAPTER 40.

FOR the circumstances under which this Chapter opens see the Note following the Introduction.

The Greek Version mentioned in these notes is that of the Septuagint, or Seventy, begun at Alexandria in the third century before Christ, but not completed till the following century. It is the version which we find generally used and quoted in the New Testament. The Vulgate is the Latin Version of St. Jerome, made from the Hebrew at the beginning of the fifth century after Christ. It is the authorised version of the Church of Rome, and up to the Reformation was the Bible of Christendom; only for the Psalms a yet earlier Latin version, made from the Greek, not the Hebrew, and merely corrected by Jerome, maintained its ground; of this version the Latin headings to the Psalms in the Prayer-Book are relics. The Chaldaic Version and paraphrase was formerly thought to be nearly contemporary with the Christian era, or a little anterior to it; a considerable weight of opinion now, however, seems to be in favour of assigning this version to the third and fourth centuries after Christ. In any case it possesses great interest, having been made by learned Jews, in an idiom akin to the Hebrew, and which was the idiom in common use in Palestine at the Christian era. In this idiom were interpreted the Scriptures at those 'readings in the Synagogue every Sabbath-day' which we find mentioned in the New Testament; and much of these old interpretations and explanations is probably incorporated in the Chaldaic paraphrase. Other versions will be mentioned in the following notes, but they do not require special remark here.

1. Comfort ye, comfort ye my people.—Sometimes my people is erroneously taken for the nominative of address, as if the meaning were: Be comforted, my people. It is not so: the prophets are commanded to comfort the people. 'Prophets, prophesy consolations,' is the opening in the Chaldaic version. And in the Greek the word priests is supplied at the beginning of the second verse. But the right word to supply is prophets.

6. And he said, What shall I cry?—He is the prophet to whom the command to cry came. The Greek and the Vulgate have I said; the Arabic version supplies, as a subject to said, the words He who was commanded. But this is not necessary. The air is full of inspiration, of divine calls and prophetic voices, and the forms of expression are naturally rapid and elliptical. After a pause, it is given to the prophet what he shall cry.

9. O thou.—Here the opening ends, and the main subject,—Israel's restoration by the Almighty God of Israel,—is directly entered on.

15. The isles.—See note on verse 1 of the following chapter.

16. And Lebanon is not sufficient to burn.—The trees of Lebanon are not enough for wood on the fire of sacrifice.

18. To whom then will ye liken God?—How should the image-deities of idolatrous Babylon be compared to this almighty and unsearchable God of Israel?

20. He that is too poor for oblation.—Probably a contrast is intended between the costly idol of metal and the cheaper idol of wood, just as we find the two kinds of idols put side by side again at c. 44, vv. 12–17. So blinded are these heathens, the Prophet means, that every man must have his idol; he who is too poor for oblation, who is still more, therefore, too poor to have his molten image with work of silver and gold, will yet have his image of wood.

23. That bringeth the princes to nothing.—After these words, in order to complete the sense, Have ye not known him? should be repeated from v. 21.

26. Their host.—The host of the stars.

27. Why sayest thou, O Jacob.—How then can Jacob and Israel be faint-hearted, or despair of their restoration, when this unmatched, all-powerful, unwearying God is their God? Compare c. 49, v. 14.

ib. My judgment is passed over.—Is neglected. My God neglects (Israel is supposed to say) to judge my cause and to give sentence for me.

CHAPTER 41.

To make still clearer the contrast between the power and wisdom of the God of Israel and of the gods of the heathen, these latter are challenged to show and compare their performances beside His.

1. O islands.—Literally, coast-lands, with especial reference to the coasts and islands of the Mediterranean, and, as these were westerly to the Jews, to the west; but used also generally in the sense of far lands, distant regions.

1. Renew their strength.—Collect all their force to answer me.

2. The man.—The man called is Cyrus, from Persia, which is easterly both to Babylonia and to Palestine. Cyrus had the character of a mild and just prince; and Xenophon, the Greek historian, chose him for his ideal of a virtuous ruler. The Persians themselves said, according to Herodotus, that Darius was a hucksterer, Cambyses a master, but Cyrus a father. But it specially weighed, besides, with the Jews, that his religion, the religion of Persia, rejected and forbade idols like the religion of Israel. With this character to mark his religion, and pursuing, too, a policy favourable to the Jews, Cyrus came to be spoken of by them almost as a servant of the true God like themselves. See Ezra i. 2: 'Thus saith Cyrus King of Persia, The Lord God of heaven hath given me all the kingdoms of the earth.'

ib. Gave the nations before him.—First the kingdom of the Medes, then Lydia the kingdom of the rich Cræsus, and the Greek cities of Asia Minor; all conquered by Cyrus before his enterprise against Babylon.

3. Even by the way that he had not gone.—Even in his marches through new and unknown countries Cyrus was guided prosperously to his goal, as God's instrument.

8. But thou, Israel.—Amid the conquest, panic, and hurried recourse of the heathens to their idols, Israel has a secure upholder and restorer in the Lord his God.

17. When the poor and needy seek water.—On the march of the suffering exiles through the desert between Babylon and the Holy Land, in the promised and approaching return of the Jews to their country. In these regions water is almost the first object of a man's thoughts. The Ghassanides, one of the most powerful divisions of the Arabian race, took their name from a spring of water they fell in with on their march across the desert from Arabia into Syria. God promises his people to provide water in the wilderness and on the bare highlands for them, and verdure in the desert, that their return may be made easier.

21. Produce your cause.—Israel having been exhorted and encouraged, the discourse turns again to the heathen and their false gods, who had been challenged to a competition with the Lord.

22. Let them shew the former things.—Let the gods of the heathen show what counsel and warning they have given to their dependents in former times, and let us see whether it has been verified; or let them give some counsel and warning to them now, and let us see whether it will be verified.

25. One from the north, and . . . from the rising of the sun.—Cyrus from Persia, which is to the north and east of Babylon.

26. Who hath declared.—Who of the false gods can point to warnings and prophecies fulfilled, as the God of Israel can? What have they to produce like the Lord's sentence passed two hundred years ago on Assyria in its pride of power: 'When the Lord hath performed his whole work upon Mount Zion and on Jerusalem, I will punish the fruit of the stout heart of the king of Assyria, and the glory of his high looks' (Isaiah x. 12),—and since fulfilled in Assyria's fall? What can they produce like the Lord's sentence passed sixty years ago on Babylon in its pride of power: 'I will punish the king of Babylon and that nation for their iniquity, and the land of the Chaldeans, and will make it a perpetual desolation' (Jeremiah xxv. 12),—and now being fulfilled in Babylon's danger and fast-approaching fall? Nothing of this kind can they produce, and they are all vanity.

27. I gave to Jerusalem.—Israel had prophets and true counsellors from his God, while the heathen from their false gods had none.

CHAPTER 42.

Israel, the object of this divine favour and these divine purposes, is now more closely considered, his true mode of working is declared, his blindness and shortcomings are reproved.

1. Behold my servant, whom I uphold; mine elect.—

The Greek supplies, 'Jacob my servant, Israel mine elect.' The whole passage, vv. 1-4, is applied to Christ in the New Testament, St. Matth. xii. 17-21; but neither the Greek version nor the Hebrew original are there closely followed. The occasion of quoting the passage is Jesus Christ's charge to those whom he healed that they should not make him known, the point primarily to be illustrated being Christ's mild, silent, and uncontentious manner of working.

2. He shall not strive.—More literally, shall not clamour: shall not speak with the high, vehement voice of men who contend. God's servant shall bring to men's hearts the word of God's righteousness and salvation by a gentle, inward, and spiritual method.

3. A bruised reed.—Suffering and failing hearts he shall treat tenderly, and restore them by mildness, not severity.

6. For a mediator of the people, for the light of the Gentiles.—We are familiar with the application of this to Christ; but it is said in the first instance of the ideal Israel, immediately represented to the speaker by God's faithful prophets bent on declaring his commandments and promises, and by the pious part of the nation, persisting, in spite of their exile among an idolatrous people, in their reliance on God and in their pure worship of him. The ideal Israel, thus conceived, was to be God's mediator with the more backward mass of the Jewish nation, and the bringer of the saving light and health of the God of Israel to the rest of mankind.

9. The former things are come to pass.—Such as the prophesied fall of Assyria.

ib. And new things do I declare.—The approaching fall of Babylon and the restoration of Israel.

10. Sing unto the Lord.—In the convulsions of war and change coming upon the earth God's arm was about to be shown in the overthrow of idolatrous Babylon, and in the restoration of his chosen people; hence this song of triumph.

ib. Ye that go down to the sea, and all that is therein.—Compare Psalm xcvi. 11: 'Let the sea make a noise, and all that therein is.'

11. The wilderness and the cities thereof.—The great expanse of desert country between Babylonia, Palestine, and Arabia, with nomad tribes masters of it, and settlements scattered through it where there is water. Kedar is the name of an Arabian people, descended from Ishmael, lying in the north of Arabia, next to their brother race, Nebaioth, the Nabathæans. See Gen. xxv. 13.

ib. The inhabitants of the rock.—The country above spoken of is by no means one great plain of sand, but has stony regions (Arabia Petræa), hills, and rock-forts. These are often contrasted with the undefended habitations of the nomad Arabs. 'We Bedouins,' says one of these Arabs, in the sixth century after Christ, to the poet Imroulcays, who sought his protection, 'live in the plains, and have no castles where we can make our guests safe: go to the Jew Samuel in his castle of El-Ablak.' The fidelity of this Jewish lord of an Arabian rock-fort became a proverb.

12. In the islands.—See note to c. 41, v. 1.

15. I will make the rivers dry land, &c.—The great rivers of Mesopotamia, from the nature of the country through which they flow, have from the earliest times offered scope for large engineering operations, both civil and military. Mr. Layard speaks thus of the ruins of a great stone-dam he found in the Tigris: 'It was one of those monuments of a great people, to be found in all the rivers of Mesopotamia, which were undertaken to ensure a constant supply of water to the innumerable canals spreading like network over the surrounding country, and which, even in the days of Alexander, were looked upon as the works of an ancient nation.' Engineering works for a military object, besides the operations on the Gyndes and Euphrates attributed to Cyrus, are continually mentioned. For example, Arabian writers relate how Zebba (probably the Zenobia of our histories) built two fortresses, one on the right, the other on the left bank of the Euphrates, and connected them by a tunnel, which she made by damming and turning the Euphrates when its waters were low, executing a deep cutting in its bed, bricking the cutting over, and then turning the waters back again. She hoped thus to have always a sure place of refuge, but an enemy who was at war with her got the secret of the tunnel, met her at its mouth in the second fortress when she fled from the first, and slew her.

16. And I will bring the blind, &c.—I will bring my faint-hearted, incredulous, and undiscerning people safe through the desert to their own land.

19. Who is blind, but my servant.—Israel, as a whole, is faint-hearted, is slow to understand God's great purposes for it, and incredulous of them, in spite of all the experience it has had of God's guidance.

21. The Lord was pleased, &c.—The Lord took Israel for his chosen people, in order to exalt his law, the law of righteousness, committed to Israel; Israel is conquered, despoiled, and captive; how can such things befall God's chosen people? Clearly, because of Israel's sins; because, though the chosen people, Israel would not walk in God's ways. Let Israel now return to them and be saved.

CHAPTER 43.

And saved Israel shall be, the next chapter continues; his sons shall be gathered from all the regions where they are dispersed, and shall be brought with safety and victory, as of old from the bondage of Egypt, to their own land.

3. I give Egypt for thy ransom, Ethiopia and Saba for thee.—In the crash now begun, the new conquering power, Persia, was about to attack and overturn other powers besides Babylon. Cambyzes, the son of Cyrus, conquered Egypt and invaded Ethiopia. Saba is Meroe on the Upper Nile. The Persian king was to set free the chosen people; these other peoples, given into his hand, were to be as a ransom and a substitute for the delivered Israel.

8. Bring forth the blind people that have eyes.—Set free my people Israel, who have been blind to my ways but shall see them, and deaf to my word but shall hearken to it.

9. Let all the nations.—The heathen and their gods are again challenged as in c. 41. See note to v. 24 of that chapter.

10. Ye are my witnesses, &c.—Israel is here addressed, both the blind and faint-hearted mass of the nation, and the faithful and believing few.

14. And the Chaldeans upon the ships of their pleasure.—‘I make the Chaldeans to flee upon the barks that had before served for their pleasure.’ The great feature of Babylon was its river, the Euphrates, with its quays, bridges, cuts, and artificial lakes; it served alike for use and pleasure.

16. Which maketh a way in the sea.—A remembrance of the march out of Egypt and of Pharaoh’s overthrow.

20. The beasts of the field shall honour me.—I will provide water in the desert for my returning people on their march through it; and by this the wild creatures of the desert, which usually suffer by the drought prevailing there, shall profit.

23. Thou hast not brought me the lambs.—Compare Ps. l. 8: ‘I will not reprove thee because of thy sacrifices or for thy burnt-offerings, because they were not always before me.’ The sacrificial service of the temple necessarily ceased during the exile at Babylon; God has no concern for this, neither does he plague his people about it; his concern is because his people plague him with their sins.

24. No sweet cane.—A spice reed, calamus aromaticus, used for the holy anointing oil. See Exod. xxx. 23, where it is called ‘sweet calamus,’ and mentioned along with cinnamon.

26. Let us plead together.—As the heathen and their deities were challenged recently, so Israel is now challenged to try its cause with God.

27. Thy first father.—Jacob, by whose representative name the Jewish people is throughout addressed. See

Hos. xii. 2, 3: 'The Lord will punish Jacob according to his ways, according to his doings will he recompense him; he took his brother by the heel in the womb,' &c. But probably a general sense is meant to be given to the expression: 'thy forefathers,' 'thy race from its first beginning.'

28. The princes of the sanctuary.—The chief priests. See Jer. lii. 24.

CHAPTER 44.

Nevertheless, Israel shall be restored, and so evidently blest that other nations shall attach themselves to him, call themselves by his name, and become servants of his God. For his God is the only God, the idols are vanity. Amidst the joy of the whole earth, God will perform his promise and restore Israel by the hand of Cyrus.

2. Jeshurun.—Probably a diminutive of endearment, coming originally from Jashar, upright, and with a force something like that of Goodchild. The Greek has, my beloved Israel, the Vulgate, rectissime, Luther, Frommer, 'pious one.'

3. The ancient people.—More literally, the everlasting people; Israel, the chosen, eternal people of God.

7. Let them shew.—A challenge as at c. 41, vv. 21-24; see the notes there.

8. They are their own witnesses.—They themselves have the plain evidence of the nullity of their gods; but they are blind to it, that they may come to shame and ruin.

11. That are but men.—That are mere mortal men, and yet make gods!

12. The smith.—There is here mention, first, of the molten image made by the smith, and then of the cheaper wooden image made by the carpenter. See c. 40, v. 20, and the note there.

12. Yea, he is hungry.—This god-maker is hungry and faint, even at the very time he is at his god-making!

27. That saith to the deep, &c.—There is reference here to the Israelites' passage of the Red Sea, and probably also to the operations of Cyrus in drying and turning the rivers of Babylon.

CHAPTER 45.

Cyrus is God's instrument, and those Jews that have difficulty in recognising him as such, are warned not to be more wise than God. God has raised up Cyrus and is directing his wars, that Israel may be saved, and that the world may be saved with Israel in Israel's God, the sole source of salvation.

1. To his anointed, to Cyrus.—The Vulgate keeps the Greek word for anointed, and has Christo meo Cyro.

ib. I will ungird the loins.—To gird the loins is to make fit for action and to fill with strength; so to ungird them is to make powerless for action and to leave defenceless.

ib. To open before him the two-leaved gates, &c.—The gates of Babylon and the other cities besieged by Cyrus.

4. I have surnamed thee.—‘My shepherd.’ See the last verse of the preceding chapter.

8. Drop down, ye heavens, &c.—Compare Deut. xxxii. 2: ‘My doctrine shall drop as the rain, my speech shall distil as the dew,’ &c.

ib. Have created him.—Cyrus.

9. Woe unto him.—God here turns to Israel, who was looking for ‘a rod out of the stem of Jesse’ to restore the Jews in triumph to Jerusalem, and was little prepared to accept an alien deliverer like Cyrus. 'Will Israel be more wise than God who made him and the world and rules them in his own manner?' is the substance of this and the following verses.

9. Thy work.—In common speech we should say, one's work. Shall one's work say of him that fashioneth it, &c.

11. Ask ye me of things to come, &c.—See note to v. 9. | Will ye take the disposition of things out of my hands, and direct me how I am to deal with my own chosen people?

13. I have raised him, &c.—Him is Cyrus, my city is Jerusalem, my captives are the Jews.

14. The labour of Egypt, &c.—See c. 43, v. 3, and the note there. Saba, or Meroe, on the Upper Nile, was the centre of a great caravan trade between Ethiopia, Egypt and North Africa, Arabia and India. Herodotus speaks (iii. 20) of the Ethiopians as 'the tallest of men.'

ib. Shall come over unto thee.—Thee is Israel. The conquest of strange nations by Cyrus shall acquaint these nations with Israel and Israel's God, and make them see that only in this God is salvation.

ib. In chains.—After their conquest by Cyrus.

15. Thou art a God that hidest thyself.—A God that is unsearchable, whose ways, though excellent, are not as man's ways, and whose footsteps are not known.

19. I have not spoken in secret.—My oracles have not been hidden and ambiguous, my promises and threatenings have been distinct and clear. See note to c. 41, v. 24.

20. Ye that are escaped of the nations.—The great convulsion of Cyrus's conquests is supposed to be over, and the remnants of the conquered nations are called upon to leave their idols, and to know and acknowledge the God of Israel.

CHAPTER 46.

The idols of Babylon fall, and their captive worshippers, instead of being sustained by them, have to put them on beasts of burden to be carried; the God of Israel is no idol to be carried on beasts of burden or on men's shoulders, he carries his people. He has called Cyrus and will save Israel in his own manner.

1. Bel boweth down, Nebo stoopeth.—Babylonian idols. In the star-worship of Babylon, Bel was the planet Jupiter; it has been conjectured that Nebo was the planet Mercury. The temple of Bel was one of the wonders of Babylon. The gods of the conquered people were carried off into captivity along with the people. So Jeremiah says (xlviii. 7) of Chemosh the god of Moab: 'Chemosh shall go into captivity with his priests and his princes.'

ib. They are borne that ye carried.—The Babylonians are addressed. The idols that they used to carry with honour in their religious processions, are now packed on horses and bullocks and borne by the weary beasts away.

2. They could not deliver the burden.—The false gods could not deliver their own images, borne into captivity.

8. Shew yourselves men.—Not such children as to confound me with these dumb idols, who cannot counsel or save.

11. Calling an eagle from the east.—Cyrus from Persia.

12. Ye obdurate.—Spoken to those Jews who were slow to believe in their deliverance through Cyrus.

CHAPTER 47.

An outburst of triumph on the approaching fall of luxurious, tyrannous, superstitious Babylon.

1. Daughter of the Chaldeans.—Chaldæa was the country, Babylon the capital.

2. Take the millstones, &c.—Perform the offices of a slave, thou who hast been so luxurious!

ib. Uncover thy locks, &c.—Struggle along on thy way into captivity, squalid and half-clad, thou who hast been so delicate!

6. Upon the ancient.—Israel. Israel the ancient, Israel in his old age, is used to heighten the picture of cruelty. Ancient here must not be paralleled with ancient in c. 44, v. 7, ‘the ancient people;’ the word in the original is not the same there as here, and means there eternal, God’s chosen and eternal people.

9. The loss of children and widowhood.—Babylon is said to lose her children inasmuch as she loses her citizens, and to be a widow inasmuch as she loses her king.

ib. The multitude of thy sorceries.—The ‘magicians, astrologers, and sorcerers’ of Babylon are familiar to us from the book of Daniel. See Dan. ii. 2.

14. It shall not be a coal to warm at, &c.—Not a pleasant, warmth-giving fire, but a devouring, destructive one.

15. They with whom thou hast dealt.—The magicians and astrologers of Babylon, with whose arts she has so busied herself, and on whom she has so relied, shall fail her in her day of trouble; they shall either be destroyed or flee.

CHAPTER 48.

Israel is warned against his old hardness of heart, and bidden to receive the declaration of that which is God's present will,—the deliverance of Israel through Cyrus. But for the wicked, let Israel know, there is no deliverance.

3. I have declared the former things.—Such as the fall of Assyria and of Babylon. See c. 41, v. 24, and the note there.

6. Thou hast heard; see all this!—The Vulgate well translates, Quæ audisti, vide omnia! All that was before prophesied to thee, the fall of these mighty kingdoms, behold it fulfilled!

ib. I shew thee new things.—What these 'new things' are, namely, the deliverance through Cyrus, will be distinctly declared at v. 14.

11. Will I do it.—Deliver thee.

14. Which among them.—Among the false gods and the false prophets of the heathen.

ib. The Lord hath loved him.—Him is Cyrus. The Lord hath loved Cyrus; Cyrus will do the Lord's pleasure on Babylon, and the Lord's arm shall be, by Cyrus, on the Chaldeans.

16. Come ye near unto me, &c.—In this verse the Prophet, charged with these messages from God, speaks in his own name, and testifies to his countrymen that he has from the beginning pointed out to them God's hand and beck in these great events now happening.

21. And they thirsted not, &c.—This is what the delivered are to sing. On their return from Babylon, as in old time on their return from Egypt, they have been led safely through the desert and supplied with water.

22. No peace.—This is the note of warning, coming in at the close of the strain of promise.

At the end of this chapter there is a kind of pause in the discourse, which enters upon a second stage in the next chapter.

CHAPTER 49.

The Prophet, who had appeared in v. 16 of the preceding chapter, comes forth in this chapter more distinctly. Speaking in the name of Israel, the true Israel, the pious and persisting part of his nation, he announces God's calling and purposes for this Israel of whom he is the representative. God will not only restore the Jewish nation through this true Israel, full of faith and of courage for the promised restoration; he will also bring the Gentiles to himself through its light and leading. It is true, many of the Jews are incredulous and desponding; but vain are their fears; God will not forsake his people.

2. He hath made my mouth like a sharp sword.—Compare Heb. iv. 12: 'The word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword,' &c.

6. It is a small thing, &c.—See the introduction to this chapter.

8. A mediator of the people.—The same expression as at c. 42, v. 6; see the note there. 'The people' is the Jewish people as opposed to the Gentiles.

ib. To establish the land.—The Holy Land, which was to be restored and re-settled.

9. The prisoners.—The exiled and captive Israelites.

ib. Their pastures shall be in all high places.—See c. 41, v. 17, and the note there.

11. My highways shall be exalted.—Built up so as to form a high and clear causeway to travel on.

12. The land of Sinim.—Probably China, which may have been known to the dwellers in Babylon as the name of a distant land, beyond India. It seems used here to imply the farthest parts of the world.

14. But Zion said.—The great body of the Jews were made despondent by their long adversity, and thought God had left them and would never restore them. Compare c. 40, v. 27: ‘Why sayest thou, O Jacob, and speakest, O Israel, My way is hid from the Lord, and my judgment is passed over from my God?’

16. Graven thee upon the palms of my hands.—As something to be ever remembered by me. See Deut. vi. 8: ‘And thou shalt bind them (God’s words) for a sign upon thine hand, and they shall be as frontlets between thine eyes.’ Here the object for remembrance is conceived as written on something like paper, and then attached to the hands or face; in the text it is conceived as graven directly upon the hands. In Persia at this day people wear talismans, called forms, representing a star with five rays, each ray having written on it an important text of the Koran, and in the middle of the star is written the name of God. These are now talismans, but they were originally reminders, to keep God and certain thoughts concerning him ever at hand. Their use throws light on the expressions, ‘to trust in God’s name,’ ‘to fear the name,’ ‘to rejoice in the name,’ ‘to believe in the name,’ which so often occur in the Bible.

18. All these.—The scattered and exiled children of Zion.

19. They that swallowed thee up.—Zion’s foreign conquerors and occupiers shall evacuate her, and leave her to her own children.

20. The place is too strait for me.—A picture of the fulness and prosperity, after her restoration, of the desolate and empty Jerusalem of the time of the exile.

21. Then shalt thou say, &c.—The expressions in this verse are to be closely noted, for the discourse returns to them at the beginning of the next chapter. Zion complains that she is (1) a mother who has lost her children, and (2) a wife whom her husband (God) has abandoned.

24. Shall the prey.—Shall Israel be really rescued from such a power as Babylon? Yes.

CHAPTER 50.

In the first three verses the thread of the discourse is directly continued from the last chapter. At v. 4 the Prophet, as the true Israel (see the introduction to the last chapter), speaks again of himself and his mission.

1. Thus saith the Lord, &c.—See v. 21 of the preceding chapter. Zion complains that her children are lost, and she is divorced. God answers: Can a writing of divorcement (St. Matth. v. 31) be shown against me, as in a man's case, to prove a formal divorce? or, have I creditors to whom, as a human debtor, I sell my children? Zion is abandoned, and her children lost to her, but for a time, because of her sins and while her sins last.

2. Wherefore, when I came, &c.—The faint-heartedness of the bulk of the Jewish people, despondent and inert about the promised restoration, is rebuked, and God's almighty power to effect his designs is set forth.

10. Who is among you.—God speaks.

11. Behold, all ye that kindle a fire.—This is said to the Jews, who receive with incredulity, anger, and persecution, God's message and messenger. In this, as in the preceding verse, it is God who speaks; and he warns these Jews that their anger and violence shall be turned against themselves, and they shall 'lie down in sorrow.' See c. 66, v. 24.

CHAPTER 51.

This chapter continues the encouragement given at v. 10 of the preceding chapter. The faithful of Israel shall be brought to the land of promise like their father Abraham, and shall be blest and multiplied there; they shall be the means of extending God's salvation to the rest of the world. Let not man make them afraid; the Lord is with them, who brought them out of Egypt; who afflicted them, but will now save them and afflict their oppressors.

1. The rock, &c.—Abraham and Sarah, the progenitors of Israel.

2. I called him alone.—When he was but one, God called him, to make him a great nation. Compare Ezek. xxxiii. 24: 'Abraham was one, and he inherited the land.'

5. Mine arms shall judge.—The common figure of the actual arm or hand of God swaying human affairs.

9. Cut Rahab and wounded the dragon.—Rahab, 'the Proud,' is Egypt; the dragon is probably the crocodile of the Nile, the emblematic beast of Egypt. As God smote Egypt of old, and delivered his people, so he will deliver them now.

12. Afraid of a man.—Such as thy oppressor, the king of Babylon, whom thou fearest so, and who is now falling.

16. That I may plant the heavens, &c.—The new heavens and the new earth. Compare c. 65, v. 17.

18. None to guide her.—What follows is a picture of the misery wrought by Nebuchadnezzar's siege and destruction of Jerusalem.

19. These two things.—Desolation and destruction of the land is one of the two things; famine and slaughter of the people the other.

21. Not with wine.—Dizzy and staggering, not with wine, but with affliction from God.

23. Laid thy body as the ground and as the street.—A trait of the humiliation of the conquered and the insolence of the conqueror in Eastern kingdoms. So it is related that when Sapor king of Persia got on horseback, his prisoner, the Roman emperor Valerian, had to kneel down and make his back a step for him.

CHAPTER 52.

The strain of the previous chapter is continued. Israel shall be restored, and the mountains of Judah and the waste places of Jerusalem shall rejoice at the triumphal return to Zion of the Lord with his people. This strain ends with v. 12.

3. Ye have sold yourselves for nought.—This is the same sort of argumentation as at c. 50, v. 1; see the note there. Egypt and Assyria acquired no perpetual rights over Israel, they never became his purchasers and legal owners; so it is now with Babylon; Babylon has no permanent property in Israel whom it so heavily oppresses; therefore the Lord, who punished Israel by giving him over for a time to his enemies, will now restore him.

7. Thy watchmen.—The prophets, who with joy announce God's return with his redeemed people to Zion.

11. From thence.—From Babylon, on their march home to the Holy Land.

ib. The vessels of the Lord.—The holy vessels of the Temple, which had been carried off to Babylon, and which Cyrus restored to the returning Jews. See Ezra i. 7, 8: 'Also Cyrus the king brought forth the vessels of the house of the Lord, which Nebuchadnezzar had brought forth out of Jerusalem, and had put them in the house of his gods; even those did Cyrus king of Persia bring forth by the hand of Mithredath the treasurer, and numbered them unto Sheshbazzar the prince of Judah.'

12. With haste.—With haste and by flight, as ye did from Egypt. The exodus from Babylon shall be not like this, but public and triumphant.

13. Behold my servant, &c.—This and the two following verses belong to the next chapter. They declare the future glory of God's persecuted servant.

14. His visage was so marred.—See c. 50, v. 6.

15. So shall many nations exult in him.—The Vulgate has asperget gentes multas, 'he shall sprinkle many nations;' and so, too, has our Bible. The Greek has: x 'Many nations shall be in admiration at him.' The Chaldaic has, 'he shall rout,' or 'scatter.'

ib. Kings shall shut their mouths before him.—In sign of reverence.

CHAPTER 53.

The application of this well-known chapter to Jesus Christ will be in every one's mind. But it must be our concern here to find out its primary historical import, and its connexion with the discourse where it stands. On this the 50th chapter throws much light; see particularly vv. 5-9. There we find ill-usage and persecution of God's servant:

'I gave my back to the smiters and my cheeks to them that plucked off the hair; I hid not my face from shame and spitting.' In Jeremiah (c. 11, v. 19) we find this persecution of God's servant, at the hands of those who would not receive his word, threatening to proceed even to killing: 'I was like a lamb or an ox that is brought to the slaughter; and I knew not that they had devised devices against me, saying, Let us destroy the tree with the fruit thereof, and let us cut him off from the land of the living, that his name may be no more remembered.' From the same prophet we find that in the case of Urijah, brought from Egypt and put to death under Jehoiakim, the persecution did proceed even to killing (Jer. xxvi. 23). From the New Testament we learn the same thing: 'Ye are witnesses unto yourselves, that ye are the children of them which killed the prophets;'—'Jerusalem, that killest the prophets' (St. Matth. xxiii. 31, 37). Leaving the Bible, from Josephus we learn the same; from the Jewish traditions, too, the same. According to these traditions, Isaiah himself was put to death by Manasseh. Adding all this to the data furnished by this 53rd chapter itself, we have for the original subject of this chapter a martyred servant of God, recognisable by the Jews of the exile under the allusions here made to him, who eminently fulfilled the ideal of the servant of God, the true Israel, the mediator of the people and the light of the Gentiles, presented in this series of chapters; and whose death, crowning his life and reaching men's hearts, made an epoch of victory for this ideal.

More, as to the first and historical meaning, cannot be said with certainty. Many attempts have been made at an identification of this 'man of sorrows' with his primary historical original, in addition to the identification of him with Christ; he has been said to be Hezekiah, Josiah, Isaiah himself, Jeremiah; but there are no sufficient grounds to establish his identity with any one of them.

The purport of the chapter is as follows. The Prophet, speaking as one of the Jewish people (as in c. 42, v. 24; 'The Lord, he against whom we have sinned') declares how God's faithful servant, the bearer of his commands and promises, despised, persecuted, and at last taken away from prison and judgment to die, was stricken for the iniquities of the people, bare their sins, healed them by his sufferings, and would finally, in spite, nay, by means of his death, prevail and triumph.

1. Who believed our report.—Literally, 'our hearing,' which the Greek and the Vulgate have. The report we gave of God's commands and promises and of the glorification of his servant. See the last three verses of the preceding chapter; see also c. 49, vv. 1-8, and c. 50, vv. 7-11. The Prophet speaks in the first verse as one of God's messengers; immediately afterwards he begins to speak as one of the sinful and undiscerning people.

2. Before him.—Before the Lord.

ib. A slender plant.—The word in the original means merely a young shoot, a sapling. Not a tender plant, which implies beauty, delicacy, and fostering care, but a slender plant, 'as a root out of a dry ground,' thin and insignificant.

3. We hid as it were our faces.—In contempt and disgust.

5. The chastisement of our peace.—The chastisement by which our peace is won.

7. He was oppressed and he was afflicted.—The Vulgate, which throughout this chapter translates so as to heighten the identification with Christ, has here: Oblatus est quia ipse voluit, He was offered because he himself chose to be. It is remarkable that in several places in this chapter the old Latin version which the Vulgate superseded is more faithful to the original than the Vulgate itself.

8. He was taken, &c.—Taken away from prison and from judgment to a violent death. This and the preceding verses are quoted in Acts viii. 32, 33, as the passage of Scripture which the Ethiopian eunuch was reading when Philip joined him. This verse is there quoted according to the Greek version, which mistakes the original: 'In his humiliation his judgment was taken away, and who shall declare his generation? for his life is taken away from the earth.'

ib. Who of his generation.—Who of his contemporaries recognised the true meaning of his death? that he died, not, as we thought, by his own fault, but for us and because of our sins.

ib. My people.—The Prophet speaks as in God's name. The Vulgate here makes God himself speak, and say: Propter scelus populi mei percussi eum, Because of the wickedness of my people I smote him.

9. He made his grave with the wicked. Compare Jer. xxvi. 23, as to the burial of the prophet Urijah: 'And they fetched forth Urijah out of Egypt and brought him unto Jehoiakim the king; who slew him with the sword, and cast his dead body into the graves of the common people.'

11. He shall see of the travail of his soul.—He shall see the fruits of his sufferings in the many whom his life and death have turned to God and saved.

ib. By his knowledge.—Compare c. 50, v. 4: 'The Lord God hath given me the tongue of the learned, that I should know how to speak a word in season to him that is weary,' &c. In this and the following verse God himself speaks.

CHAPTER 54.

God's people thus purged and healed shall be eternally established; Israel shall extend his borders and multiply his sons; his enemies shall come over to him; this is the heritage of the servants of the Lord and their promised justification through God's righteous servant.

1. Sing, O barren.—Zion is addressed as at c. 49, vv. 18-21, and with the same promises. See the notes there. The captivity in Babylon is Zion's widowhood without her husband, the Lord; the slaughter and diminution of her people are her childlessness; this is to be more than made good after her restoration.

2. Lengthen thy cords, &c.—Images taken from the pitching of tents.

6. A wife of youth.—And therefore beloved.

9. This is as the waters of Noah unto me.—I deal with my people respecting this their captivity in Babylon, as I dealt with them respecting Noah's flood. The words which follow explain the particular dealing meant.

15. Whosoever shall gather together against thee, &c.—It had been already promised that the Gentiles should resort to Israel for salvation; here it is added that even those who try to be his enemies shall come over to him.

16. Behold I have created, &c.—Destroyers and destruction are God's work; they reach those only whom he means them to reach, and he does not mean them to reach Israel.

17. Their righteousness of me.—This is what was promised at v. 11 of the preceding chapter: 'By his knowledge shall my righteous servant justify many.' In the original, the same word stands both for justification and for righteousness, and what is said here is: 'This is the heritage of the servants of the Lord and their promised justification by me through means of my righteous servant.'

CHAPTER 55.

The Jewish people are urged to take the freely offered salvation now close at hand; but are warned that they can have it only on condition of amending their lives.

1. Ho, every one that thirsteth.—Compare St. John vii. 37: 'Jesus stood and cried, saying, If any man thirst let him come unto me and drink.'

3. The sure mercies of David.—The same sure, unfailing mercies which I showed to David.

✕ | 4. Behold, I appointed him.—I gave formerly the nations into David's hand; so will I now into yours.

5. Thou shalt call a nation, &c.—See the preceding chapter, v. 3. See also c. 52, v. 15; and c. 45, v. 14, and the notes there.

12. For ye shall go out with joy.—On the return to the Holy Land. See c. 52, v. 12, and the note there.

CHAPTER 56.

The warning is continued. Righteousness is needed, in order to lay hold on God's coming salvation; but, with righteousness, the stranger may lay hold on it as well as Israel. At v. 8 the discourse turns abruptly, with severe threatenings, to the slothful and sinful part of the nation and their faithless guides.

1. Do justice! for my salvation is near.—This is nearly the same as John the Baptist's preaching, St. Matth. iii. 2: 'Repent ye, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.'

2. That keepeth the sabbath.—This seems at variance with Isaiah, c. 1, v. 13: 'The new moons and sabbaths I cannot away with.' But that related to a time when the kingdom of Judah yet stood, when the service of the Temple was in full course, the whole exterior part of the Jews' religion splendid and prominent. At such a time, a prophet might naturally undervalue the whole of this exterior part in comparison with the inward part. But during the exile in Babylon all the services and sacrifices of the Temple had ceased, and the one testimony of faithfulness to their religion which the Jews among an idolatrous people could give was the observance of their Sabbath; their Sabbath was the one outward thing which brought their religion to their mind. Hence its observance acquired quite a special value.

3. Neither let the son of the stranger, &c.—By the law of Moses, eunuchs and strangers were not to enter into the congregation of the Lord. See Deut. xxiii. 1-8. This exclusion was now to cease. A stricter and narrower policy, however, prevailed under Ezra and Nehemiah after the return (Neh. xiii. 14), and in general the views of the priesthood were, on a point like this, less liberal than those of the prophets. But our prophet's whole conception of the Gentiles in relation to the religion of Israel is unexampled in the Old Testament for its admirable width, depth, and grandeur.

ib. Eunuch.—It must be remembered that, attached to a great Eastern court like that of Babylon, were a multitude of eunuchs, some of whom had perhaps adopted the religion of Israel. It is probable, also, that some of the Jewish youths were taken for the court-service as eunuchs, and their countrymen would afterwards have been likely to abhor them on that account. These considerations will enable us the better to feel the exquisite tenderness and mercifulness of this passage.

5. Better than of sons.—A better and more enduring name than he could have had through children born to him to keep up his name and the name of his family.

7. Mine house shall be called an house of prayer.—The words quoted by Jesus Christ when he cleared the temple. See St. Matth. xxi. 13.

9. All ye beasts of the field.—There is here an abrupt turn to the faithless part of the Jewish nation, under their negligent rulers and guides. The barbarous idolatrous nations are called, as beasts of the field and forest, to devour this easy prey.

10. His watchmen.—His chief men, princes, priests, and prophets.

CHAPTER 57.

The insensibility and idolatry of the unfaithful part of the Jewish nation are reprov'd. The restoration of Israel is, indeed, willed by God, but it is for the righteous only.

1. The righteous perisheth, &c.—We are taken back to the subject of c. 53: 'Who of his generation regarded it, why he was cut off out of the land of the living?' The wicked cannot understand the meaning of the life and death of the righteous; how his perishing is not his fault, but the fault of the evil around him.

3. But draw near, &c.—The righteous dies and is at rest; but ye, what will ye make at last of your derision of the righteous, and of the follies and idolatries wherein ye trust? Nothing.

3. Sons of the sorceress, &c.—Ye who have mixed yourselves up with the sorceries and idolatries of Babylon. The figure of adultery, &c., has reference to this idolatrous unfaithfulness. We find again in chapters 65 and 66 that many of the Jews in Babylon gave themselves to this, and thought it really religion and a way of safety out of their troubles.

4. Against whom.—The idolatrous Jews mocked and despised the pious and persisting servant of God.

5. Under every green tree.—The idolatrous worship in the consecrated groves of the false gods, so often mentioned in Scripture.

ib. Slaying the children in the valleys.—The most famous sacrifices of this kind were those in the valley of Hinnom. See Jeremiah vii. 31. They were made to Moloch, the king of heaven, the god of the Ammonites. But through all the kindreds of the Semitic race (to which the Babylonians, too, belonged) sacrifices of this sort seem to have been in use.

6. They, they are thy lot.—To them thou attachest thy luck, thy fortune. The worship of stones is a very early form of idolatry, and originated, probably, in the veneration paid to meteoric stones,—stones which, as the people said, ‘fell down from heaven.’ But the worship extended to other stones also. Traces of this worship occur in Genesis, in Jacob’s consecration of the stones in his passage by Bethel. ‘And Jacob rose up early in the morning, and took the stone that he had put for his pillows, and set it up for a pillar, and poured oil upon the top of it.’ Gen. xxviii. 18. The Greeks, too, had this stone worship; ‘In the earlier times,’ says the Greek traveller Pausanias, ‘all the Greeks worshipped, in place of images of the gods, undressed stones.' We find the name Bætylia given to these stones, and it has even been conjectured that this name comes from Bethel.

7. Upon a lofty and high mountain.—The worship 'in high places' is well known.

ib. Thy bed.—The idolatry of the Jews is throughout spoken of under the figure of adultery, as unfaithfulness to God.

8. Thy remembrance.—Probably, small images like those of the Roman Penates or household gods, which were in every private family, and were the objects of prayers and offerings.

ib. Thou hast enlarged thy bed.—Still the figure of adultery against God committed with the false gods of Babylon.

9. And thou wentest, &c.—See v. 5 and the second note there. The idolatrous Jews offered precious ointment and frankincense to Moloch. Moloch was the king of heaven, but these Jews sought out all idolatrous worship and false gods, down to the gods of the underworld.

10. Thou art wearied.—Nothing could convince these idolatrous Jews of the folly of their misplaced trust and vain worship.

11. And of whom hast thou been afraid?—How could thy calamities, and the fear of thy Babylonian tyrant, make thee so superstitious and forgetful?

14. Cast ye up.—As before; make a clear and smooth highway for my returning people.

15. Of a contrite and humble spirit.—This should be noted as, what may be called, the new test of religion, brought in,—or at any rate first set in clear light,—by this Prophet. See also c. 66, v. 2, where this test is again given. Compare, too, c. 42, v. 2.

19. I create the fruit of the lips.—I create comfort and joy of heart, and so give cause for the outpourings of praise and thankfulness from those whom I save.

ib. Peace to him that is far off.—Again this Prophet's large conception of the extent, reaching to the Gentiles as well as Jews, of God's salvation. St. Paul quotes these words in Eph. iii. 17: 'Christ came and preached peace to you (the Gentiles) which were afar off, and to them that were nigh.'

21. No peace.—Again this warning as to the sole condition upon which God's salvation can be had. See the last verse of c. 48.

CHAPTER 58.

Reproof continues. External worship is insufficient; a change of heart, mildness and mercy, are requisite in order that God's salvation offered to Israel may take effect.

1. Cry aloud.—God speaks to the prophet.

3. Wherefore have we fasted?—Besides the regular fasts of the Jewish religion, there were, during the captivity in Babylon, special fasts appointed as days of repentance and prayer for Israel.

ib. Exact all your labours.—Make your dependents do all the work you want done. Oppression, fault-finding, and harshness go on during the fast just the same.

4. To be heard on high.—If ye wish your voice and your prayer to be heard by God in heaven, this is not the sort of fast to induce him to listen.

9. The putting forth of the finger.—Mockery and insolence towards the pious and persisting part of the nation.

13. The sabbath.—For the special importance of the Sabbath during the captivity in Babylon see c. 58, v. 2, and the note there.

14. The high places of the earth.—In early times and in the warfare of early times the high and rocky situations were also the strong and defensible situations, and therefore he who occupied them was formidable and powerful.

CHAPTER 59.

Israel's sins are what make Israel's misery and defer his salvation. But God, because Israel is his chosen instrument, will himself interpose to break up the unrighteous kingdoms of the world and to restore Israel.

3. Your hands are defiled.—This and what follows is a picture of the sins of the unfaithful part of the Jewish nation during the captivity in Babylon, and in spite of the lessons taught by that captivity.

5. They hatch cockatrice' eggs.—They hatch mischief. Cockatrice is compounded of the words cock and adder, and is a fabled venomous serpent bred from an egg. Serpents do not lay eggs, but bring forth their young alive.

ib. Weave the spider's web.—They spin vain, foolish schemes, which can only come to nought.

7. Their feet run to evil.—Quoted in the Epistle to the Romans (iii. 15), to prove the guiltiness before God of the Jews under their law.

9. Therefore is judgment gone from us.—Here the person changes, and the Prophet speaks as himself one of the sinful people, and offers up in his own name and theirs a sort of confession of sins.

9. We wait for light, &c.—See the preceding chapter, v. 3: ‘Wherefore have we fasted, and thou seest not?’ Now the people know and confess the reason;—because of their sins.

10. We grope for the wall.—A picture of the helplessness and hopelessness of the Jewish exiles.

11. We roar all like bears, and moan sore like doves.—We complain loudly and obstreperously, and we complain with whining and moaning; in vain, because our heart is not right with God.

15. He that departeth from evil maketh himself a prey.—Again a reference, probably, to the subject of the 53rd chapter,—the death of the patient and innocent servant of God.

ib. And the Lord saw it, &c.—Israel, God’s chosen instrument, failed to put down iniquity,—nay, himself fell into it. Therefore God, by the wars and convulsions which shatter the world, will himself destroy the wicked, both Jew and Gentile, and will bring about, through these wars and convulsions, the restoration of Zion and of the remnant of the true Israelites, and the salvation of the world through the light that shall spring from them.

18. According to their deeds, &c.—The enemies of the Lord, whoever and wherever they are, Jew or Gentile, near or far, shall be visited and smitten.

19. When the enemy.—Cyrus. See c. 45, v. 1. Cyrus and his conquests are to be God’s instruments of punishment to an unrighteous world, of restoration to the true Israelites.

20. And a redeemer shall come to Zion, &c.—The primary historical application of this is still to Cyrus, or, more strictly, to the salvation which was to arise for Zion, and through Zion for the world, out of that great storm of war and change in which Cyrus was the chief human agent. St. Paul, in Rom. xi. 26, quotes the Greek version, which differs from the original: 'There shall come out of Sion the deliverer, and shall turn away ungodliness from Jacob.' The best Greek text has not 'out of Sion,' as St. Paul quotes, but 'for Sion's sake.'

21. My spirit that is upon thee.—The Prophet here declares God's promise to Israel that the line of prophets of God should not fail.

CHAPTER 60.

The Prophet, who has just announced 'A redeemer shall come to Zion,' now describes Zion as it shall be after its restoration.

1. Arise, shine.—Zion is addressed; the Greek, the Vulgate, and the Chaldaic insert the explanatory word 'Jerusalem.'

2. Darkness doth cover the earth.—The kingdoms of the earth are breaking up amid gloom and misery; with Israel alone is light and joy in the Lord.

3. And the Gentiles shall come to thy light.—It shall be seen that Israel alone has in the Lord the secret of light and joy, and the heathen nations shall come to share it with Israel. See c. 45, v. 14, and the notes there.

4. Thy sons shall come from far.—See c. 49, v. 22: 'The Gentiles . . . shall bring thy sons in their arms, and thy daughters shall be carried upon their shoulders.' The nations amongst which the Jews are scattered shall bring them back to the Holy Land, with offerings and treasures to restore the Temple service and rebuild Jerusalem.

5. The abundance of the sea.—The riches of the coast-lands of the West, the Mediterranean countries, 'the isles.' More fully at v. 9.

6. The multitude of camels.—In this and the following verse are enumerated nations and contributions of the inland country to the south and south-east of Palestine, Arabian tribes and their respective products; in verses 8 and 9, those of the Mediterranean sea-board and the west. Midian and Ephah, with their caravan trade, Kedar (see c. 42, v. 11) and Nebaioth, with their flocks, are tribes of Northern Arabia; Sheba, with its gold and frankincense, is in Arabia Felix, to the south of them.

8. Who are these that fly as a cloud?—The Prophet has pictured the approach of the caravans of inland Arabia; now he pictures the approach of the fleets from the coast lands of the Mediterranean. The fleets with their sails, as seen afar off, are compared to a cloud, or to a flock of white doves flying towards their dovecote.

9. Tarshish.—The Greek Tartessus, a Phœnician settlement at the mouth of the Guadalquivir, outside the Straits of Gibraltar, and representing to the Hebrews the farthest west. It was the port whence the rich mineral produce of Spain was shipped by the Phœnicians.

11. Therefore thy gates shall be open continually.—This trait, with many others in the present chapter, is repeated in the picture of the new Jerusalem in the Book of Revelation (xxi. 25). Here the open gates have their special reason assigned: to admit the ever in-streaming world, with its offerings and homage.

12. For the nation and kingdom.—Every nation shall fall unless it serves the Lord, the righteous God, the God of Israel, through whom alone is salvation. The figure of serving Israel means serving the God of Israel.

13. The glory of Lebanon.—A reminiscence of the building of Solomon's temple, and of the contributions to it of cedar-wood out of Lebanon (1 Kings v. 1-11), which are to be repeated now for the rebuilding of the Temple.

16. Thou shalt also suck.—See v. 11.

17. For brass, &c.—The more valuable, for the less valuable thou hast lost.

ib. Thy officers peace.—The restored Zion shall have peace-loving and righteous rulers.

21. Thy people also shall be all righteous.—The stress is on all. See c. 54, v. 13; c. 57, v. 13; and the twice-repeated warning: 'No peace, saith my God, to the wicked!'

ib. The branch.—This is in apposition with they. They, the branch of my planting, the work of my hands, shall inherit the land for ever. In this and the concluding verse God himself speaks.

At the end of this chapter is a pause.

CHAPTER 61.

The prophet speaks in his own name, as at c. 50, v. 4, which should be compared with the opening of this chapter. See also the opening of c. 49. He declares for whom his ministry and God's promises are intended, sums up the blessings of the new era at hand, and professes his joy and thankfulness for it.

1. Unto the afflicted.—The Vulgate, which the English Authorised Version follows, has mansuetis, 'the meek;' the Greek has 'the poor.' It will be remembered how (St. Luke iv. 18) Jesus Christ reads out this passage in the synagogue at Nazareth, and applies it to himself and his ministry. St. Luke uses the Greek, and makes Christ say 'the poor.'

1. Liberty to the captives.—The expressions, 'liberty to the captives,' 'opening of the prison to the bound,' 'acceptable year of the Lord,' are all expressions with a special meaning for the Jews from the year of jubilee, when by the law of Moses the slave recovered his liberty. Acceptable year is more properly gracious year, or, year of grace of the Lord.

3. Beauty for ashes.—Beauty means ornament here; the signs of joy instead of the signs of mourning.

5. And strangers.—The Jews, a nation of God's servants appointed to initiate the rest of the world into his service, are to give themselves to this sacred and priestly labour, while the rest of the world do their secular labour for them.

7. For your shame ye shall have double.—See c. 40. v. 1: 'Jerusalem receiveth of the Lord's hand double for all her rue.'

ib. My people.—One of the sudden changes of person so common with this Prophet. Ye and they both relate to God's people, Israel.

10. I will greatly rejoice.—The Prophet speaks as already possessing by anticipation the blessings promised, and as filled with gratitude for them.

CHAPTER 62.

For these blessings the Prophet will not cease to pray and wrestle, until they arrive, and the glorious salvation of the renewed Zion shines forth.

1. Righteousness.—More properly here saving health. The Vulgate, to make the application to Christ evident, translates : 'Until her Just One go forth as brightness, and her Saviour be lighted as a lamp.'

2. New name.—We have again, in the Book of Revelation, this bestowal of a new name upon those whom God has redeemed and renewed.

4. My delight is in her, and thy land Married.—In the Hebrew, Hephzibah and Beulah.

6. I have set watchmen.—God declares that he has set his watchmen, his angels, upon the walls of Jerusalem, to remind him of her continually. Compare c. 49, v. 16. The Prophet entreats these watchmen to ply their office without ceasing, until Jerusalem is restored.

10. Go through, go through.—Compare c. 40, v. 3. The immediate return of the Lord with his chosen people to Jerusalem is announced, and preparations for the triumphal march and entry are to be made.

ib. Lift up a standard for the nations.—In order that 'the Gentiles shall come to thy light, and kings to the brightness of thy rising.' See c. 60, v. 3.

CHAPTER 63.

So sure are God's purposes that even if mortal instruments (such as Cyrus) fail, God himself will do the work upon the enemies of Israel. The Prophet selects Edom as a kindred and neighbour people of Israel, and yet their ancient and specially bitter enemy (compare c. 34; compare also Obadiah, and Ezek. xxxv. 5, and Ps. cxxxvii. 7), who had assisted Nebuchadnezzar in the destruction of Jerusalem. In a kind of short drama, of sublime grandeur, the Prophet exhibits God himself as returning from executing vengeance upon Edom.

After the 6th verse the subject changes, and the Prophet, reverting to God's old mercies towards Israel, sup-plicates for their renewal.

1. Who is this?—A conqueror with blood-stained garments is supposed to appear. The spectators ask, Who is he?—He is the Lord.

ib. Bozrah.—A place in Hauran, to the north of Edom as marked in the maps, but the territory of the Edomites reached there after the downfall of the Jewish kingdom. Bozrah, or Bostra, afterwards became a place of importance; the fairs of Bozrah and Damascus are mentioned as the two great Syrian fairs which Mahomet in his youth visited.

ib. I that speak.—God answers. In the next verse the spectators again question; in the three following verses God speaks.

4. I looked, and there was none to help.—The year of God's redeemed has come (see c. 61, v. 1, and the note there), the time for the restoration of Israel that the world might be saved through Israel; the kings of the earth and the revolutions of states might fail or delay in bringing about God's designs for Israel; then God himself must interpose.

7. I will mention.—Here the short drama, or vision, of the Divine Conqueror of Edom ends; the Prophet reverts to God's old loving-kindnesses and the deliverance from Egypt, and implores a return of the like dealings.

13. As an horse in the desert.—As the free, light-stepping horse of the Arab in the desert.

14. As the beast.—As the cattle go instinctively down to sheltered places for their rest, so Israel was led to places of rest and security.

15. The sounding of thy bowels.—The metaphor is from strings tightly stretched, and giving, therefore, a louder and deeper sound.

16. Though Abraham be ignorant of us.—Though we are in exile, strangers to the Holy Land and the polity founded by our fathers.

18. Our adversaries.—Babylon and the heathen nations.

CHAPTER 64.

The supplication goes on without interruption, but it passes into a confession of sins in the name of the whole people,—sins that had grown up amidst the despair and misery of the exile,—and ends with an appeal to God's grace and mercy.

1. That thou wouldest rend the heavens.—That thou wouldest appear once more in fire, as formerly on Sinai.

4. Who hath prepared.—Before who supply, to complete the sense, a God.

5. That rejoiceth.—In the Lord. Compare Psalm xcvi. 12 : ' Rejoice in the Lord, ye righteous.'

ib. Wroth with them continually.—With thy people Israel. One of the changes of person already noticed as frequent with this Prophet.

CHAPTER 65.

God makes answer to the foregoing supplication. He has called his people, but in vain ; they have been obstinately deaf to him, unfaithful and superstitious. The unfaithful shall be punished ; but a faithful remnant shall be saved and restored to Zion, and for them the promises shall take effect.

1. I gave ear to them, &c.—Quoted from the Greek version, but with a transposition of the two clauses, by St. Paul in the Epistle to the Romans, x. 20: 'I was found of them that sought me not, I was made manifest unto them that asked not after me.' St. Paul applies this verse to the Gentiles, and the verse following to Israel. Here both verses apply to Israel.

3. Gardens.—The gardens and sacred groves of the false gods. See c. 1, v. 29: 'Ye shall be confounded for the gardens that ye have chosen.'

ib. The tiles.—The roof-tiles of the flat-roofed Eastern houses, where the Chaldeans practised their star-worship. See Zephaniah i. 4, 5: 'I will cut off them that worship the host of heaven upon the housetops.'

4. Remain among the graves, &c.—The Greek adds, in explanation, 'for the sake of visions.' What is meant is the heathen practice called incubatio,—passing the night on tombs or in sacred places for the sake of apparitions and revelations expected there.

ib. Which eat swine's flesh, &c.—Which use for their sacrifices, and for their feasts after their sacrifices, things unclean and forbidden to Israel.

5. Which say, Stand by thyself.—Yet doing all this out of superstition, and out of the vain notion that it will be of religious avail to them, they insolently repel their
 X | unsuperstitious and faithful brethren as less holy than | themselves.

6. These are a smoke in my nose, &c.—Make my nostrils to smoke with wrath, and my wrath to burn like fire.

7. Burned incense upon the mountains, &c.—The so often mentioned idolatrous worship upon the high places. See c. lvii. v. 7.

8. As the new wine, &c.—The juice that shall one | day be wine is in the grape-cluster, and the grape-cluster is preserved for its sake; so Israel shall be preserved, for the sake of the life and blessing to come from it.

9. My mountains.—The mountains of Judah in general, and the hills of Zion and Moriah in particular.

10. Sharon.—The strip of western coast from Joppa northwards to Cæsarea. The valley of Achor is opposed to it, as being in the east of the Holy Land, by Jericho.

11. Fortune.—In the original, Fortune and that which destineth are Gad and Meni. Gad means luck, Meni means fate or destiny. They are Babylonian names of two stars, or, star-deities; probably of the two planets held to be fortunate, Jupiter and Venus. Or, Meni may be the planet Saturn, the unlucky star, opposed to Jupiter, the star of good luck.

15. By another name.—A name like, The blessed of the Lord. See v. 23.

17. I create new heavens.—With the break up of the heathen kingdoms and the restoration of Israel begins a new epoch.

20. There shall be no more, &c.—Child and man shall alike attain to a patriarchal age. The child shall grow up and come to old age; the sinner shall be an old man when his curse overtakes him.

22. As the days of a tree.—Man's life shall have, instead of its present brief term, the far longer term allotted to the life of trees.

25. Dust shall be the serpent's meat.—The serpent shall be harmful no more, but shall be content to feed on dust, an innocent food.

CHAPTER 66.

The discourse is continued from the preceding chapter.

God declares his chief pleasure to be in piety; the sacrifices of the superstitious and unfaithful Jews shall avail them nothing, while, on the other hand, the triumph of their faithful brethren is immediately approaching. Swiftly shall Zion rise again from her ruins; then shall be held a day of the Lord to sift the unfaithful from among the righteous, and to punish them and all their like; the whole world shall afterwards flow to Zion and worship before God.

1. The heaven is my throne, &c.—Stephen quotes this in his speech before the council. After saying, ‘Howbeit the most High dwelleth not in temples made with hands,’ he goes on, ‘As saith the prophet,’ and quotes this passage. See Acts vii. 48–50.

2. But to this man, &c.—See c. 57, v. 15. The line of thought seems to be as follows: The temple is going to be rebuilt, and men’s thoughts will be concentrated upon this work made with hands; in Babylon the unfaithful Jews have just shown, by even adopting the rites and sacrifices of the heathen, how prone men are to rely upon the outward parts of religion; at this moment, therefore, God will declare that what he regards is not these things, but inward religion; lowliness, contrition, and awe of his word.

3. He that killeth an ox.—These superstitious Jews in Babylon, who thought to be more religious than their brethren by multiplying ceremonies and sacrifices, even those of the heathen, included in the jumble of observances to which they were thus led, human sacrifices and rites the most repulsive and abominable, far more than enough to countervail the other sacrifices by which they thought, perhaps, to replace the suspended worship of the Temple. To this their superstitious unfaithfulness and self-will brought them, and to a neglect or violation of all that God really regards.

5. Ye that tremble at his word.—This is addressed to the faithful part of the nation. Their superstitious brethren had scornfully repelled them, thinking that they glorified God by doing so, and by multiplying the observances which constituted, they hoped, their own superior holiness: God was indeed about to be glorified, but by the restoration of Zion and the triumph of the faithful few, to the discomfiture of the faint-hearted clingers to Babylon.

6. A voice of noise, &c.—The restoration is supposed to be taking place. The three following verses describe its incomparable suddenness and rapidity.

12. The glory of the Gentiles.—See c. 60, v. 5.

14. The hand of the Lord, &c.—When Zion is rebuilt the Lord will hold a great day of judgment there, to sift out and punish his enemies.

15. The gardens.—As before, the consecrated groves and gardens of the heathen deities.

ib. One chief in the midst.—The choragus or ringleader in the idolatrous processions and ceremonies.

16. All flesh.—Not the Jews only, but all flesh; and the wicked of all flesh shall perish.

17. Swine's flesh.—Such uncleanness and abomination for Israel as has already been mentioned at v. 3, and in c. 65, v. 4, and in c. 57, vv. 5-9.

18. It shall come.—After this vengeance on the wicked God will gather the world to Zion to see his glory and to worship him.

19. Those that escape of them.—See c. 45, v. 20 : ‘Assemble yourselves . . . ye that are escaped of the nations.’ See also v. 14 of the same chapter. Those who remain of the warring nations, after the wars and destructions coming upon the earth, having been converted themselves to the God of Israel, shall go to all parts of the world spreading God’s name, and setting at liberty the widely dispersed Israelites, whom they shall bring back to Jerusalem as an offering to the Lord.

ib. Tarshish, Phul, and Lud, &c.—The prophet goes from west to east in his enumeration. For Tarshish see c. 60, v. 9, and the note there. Phul is the country mentioned with Lud in Ezekiel, xxvii. 10, and by him there called Phut, where the Greek and the Vulgate translate Libyans. In the text now before us the Greek has Phud or Phut after the Hebrew, but the Vulgate translates Africa. An African people is meant, and an African people famous in the use of the bow, which the Ethiopians, for example, were. Lud is Lydia, the well-known western kingdom of Asia Minor, conquered by Cyrus before his march against Babylon. Tubal is a people in the north-east of Asia Minor. Javan is Greece, Ionia; Homer has the word Iaones, which is very near Javan; and a Greek note-writer to another poet says : ‘The barbarians call all the Greeks Iaones.’ The sign mentioned at the beginning of this verse consists in the converted Gentiles going to convert the more distant heathen world, and to bring the scattered Israelites home.

20. And they shall bring, &c.—Compare c. 43, v. 5 ; and c. 49, v. 12 and v. 22.

ib. An offering.—The restored Israelites shall be offered by their Gentile liberators to the Lord in Zion, as gifts are offered to the Temple.

21. For priests and for Levites.—Of the Gentiles also shall priests and Levites for God's service be taken. Originally priests and Levites had been taken from the tribe of Levi only, but at c. 61, v. 6 it was said of the Israelites generally: 'Ye shall be named the priests of the Lord; men shall call you the ministers of our God.' And now, finally, our Prophet's horizons widen yet more, and he admits to the priesthood and ministry of God the Gentiles also.

23. From one new moon, &c.—Every new moon and every sabbath shall all flesh, Gentile as well as Jew, worship before the Lord.

24. The men that have transgressed.—The unfaithful and unrighteous who in the day of God's judgment have been separated and slain. See v. 16.

ib. Their worm shall not die, &c.—This expression is adopted in the New Testament: 'Where their worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched' (St. Mark ix. 44).

APPENDIX.

THE following shorter prophecies, relating in general to the same times and circumstances as the preceding, but which became incorporated with earlier prophecies, are here disengaged, and are given in the connexion and order to which they seem naturally to belong.

THE FIRST VISION.

[The prophet is in Babylon, living amongst its people, and partaking of its secure and magnificent life. Suddenly a vision reveals to him the conquest of Babylon by the Median army under Cyrus. This vision is to be conceived as a little anterior to the Great Prophecy.]

Isaiah 21, 1-10.

21 THE burden of the desert of the sea.

As whirlwinds in the south pass through; so it cometh from the desert, from a terrible land.

2 A grievous vision is declared unto me! the robber robbeth, and the spoiler spoileth. Go up, O Elam! besiege, O Media! all the sighing thereof have I made to cease.

3 Therefore are my loins filled with pain; pangs have taken hold upon me, as the pangs of a woman that travaileth: I was bowed down at the hearing of it; I was dismayed at the seeing of it.

4 My heart panted, fearfulness affrighted me: the night of my pleasure hath he turned into fear unto me.

5 Prepare the table, watch the watch, eat, drink.
—Rise, ye princes, anoint the shield!

6 FOR thus hath the LORD said unto me : Go, set a watchman, let him declare what he seeth ;

7 And if he see a train of couples of horsemen, a train of asses, a train of camels, let him hearken diligently with much heed.

8 And he cried as a lion : My lord, I stand continually upon the watch-tower in the daytime, and I am set in my ward whole nights.

9 AND, behold, there cometh a train of men, with couples of horsemen!

And he answered and said : Babylon is fallen, is fallen ! and all the graven images of her gods he hath broken unto the ground.

10 O my threshing-ground and thou son of my floor ! that which I have heard of the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, have I declared unto you.

NOTES.

CHAPTER 21.

1. The desert of the sea.—The sea is the Persian Gulf to the south-east of Babylon. This heading was not improbably prefixed to the prophecy by an ancient annotator.

2. As whirlwinds in the south, &c.—As the whirlwind passes through the desert by the sea to the south of Babylon, through that terrible land of storms and desolation, so passes the invading host through that desert, coming upon Babylon.

ib. The robber.—The Babylonian conqueror continues to plunder and afflict the captive Jews.

ib. Elam.—The Elymais of the Greeks, the country below Susa, at the head of the Persian Gulf, and south-east of Babylon. It joins Persia proper and belonged to the Persian Empire after Cyrus had founded this.

ib. Thereof.—Of the captive Israel, whom the Median conquest of Babylon is to deliver.

3. Filled with pain.—The prophet has lived in Babylon and with its people until his lot seems bound up with theirs, and the first hearing of their suddenly approaching ruin fills him with dismay.

4. The night of my pleasure.—The nightly feastings and rejoicings of luxurious Babylon.

5. Prepare the table, &c.—Babylon is feasting securely.

ib. Rise, ye princes.—On a sudden is heard the watchman's cry of alarm to the princes of Babylon to oil their shields, to get ready against approaching danger.

6. Set a watchman.—The watchman is here the spirit of vision of the prophet himself. The Median and Persian host is described, with its various composition. Strabo mentions the use of asses by the mounted troops of certain Asiatic nations.

8. As a lion.—The watchman, impatient, cries in a loud and angry voice, like that of a lion, to complain of his long and vain watching. But, even while he cries, the invading column appears; and his next cry is to announce: Babylon is fallen.

9. He hath broken.—Cyrus, an enemy to the Babylonian idolatry.

10. O my threshing-ground, &c.—Under the figure of a threshing-ground and the son of a threshing-floor (i. e. the corn threshed upon it) the prophet describes his own beaten, crushed and pounded people.

THE KING OF BABYLON.

(This prophecy may not improperly follow the preceding. It belongs to much the same date and circumstances; but the Median invasion has come yet nearer, and the overthrow of Babylon, the death and dishonour of its king, stand before the prophet's mind certain and clear, and fill him with exultation.)

Isaiah 13, 2-22; 14, 1-23.

- 13 LIFT ye up a banner upon the high mountain, exalt the voice unto them, shake the hand, that they may go in to the gates of the nobles!
- 3 I have commanded my consecrated ones, I have also called my mighty ones for mine anger, even my proudly rejoicing ones.
- 4 The noise of a multitude in the mountains, like as of a great people! a tumultuous noise of the kingdoms of nations gathered together! the LORD of hosts mustereth the host of the battle.
- 5 They come from a far country, from the end of heaven, even the LORD and the weapons of his indignation, to destroy the whole land!

- 6 Howl ye! for the day of the LORD is at hand:
it shall come as a destruction from the Almighty.
- 7 Therefore shall all hands be faint, and every man's heart shall melt,
- 8 And they shall be afraid: pangs and sorrows shall take hold of them; they shall be in pain as a woman that travaileth: they shall be amazed one at another; their faces shall be as flame-faces.
- 9 Behold, the day of the LORD cometh, cruel both with wrath and fierce anger, to lay the land desolate! and he shall destroy the sinners thereof out of it.
- 10 For the stars of heaven and the constellations thereof shall not give their light: the sun shall be darkened in his going forth, and the moon shall not cause her light to shine.
- 11 And I will punish the world for their evil, and the wicked for their iniquity; and I will cause the arrogancy of the proud to cease, and will lay low the haughtiness of the terrible.
- 12 I will make a man more precious than fine gold;
even a man than the golden wedge of Ophir.
- 13 Therefore I will shake the heavens, and the earth shall remove out of her place, in the wrath of the LORD of hosts, and in the day of his fierce anger.
- 14 And it shall be as the chased roe, and as sheep that no man gathereth : they shall every man turn to his own people, and flee every one into his own land.

15 Every one that is found shall be thrust through ; and every one that is overtaken shall fall by the sword.

16 Their children also shall be dashed to pieces before their eyes ; their houses shall be spoiled, and their wives ravished.

17 Behold, I will stir up the Medes against them, which shall not regard silver ; and as for gold, they shall not delight in it.

18 Their bows also shall dash the young men to pieces ; and they shall have no pity on the fruit of the womb ; their eye shall not spare children.

19 And Babylon, the glory of kingdoms, the beauty of the Chaldees' excellency, shall be as when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah.

20 It shall never be inhabited, neither shall it be dwelt in from generation to generation : neither shall the Arabian pitch tent there ; neither shall the shepherds make their fold there.

21 But wild beasts of the desert shall lie there ; and their houses shall be full of doleful creatures ; and ostriches shall dwell there, and satyrs shall dance there.

22 And the wild beasts of the waste shall cry in their lofty houses, and jackals in their pleasant palaces: and her time is near to come, and her days shall not be prolonged.

14 For the LORD will have mercy on Jacob, and will yet choose Israel, and set them in their own land: and the strangers shall be joined with them, and they shall cleave to the house of Jacob.

2 And the heathen shall take them, and bring them to their place; and the house of Israel shall possess them in the land of the LORD for servants and handmaids: and they shall take them captives, whose captives they were; and they shall rule over their oppressors.

3 AND it shall come to pass in the day that the LORD shall give thee rest from thy sorrow, and from thy fear, and from the hard bondage wherein thou wast made to serve,

4 That thou shalt take up this proverb against the king of Babylon, and say:—

How hath the oppressor ceased! the stress of the exactor ceased!

5 The LORD hath broken the staff of the wicked, and the sceptre of the rulers.

6 He who smote the people in wrath with a continual stroke, he that ruled the nations in anger, is persecuted, and none hindereth.

- 7 The whole earth is at rest, and is quiet: they break forth into singing.
- 8 Yea, the fir trees rejoice at thee, and the cedars of Lebanon, saying: Since thou art laid down, no feller is come up against us!
- 9 Hell from beneath is moved for thee to meet thee at thy coming: it stirreth up the dead for thee, even all the chief ones of the earth; it hath raised up from their thrones all the kings of the nations.
- 10 All these shall speak and say unto thee: 'Art thou also become weak as we? art thou become like unto us?'
- 11 Thy pomp is brought down to the grave, and the noise of thy viols: the worm is spread under thee, and the worms cover thee.
- 12 How art thou fallen from heaven, O Lucifer, son of the morning! how art thou cut down to the ground, which didst weaken the nations!
- 13 For thou saidst in thine heart: I will ascend into heaven, I will exalt my throne above the stars of God; I will sit also upon the mount of assembly, in the ends of the north:
- 14 I will ascend above the heights of the clouds; I will be like the most High.
- 15 Yet thou shalt be brought down to hell, to the sides of the pit!

- 16 They that see thee shall narrowly look upon thee, and consider thee, saying : Is this the man that made the earth to tremble, that did shake kingdoms?
- 17 That made the world as a wilderness, and destroyed the cities thereof? that loosed not his prisoners to their homes?
- 18 All the kings of the nations, even all of them, lie in glory, every one in his own house.
- 19 But thou art cast out of thy grave like a rejected branch ! thou art clothed around with them that are slain, that are thrust through with a sword, that go down to the stones of the pit ! as a carcase trodden under feet !
- 20 Thou shalt not be joined with them in burial, because thou hast destroyed thy land, and slain thy people : the seed of evildoers shall no more be named.
- 21 Prepare slaughter for his children for the iniquity of their fathers ! that they do not rise, nor possess the land, nor fill the face of the world with foes.
- 22 FOR I will rise up against them, saith the LORD of hosts, and cut off from Babylon the name, and remnant, and son, and grandson, saith the LORD.
- 23 I will also make it a possession for the hedgehog, and pools of water ; and I will sweep it with the besom of destruction, saith the LORD of hosts.

NOTES.

CHAPTER 13.

The invading host of Cyrus is at hand; the Jewish exiles in Babylon are directed to signal to the invaders to draw nigh, and to enter the proud city, which shall be dismayed and destroyed.

2. Shake the hand.—Beckon with the hand to the invaders.

ib. The nobles.—Of Babylon.

3. My consecrated ones.—God calls Cyrus and his host ‘my consecrated ones’ because they are his appointed instruments to work his vengeance on Babylon.

4. In the mountains.—The mountains between Media and the plain of the Euphrates, where the invading host, drawn from many and far nations, is mustered.

6. Howl ye.—Babylon and its people are addressed.

8. As flame-faces.—Lurid with terror.

10. The stars of heaven, &c.—Hebrew prophecy habitually applied to ‘a day of the Lord,’ such as the downfall of a mighty city or empire, figures drawn from great convulsions of nature. See c. 34, and the notes there.

14. It shall be as the chased roe.—The mixed multitude from all lands, who were brought together in great and rich Babylon, shall be dismayed and dispersed at its fall, and shall wander back as they can to the countries from whence they came.

17. The Medes.—Cyrus was a Persian, and Persia afterwards gave its name to the empire; but at this time the Persians were only known as a contingent of the Median host, and the invading power is spoken of as the Medes, Media. The same in Jeremiah li. 11.

ib. Which shall not regard silver.—The Medes are presented as a rude, raw, and fierce people, caring more for bloodshed than for wealth and luxury.

19. The Chaldees.—The people of Babylonia.

20. The Arabian.—The wandering Arab from the wastes of neighbouring Arabia.

21. Satyrs.—Wild men with the hair and characters of the goat. In the neighbourhood of the ruins of Babylon the belief in such creatures as haunting the ruins still subsists.

CHAPTER 14.

The Jews shall return home, and instead of being bondsmen to the stranger, they shall rule the stranger; and then they shall sing a song of triumph over their fallen tyrant, the king of Babylon.

1. The strangers.—Those of the mixed multitude, gathered in Babylon from all lands, who shall escort the Jews on their return to Palestine, and serve them there.

4. Proverb.—Proverb is used for a taunting speech or song. What follows may with advantage be compared, for weight and splendour of diction, with the great commos at the beginning of the Chœphoræ of Æschylus.

8. The fir-trees rejoice.—The king of Babylon can invade Syria and his other neighbouring countries, and waste them, and cut down their forests, no more.

10. All these shall speak, &c.—The kings who are already in Scheol, or Hades, shall rise up from their thrones in curiosity when the great king of Babylon comes down among them, fallen like themselves and extinguished. Their address to him ends with the words like unto us; in the next verse the prophet speaks again.

12. Lucifer.—The bright and glorious morning-star, used as an image of the king of Babylon in his day of splendour. From the occurrence of the name Lucifer in this verse to denote a great enemy of God, it came to be transferred by the Fathers, and in the popular use of the Middle Age, to Satan himself.

13. The mount of assembly, in the ends of the north.—The mount of assembly of the Gods of the heathen, placed by the Asiatic nations in the sacred north. Compare the Mount Meru of Indian religion, the sacred mountain of the Gods, in the Himalayas, on the extreme north of India.

18. In his own house.—His grave, the house of the grave. Other kings have honourable burial; the king of Babylon, slain in the massacre when Babylon was taken, lies cast out like a false and dishonoured scion of royalty, a trampled carcase, covered only by the bodies of the slain.

22. For I will rise.—With the preceding verse the ‘proverb’ against the king of Babylon ends; in what follows the prophet speaks in the Lord’s name.

23. I will sweep it with the besom of destruction.—After the massacre on the night of the taking of Babylon, when Belshazzar was slain, Cyrus spared the city, and proposed to make it the third city of his empire (coming after Susa and Ecbatana), and his winter-residence. He laid upon it, however, a heavy tribute. Under Darius Hystaspes it rose in revolt, and when it was at last taken after a long siege, it suffered very severely, and never recovered itself. Alexander meant to restore it, but was prevented by death. Under his successors its true desolation began, after the foundation of Seleucia in its neighbourhood; Babylon was exhausta vicinitate Seleuciæ, says the elder Pliny. Its condition since that time, and at present, well answers in general to the description by prophecy of its utter desolation and ruin.

EDOM AND ISRAEL.

(See the introductory note to chapter 63 of the Great Prophecy. In the crash and revolution of the epoch of Babylon's fall, Edom, that old and bitter enemy of Israel, shall be visited with God's vengeance and utterly wasted. Edom's savage exultation at Nebuchadnezzar's conquest of Jerusalem is familiar to us all from the 137th Psalm: 'Remember the children of Edom, O Lord, in the day of Jerusalem, how they said: Down with it, down with it, even to the ground!' Compare Jeremiah xlix. 7-22; and Ezekiel xxv. 12-14, and xxxv; and Obadiah. Israel, on the other hand, shall return in safety and joy to Zion. This prophecy supposes the same situation of things as the Great Prophecy.)

Isaiah 34, 35.

34 COME near, ye nations, to hear! and hearken, ye people! let the earth hear, and all that is therein; the world, and all things that come forth of it.

2 For the indignation of the LORD is upon all nations, and his fury upon all their armies: he hath utterly destroyed them, he hath delivered them to the slaughter.

3 Their slain also shall be cast out, and their stink shall come up out of their carcases, and the mountains shall be melted with their blood.

4 And all the host of heaven shall be dissolved, and the heavens shall be rolled together as a scroll; and all their host shall fall down, as the leaf falleth off from the vine, and as a falling fig from the fig tree.

5 For my sword hath been bathed in heaven! behold, it shall come down upon Edom, and upon the people of my curse, to judgment!

6 The sword of the LORD is filled with blood, it is made fat with fatness, and with the blood of lambs and goats, with the fat of the kidneys of rams: for the LORD hath a sacrifice in Bozrah, and a great slaughter in the land of Edom.

7 And the buffaloes shall fall down with them, and the bullocks with the bulls; and their land shall be soaked with blood, and their dust made fat with fatness.

8 For it is the day of the LORD'S vengeance, and the year of recompences for the controversy of Zion.

9 And the streams thereof shall be turned into pitch, and the dust thereof into brimstone, and the land thereof shall become burning pitch.

- 10 It shall not be quenched night nor day; the smoke thereof shall go up for ever: from generation to generation it shall lie waste; none shall pass through it for ever and ever.
- 11 But the pelican and the hedgehog shall possess it; the ostrich also and the raven shall dwell in it: and he shall stretch out upon it the line of confusion, and the weights of emptiness.
- 12 The nobles thereof shall no more call a king to the kingdom, and all her princes shall be nothing.
- 13 And thorns shall come up in her palaces, nettles and brambles in the fortresses thereof: and it shall be an habitation of jackals, and a court for the ostrich.
- 14 The wild cat and the wolf shall meet there, and the satyr shall cry to his fellow: the night-demon also shall rest there, and find for herself a place of rest.
- 15 There shall the arrow-snake make her nest, and lay, and hatch, and gather under her shadow: there shall the vultures also be gathered, every one with her mate.
- 16 Seek ye out of the book of the LORD, and read! no one of these shall fail, none shall want her mate: for his mouth it hath commanded, and his spirit it hath gathered them.
- 17 And he hath cast the lot for them there, and his hand hath divided it unto them by line : they shall possess it for ever, from generation to generation shall they dwell therein.

35 THE wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad ; and the desert shall rejoice, and blossom as the rose.

2 It shall blossom abundantly, and rejoice even with joy and singing : the glory of Lebanon shall be given unto it, the excellency of Carmel and Sharon ; they shall see the glory of the LORD, and the excellency of our God.

3 Strengthen ye the weak hands, and confirm the feeble knees !

4 Say to them that are of a fearful heart : Be strong, fear not ! behold, your God cometh with vengeance, even God with a recompence ; he will come and save you.

5 Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped.

6 Then shall the lame man leap as an hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing : for in the wilderness shall waters break out, and streams in the desert.

7 And the parched ground shall become a pool, and the thirsty land springs of water : in the habitation of jackals, where each lay, shall be grass with reeds and rushes.

- 8 And an highway shall be there, and a way; and it shall be called, The way of holiness; the unclean shall not pass over it, but it shall be for those: the wayfarer, though a fool, shall not err therein.
- 9 No lion shall be there, nor any ravenous beast shall go up thereon, it shall not be found there; but the redeemed shall walk there:
- 10 And the ransomed of the LORD shall return, and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads: they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away.

NOTES.

CHAPTER 34.

This chapter announces the ruin of Edom and its people.

4. The host of heaven shall be dissolved, &c.—The usual figures of prophecy for describing a 'day of the Lord.' The figures of this verse are adopted almost word for word in Revelations, vi. 13, 14.

5. My sword hath been bathed.—God speaks. The Vulgate has inebriatus est gladius. Bathed as in the wine of God's fury and made drunken.

6. Blood of lambs and goats.—Under the figure of a great sacrifice of lambs, goats, rams, bullocks, &c., is described the slaughter of the people and princes of Edom.

ib. Bozrah.—See note on lxiii. 1, of Great Prophecy.

9. Burning pitch.—Figures drawn from the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah. Compare xiii. 19.

11. The line of confusion, &c.—The measuring-line and measuring-weights of ruin and desolation.

14. The satyr.—See note to xiii. 21.

ib. The night-demon.—Lilith, corresponding to the Lamia of Greek and Roman demonology, a she-demon haunting waste places and supposed to be especially fatal to children.

15. And lay, and hatch. See note to lix. 5.

16. Seek ye out of the book of the Lord, and read.—The prophet means the book of his own prophecy. Read and mark it well, he says; everything which it announces shall come to pass. Compare Isaiah xxx. 8: ‘Now go, write it before them in a table, and note it in a book, that it may be for the time to come for ever and ever.’

ib. Of these.—Of these creatures of the wilderness and desolation.

CHAPTER 35.

In contrast to the ruin of Edom the Prophet now describes Israel’s triumphant march home through the blossoming wilderness. For similar pictures compare in the Great Prophecy xli. 18, 19; xliii. 20; xlviii. 21; li. 3, 11 (where the last verse of the present chapter occurs over again); and lv. 12, 13.

2. The excellency of Carmel and Sharon.—See note to lxv. 10, in the Great Prophecy.

8. An highway shall be there.—Compare lxii. 10.

ib. For those.—For the chosen people, who shall find the way so plain and easy that the weakest can march in it without difficulty.

EARLY DAYS OF RETURN.

(Babylon had now fallen and Israel was restored. But the wars, revolutions, and world-ruin, amidst which the downfall of Babylon took place, still continued. Cyrus perished miserably in an obscure war with a barbarous foe (B.C. 529); then came the storm of Egypt's invasion by his son, the furious Cambyses (B.C. 525). The air was full of rumours, and the earth of agitations; on the other hand, Jerusalem found itself, by God's wonderful leading and favour, restored. But the infant community there, though replaced in its home, was short of numbers, feeble, and fearful. The prophet animates and uplifts it by the assurance of its divine destinies.)

Isaiah 24-27.

24 BEHOLD, the LORD maketh the earth empty, and maketh it waste, and turneth it upside down, and scattereth abroad the inhabitants thereof.

2 And it shall be, as with the people, so with the priest; as with the servant, so with his master; as with the maid, so with her mistress; as with the buyer, so with the seller; as with the lender, so with the borrower; as with the taker of usury, so with the giver of usury to him.

- 3 The land shall be utterly emptied, and utterly spoiled : for the LORD hath spoken this word.
- 4 The earth mourneth and fadeth away, the world languisheth and fadeth away, the haughty people of the earth do languish.
- 5 The earth also is defiled under the inhabitants thereof ; because they have transgressed the laws, changed the ordinance, broken the everlasting covenant.
- 6 Therefore hath the curse devoured the earth, and they that dwell therein are desolate : therefore the inhabitants of the earth are burned, and few men left.
- 7 The new wine mourneth, the vine languisheth, all the merryhearted do sigh.
- 8 The mirth of tabrets ceaseth, the noise of them that rejoice endeth, the joy of the harp ceaseth.
- 9 They shall not drink wine with a song ; strong drink shall be bitter to them that drink it.
- 10 The city is solitary and broken down : every house is shut up, that no man may come in.
- 11 There is a crying for wine in the streets ; all joy is darkened, the mirth of the land is gone.
- 12 In the city is left desolation, and the gate is smitten with destruction.
- 13 THUS shall it be in the midst of the earth among the nations, as the shaking of an olive tree, and as the gleaning of grapes when the vintage is done.

14 They shall lift up their voice, they shall sing for the majesty of the LORD, they shall cry aloud from the sea.

15 Wherefore glorify ye the LORD in the east, even the name of the LORD God of Israel in the coasts of the sea!

16 From the uttermost part of the earth have we heard songs: Glory to the righteous! But I said, My leanness, my leanness, woe unto me! the robber robbeth; yea, the robber robbeth very sore.

17 Fear, and the pit, and the snare, are upon thee, O inhabitant of the earth!

18 And it shall come to pass, that he who fleeth from the noise of the fear shall fall into the pit; and he that cometh up out of the midst of the pit shall be taken in the snare: for the windows from on high are open, and the foundations of the earth do shake.

19 The earth is utterly broken down, the earth is clean dissolved, the earth is moved exceedingly.

20 The earth doth reel to and fro like a drunkard, and doth sway like a hammock; the transgression thereof is heavy upon it; and it shall fall, and not rise again.

- 21 And it shall come to pass in that day, that the LORD shall punish the host of heaven in the height, and the kings of the earth upon the earth.
- 22 And they shall be gathered together, as prisoners are gathered in the pit, and shall be shut up in the prison, and after many days shall they be visited.
- 23 Then the moon shall be confounded, and the sun ashamed, when the LORD of hosts shall reign in mount Zion, and in Jerusalem, and before his ancients gloriously.
- 25 O LORD, thou art my God! I will exalt thee, I will praise thy name; for thou hast done wonderful things; thy counsels of old are faithfulness and truth.
- 2 For thou hast made of a city an heap; of a defenced city a ruin: a palace of strangers to be no city; it shall never be built.
- 3 Therefore shall the strong people glorify thee, the city of the terrible nations shall fear thee.
- 4 For thou hast been a strength to the poor, a strength to the needy in his distress, a refuge from the storm, a shadow from the heat, when the blast of the terrible ones was as a storm against the wall.

- 5 Thou dost bring down the noise of strangers, as the heat in a dry place; as the heat by the shadow of a cloud, so the song of the terrible ones is brought low.
- 6 And in this mountain shall the LORD of hosts make unto all people a feast of fat things, a feast of wines on the lees, of fat things full of marrow, of wines on the lees well refined.
- 7 And he will destroy in this mountain the face of the covering cast over all people, and the vail that is spread over all nations.
- 8 He will swallow up death in victory; and the Lord GOD will wipe away tears from off all faces; and the rebuke of his people shall he take away from off all the earth: for the LORD hath spoken it.
- 9 And it shall be said in that day, Lo, this is our God! we have waited for him, and he will save us: this is the LORD! we have waited for him, we will be glad and rejoice in his salvation.
- 10 For in this mountain shall the hand of the LORD rest, and Moab shall be trodden down in his place, even as straw is trodden down in the dung-pool.
- 11 And they shall spread forth their hands in the midst thereof, as one that swimmeth spreadeth forth his hands to swim: and he shall bring down their pride together with the wiles of their hands.

12 The fortress of the high fort of thy walls shall he bring down, lay low, and bring to the ground, even to the dust.

26 IN that day shall this song be sung in the land of Judah :—

We have a strong city ; salvation will God appoint for walls and bulwarks.

2 Open ye the gates, that the righteous nation which keepeth the truth may enter in !

3 Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee ; because he trusteth in thee.

4 Trust ye in the LORD for ever ! for in the LORD JEHOVAH is everlasting strength :

5 For he bringeth down them that dwell on high ; the lofty city, he layeth it low ; he layeth it low, even to the ground ; he bringeth it even to the dust.

6 The foot shall tread it down, even the feet of the poor, and the steps of the needy.

7 The way of the just is made smooth : thou, most upright, dost make smooth the path of the just !

8 Yea, in the way of thy judgments, O LORD, have we waited for thee ! the desire of our soul was to thy name, and to the remembrance of thee.

- 9 With my soul have I desired thee in the night ;
yea, with my spirit within me do I seek thee early !
for when thy judgments are in the earth, the inhabitants of the world will learn righteousness.
- 10 Let favour be shewed to the wicked, so will he not learn righteousness : in the land of uprightness will he deal unjustly, and will not behold the majesty of the LORD.
- 11 LORD, thy hand is very high, but they see it not ; they will not see ! they shall see, and be ashamed at thy jealousy for the people ; yea, the fire of thine enemies shall devour them !
- 12 LORD, thou wilt ordain peace for us : for thou also hast wrought all our works for us.
- 13 O LORD our God, other lords beside thee have had dominion over us ; but of thee only will we make mention, of thy name !
- 14 They are dead, they shall not live ! they are deceased, they shall not rise ! because thou hast visited and destroyed them, and made all their memory to perish.
- 15 THOU dost increase the nation, O LORD, thou dost increase the nation ! thou art glorified : thou enlargest all the borders of the land.
- 16 LORD, in trouble they sought thee ; they poured out a prayer when thy chastening was upon them.

- 17 Like as a woman with child, that draweth near the time of her delivery, is in pain, and crieth out in her pangs; so have we been in thy sight, O LORD!
- 18 We have been with child, we have been in pain, we have as it were brought forth wind; we have not wrought any deliverance in the earth, neither are inhabitants of the land born unto it.
- 19 —Thy dead men shall live! my dead body, it shall arise! Awake and sing, ye that dwell in dust; for a dew of life is thy dew, and the earth shall bring forth the dead!
- 20 Come, my people, enter thou into thy chambers, and shut thy doors about thee: hide thyself as it were for a little moment, until the indignation be overpast.
- 21 For, behold, the LORD cometh out of his place to punish the inhabitants of the earth for their iniquity: the earth also shall disclose her blood, and shall no more cover her slain.
- 27 IN that day the LORD with his sore and great and strong sword shall punish leviathan the shooting serpent, even leviathan that coiling serpent; and he shall slay the dragon that is in the sea.
- 2 In that day sing ye thus of the fair vineyard:—
- 3 'I the LORD do keep it; I water it every moment : lest any hurt it, I keep it night and day.

4 'Fury is not in me : let them set the briers and thorns against me ! I will go through them in battle, I will burn them together.

5 'Or else let them take hold of my strength ! let them make peace with me ; let them make peace with me !'

6 He shall cause them that come of Jacob to take root : Israel shall blossom and bud, and fill the face of the world with fruit.

7 Hath he smitten him, as he smote those that smote him ? or is he slain according to the slaughter of them that slew him ?

8 In measure, chasing her forth, thou punishedst her ; driving her out with a rough wind in the day of the east wind.

9 By this therefore shall the iniquity of Jacob be purged, and this is all the fruit of putting off his sin : when he maketh all the stones of the altar as chalkstones that are beaten in sunder, that the groves and images shall stand up no more.

10 For the defenced city shall be desolate, and the habitation forsaken, and left like a wilderness : there shall the calf feed, and there shall he lie down, and consume the green boughs thereof.

11 When the branches thereof are withered, they shall be broken off: the women shall come, and set them on fire: for it is a people of no understanding: therefore he that made them will not have mercy on them, and he that formed them will shew them no favour.

12 And it shall come to pass in that day, that the LORD shall sift corn from the channel of the River unto the stream of Egypt, and ye shall be gathered one by one, O ye children of Israel!

13 And it shall come to pass in that day, that the great trumpet shall be blown, and they shall come which were forlorn in the land of Assyria, and the outcasts in the land of Egypt, and shall worship the LORD in the holy mount at Jerusalem.

NOTES.

CHAPTER 24.

This chapter declares what trouble and dissolution prevail on earth in this day of God's judgments.

5. Broken the everlasting covenant.—Not the special covenant with Israel, but God's everlasting covenant with the whole human race. Compare Genesis ix. 16: 'And the bow shall be in the cloud; and I will look upon it, that I may remember the everlasting covenant between God and every living creature of all flesh that is upon the earth.'

10. The city is solitary.—Dominating the picture of the general distress, is always the image of Babylon in ruin, great and luxurious Babylon, then recently fallen.

13. As the shaking of an olive-tree.—Compare Isaiah xvii. 6. Among the nations of the earth men shall be scarce as the single olives left to be shaken down, or the few grapes left to be gleaned, after the harvest is gathered. Those who remain shall glorify God and his dealings.

14. The sea.—The Mediterranean, around which sea all this history is transacted.

15. The coasts of the sea.—The western sea, the Mediterranean, and thus as the west contrasting with the east in the parallel clause preceding.

16. But I said.—The prophet, speaking as one of the scanty and trembling remnant of Israel, newly re-established in Jerusalem, refuses to be glad and hopeful amid the violence and confusion prevailing around him.

16. The robber robbeth.—The same expression is used in the First Vision. Here it is general, denoting the world-wide confusion prevalent. See xxi. 2.

18. The windows from on high are open.—A figure taken from the deluge to signify the flood of ruin submerging everything.

21. The host of heaven.—The offending powers of heaven and the offending kings of earth shall be punished together.

22. Visited.—For their final sentence and punishment.

23. His ancients.—The elders in Jerusalem, destined to rule with God in the reign of saints.

CHAPTER 25.

In the twenty-first verse of the preceding chapter the prophet had turned to the great future of God's triumph and glory which was to follow the present tribulation; he now goes on in the same strain.

2. Thou hast made of a city an heap.—The Prophet dwells on the impressive lesson of God's judgments conveyed by the recent fall of Babylon.

ib. A palace of strangers.—Of strangers and enemies to Israel.

3. The strong people.—This is probably said generally, and not with any special reference to the Medes who had conquered Babylon.

4. A storm against the wall.—The Chaldee paraphrase has, a storm which overthrows a wall. And this is probably the right sense; a storm so violent that it sweeps down walls before it.

5. As the heat in a dry place.—The clause following gives the mode in which the heat is brought down,—namely, by the shadow of clouds. As clouds quell heat, so God quells the tumult of ‘the strange children’ (Ps. xviii. 46, Prayer-Book Version).

6. Unto all people a feast.—The familiar figure of the kingdom of God as a feast at which all nations come and sit down. ‘Many shall come from east and west, and shall sit down with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, in the kingdom of heaven.’ Matth. viii. 11.

7. And he will destroy in this mountain.—The mountain is of course Zion. There is no sublimer text on the sublime theme here treated than this and the following verse.

8. He will swallow up death in victory.—St. Paul quotes this text, 1 Cor. xv. 54. The Greek Bible of the Seventy does not take the words thus, but the Greek versions of Aquila, Symmachus, and Theodotion do, and Theodotion has the same words as St. Paul.

ib. The rebuke of his people.—The reproach of failure cast on the people of righteousness.

10. Moab.—Moab is, with Edom, the standing type of the bitter and eternal enemy of God’s people, and the triumph of God’s people involves always vengeance upon Moab and Edom. Compare xxxiv. xxxv. Ezekiel puts Moab and Edom together, as offenders against Israel. See Ezek. xxv. 8–14.

11. They shall spread forth.—The wily Moab tries to save himself by swimming in the filthy pool where he is trodden down; but in vain.

12. Thy walls.—Moab is addressed. He refers to God.

CHAPTER 26.

The strain of elation and of trust in God continues. But the prophet, after celebrating the fall of those who have lorded it over God's people, turns his eyes upon the restored remnant and cannot but perceive how small and ineffectual it is, how far its actual power falls short of its high hopes and destinies. But the people of righteousness shall re-live; the earth shall give up God's saints, who are dead, to live with their re-animated nation, and to do God's work and share his reign when the present tyranny and tribulation are overpast.

2. Salvation will God appoint.—God's salvation shall be in place of walls and bulwarks to his Zion. Compare the Great Prophecy, lx. 18.

5. The lofty city.—Again the prophet recurs to Babylon and its recent fall.

10. So will he not learn.—The prosperity of the wicked misleads men; unless unrighteousness is punished, mankind will not quit it.

13. Other lords.—The former captors and oppressors of Israel, with especial reference to Babylon. They are now visited and destroyed.

15. Thou dost increase.—God is now restoring and exalting Israel again, and giving to him wide dominion.

16. Lord, in trouble we sought thee, &c.—But Israel, speaking by the prophet's voice, sees with disquietude and discouragement how ineffectual are his actual means, how little he has yet performed, how small are his present numbers.

17. Thy dead men shall live.—Sublimely recovering himself, the prophet cries that God's saints (Thy dead men), though they are dead, shall live, and, with the lifeless but re-animated body of the restored exiles (my dead body), shall found the kingdom of righteousness, after the present distress.

19. A dew of life.—Literally ‘a dew of lights.’ Light and life are in the Bible, as is well known, interchangeable ideas.

ib. Thy dew.—God’s dew.

ib. The earth shall bring forth the dead.—It may easily be conceived how this magnificent verse, taken literally, became a signal text for the doctrine of the resurrection of the dead which from this time onward began to prevail among the Jews. Compare Ezek. xxxvii. 1–14, and Dan. xii. 2.

20. Come, my people.—God’s voice exhorts Israel to patience and quiet until the storms of the troubled present shall have blown over.

21. The earth also shall disclose.—Iniquity shall no more remain hidden and unpunished.

CHAPTER 27.

The prophet continues to depict God’s care for the city and people of righteousness, and their assured permanency.

1. Leviathan, &c.—Probably the great Asiatic empires in general are here meant, and not any two of them in particular. ‘The dragon’ is the Biblical name for Egypt.

2. The fair vineyard.—A common Biblical figure for Israel. Compare Psalm lxxx. 8.

4. Fury is not in me, &c.—God is a gracious God, full of love and care for his vineyard; but if he is provoked by enemies of his vineyard (the briars and thorns) he will scatter and consume them, if indeed they do not (as they had better) prevent his wrath by humbling themselves and making peace with him.

5. Hath he smitten him, &c.—Israel has been punished, but not as his enemies and destroyers have been punished. Exile was in God's eyes a sufficient punishment for Israel, and his putting away idolatry is a sufficient title for re-admission to God's favour. Not such is Babylon's punishment and end, for Babylon is 'a people of no understanding.'

10. There shall the calf feed, &c.—Babylon shall be abandoned to desolation; the leafage of its gardens shall be browsed by animals or broken off for the oven.

12. The Lord shall sift corn.—Under the figure of sifting corn is announced the final collection and restoration of all the true Israel, however outcast and scattered. The river is Euphrates; the stream of Egypt is the torrent-bed of El Arisch, marking the boundary between Palestine and Egypt.

13. Assyria . . . Egypt.—The prophet reverts to old scenes of Israel's captivity to figure the house of bondage from which God's people shall be eternally delivered.

THE GREAT PROPHECY OF ISRAEL'S RESTORATION (Isaiah, Chapters 40—66). Arranged and Edited for Young Learners. By MATTHEW ARNOLD, D.C.L., formerly Professor of Poetry in the University of Oxford, and Fellow of Oriel. Third Edition. 18mo. cloth. 1s.

The Times says—"Whatever may be the fate of this little book in Government Schools, there can be no doubt that it will be found excellently calculated to further instruction in Biblical literature in any school into which it may be introduced. . . . We can safely say that whatever school uses this book, it will enable its pupils to understand Isaiah, a great advantage compared with other establishments which do not avail themselves of it."

Baring-Gould.—LEGENDS OF OLD TESTAMENT

CHARACTERS, from the Talmud and other sources. By the Rev. S. BARING-GOULD, M.A., Author of "Curious Myths of the Middle Ages," "The Origin and Development of Religious Belief," "In Exitu Israel," etc. In two vols. crown 8vo. 16s. Vol. I. Adam to Abraham. Vol. II. Melchizidek to Zechariah.

"These volumes contain much that is strange, and to the ordinary English reader, very novel."—Daily News.

Barry, Alfred, D.D.—THE ATONEMENT of CHRIST.

Six Lectures delivered in Hereford Cathedral during Holy Week, 1871. By ALFRED BARRY, D.D., D.C.L., Canon of Worcester, Principal of King's College, London. Fcap. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

In writing these Sermons, it has been the object of Canon Barry to set forth the deep practical importance of the doctrinal truths of the Atonement. The Guardian calls them "striking and eloquent lectures."

Benham.—A COMPANION TO THE LECTIONARY, being a Commentary on the Proper Lessons for Sundays and Holydays. By the Rev. W. BENHAM, B.D., Vicar of Margate. Cheaper Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

The Author's object is to give the reader a clear understanding of the Lessons of the Church, which he does by means of general and special introductions, and critical and explanatory notes on all words and passages presenting the least difficulty. "A very useful book. Mr. Benham has produced a good and welcome companion to our revised Lectionary. Its contents will, if not very original or profound, prove to be sensible and practical, and often suggestive to the preacher and the Sunday School teacher. They will also furnish some excellent Sunday reading for private hours."—Guardian.

Benson.—BOY-LIFE; ITS TRIAL, ITS STRENGTH, ITS FULNESS. Sundays in Wellington College 1859—73. By E. W. BENSON, Master. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

Bernard.—THE PROGRESS OF DOCTRINE IN THE NEW TESTAMENT, considered in Eight Lectures before the University of Oxford in 1864. By THOMAS D. BERNARD, M.A., Rector of Walcot and Canon of Wells. Third and Cheaper Edition. Crown 8vo. 5s. (Bampton Lectures for 1864.)

"We lay down these lectures with a sense not only of being edified by sound teaching and careful thought, but also of being gratified by conciseness and clearness of expression and elegance of style."—Churchman.

Binney.—SERMONS PREACHED IN THE KING'S WEIGH HOUSE CHAPEL, 1829—69. By THOMAS BINNEY, D.D. New and Cheaper Edition. Extra fcap. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

"Full of robust intelligence, of reverent but independent thinking on the most profound and holy themes, and of earnest practical purpose."—London Quarterly Review.

A SECOND SERIES OF SERMONS. Edited by the Rev. HENRY ALLON, D.D. With Portrait of Dr. Binney engraved by JEENS. 8vo. [Shortly.]

Bradby.—SERMONS PREACHED AT HAILEYBURY. By E. H. BRADBY, M.A., Master. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

"He who claims a public hearing now, speaks to an audience accustomed to Cotton, Temple, Vaughan, Bradley, Butler, Farrar, and others. . . . Each has given us good work, several work of rare beauty, force, or originality; but we doubt whether any one of them has touched deeper chords, or brought more freshness and strength into his sermons, than the last of their number, the present Head Master of Haileybury."—Spectator.

Burgon.—A TREATISE on the PASTORAL OFFICE.

Addressed chiefly to Candidates for Holy Orders, or to those who have recently undertaken the cure of souls. By the Rev. JOHN W. BURGON, M.A., Oxford. 8vo. 12s.

The object of this work is to expound the great ends to be accomplished by the Pastoral office, and to investigate the various means by which these ends may best be gained. Full directions are given as to preaching and sermon-writing, pastoral visitation, village education and catechising, and confirmation.—Spectator.

Butler (G.)—Works by the Rev. GEORGE BUTLER, M.A., Principal of Liverpool College :

FAMILY PRAYERS. Crown 8vo. 5s.

The prayers in this volume are all based on passages of Scripture—the morning prayers on Select Psalms, those for the evening on portions of the New Testament.

SERMONS PREACHED in CHELTENHAM COLLEGE CHAPEL. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

Butler (Rev. H. M.)—SERMONS PREACHED in the CHAPEL OF HARROW SCHOOL. By H. MONTAGU BUTLER, Head Master. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

“These sermons are adapted for every household. There is nothing more striking than the excellent good sense with which they are imbued.”—Spectator.

A SECOND SERIES. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

“Excellent specimens of what sermons should be,—plain, direct, practical, pervaded by the true spirit of the Gospel, and holding up lofty aims before the minds of the young.”—Athenæum.

Butler (Rev. W. Archer).—Works by the Rev. WILLIAM ARCHER BUTLER, M.A., late Professor of Moral Philosophy in the University of Dublin :—

SERMONS, DOCTRINAL AND PRACTICAL. Edited, with a Memoir of the Author's Life, by THOMAS WOODWARD, Dean of Down. With Portrait. Ninth Edition. 8vo. 8s.

The Introductory Memoir narrates in considerable detail and with much interest, the events of Butler's brief life; and contains a few specimens of his poetry, and a few extracts from his addresses and essays, including a long and eloquent passage on the Province and Duty of the Preacher.

A SECOND SERIES OF SERMONS. Edited by J. A. JEREMIE, D.D., Dean of Lincoln. Seventh Edition. 8vo. 7s.

The North British Review says, “Few sermons in our language exhibit the same rare combination of excellencies; imagery almost as rich as Taylor's; oratory as vigorous often as South's; judgment as sound as Barrow's; a style as attractive but more copious, original, and forcible than Atterbury's; piety as elevated as Howe's, and a fervour as intense at times as Baxter's. Mr. Butler's are the sermons of a true poet."

LETTERS ON ROMANISM, in reply to Dr. Newman's Essay on Development. Edited by the Dean of Down. Second Edition, revised by Archdeacon HARDWICK. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

These Letters contain an exhaustive criticism of Dr. Newman's famous "Essay on the Development of Christian Doctrine." "A work which ought to be in the Library of every student of Divinity."—BP. ST. DAVID'S.

Cambridge Lent Sermons.—SERMONS preached during Lent, 1864, in Great St. Mary's Church, Cambridge. By the BISHOP OF OXFORD, Revs. H. P. LIDDON, T. L. CLAUGHTON, J. R. WOODFORD, Dr. GOULBURN, J. W. BURGON, T. T. CARTER, Dr. PUSEY, Dean HOOK, W. J. BUTLER, Dean GOODWIN. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

Campbell.—Works by JOHN M'LEOD CAMPBELL:—

THE NATURE OF THE ATONEMENT AND ITS RELATION TO REMISSION OF SINS AND ETERNAL LIFE. Fourth and Cheaper Edition, crown 8vo. 6s.

"Among the first theological treatises of this generation."—Guardian.

"One of the most remarkable theological books ever written."—Times.

CHRIST THE BREAD OF LIFE. An Attempt to give a profitable direction to the present occupation of Thought with Romanism. Second Edition, greatly enlarged. Crown 8vo. 4s. 6d.

"Deserves the most attentive study by all who interest themselves in the predominant religious controversy of the day."—Spectator.

RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE GIFT OF ETERNAL LIFE. Compiled by permission of the late J. M'LEOD CAMPBELL, D.D., from Sermons preached chiefly at Row in 1829—31. Crown 8vo. 5s.

"There is a healthy tone as well as a deep pathos not often seen in sermons. His words are weighty and the ideas they express tend to perfection of life."—Westminster Review.

REMINISCENCES AND REFLECTIONS, referring to his Early Ministry in the Parish of Row, 1825—31. Edited with an Introductory Narrative by his Son, DONALD CAMPBELL, M.A., Chaplain of King's College, London. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

These 'Reminiscences and Reflections,' written during the last year of his life, were mainly intended to place on record thoughts which might prove helpful to others. "We recommend this book cordially to all who are interested in the great cause of religious reformation."—Times.

"There is a thoroughness and depth, as well as a practical earnestness, in his grasp of each truth on which he dilates, which make his reflections very valuable."—Literary Churchman.

THOUGHTS ON REVELATION, with Special Reference to the Present Time. Second Edition. Crown 8vo. 5s.

Canterbury.—THE PRESENT POSITION OF THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND. Seven Addresses delivered to the Clergy and Churchwardens of his Diocese, as his Charge, at his Primary Visitation, 1872. By ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL, Archbishop of Canterbury. Third Edition. 8vo. cloth. 3s. 6d.

The subjects of these Addresses are, I. Lay Co-operation. II. Cathedral Reform. III. and IV. Ecclesiastical Judicature. V. Ecclesiastical Legislation. VI. Missionary Work of the Church. VII. The Church of England in its relation to the Rest of Christendom. There are besides, a number of statistical and illustrative appendices.

Cheyne.—Works by T. K. CHEYNE, M.A., Fellow of Balliol College, Oxford:—

THE BOOK OF ISAIAH CHRONOLOGICALLY ARRANGED. An Amended Version, with Historical and Critical Introductions and Explanatory Notes. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

The object of this edition is to restore the probable meaning of Isaiah, so far as can be expressed in appropriate English. The basis of the version is the revised translation of 1611, but alterations have been introduced wherever the true sense of the prophecies appeared to require it. The Westminster Review speaks of it as "a piece of scholarly work, very carefully and considerately done." The Academy calls it "a successful attempt to extend a right understanding of this important Old Testament writing."

NOTES AND CRITICISMS on the HEBREW TEXT OF ISAIAH. Crown 8vo. 2s. 6d.

This work is offered as a slight contribution to a more scientific study of the Old Testament Scriptures. The author aims at completeness, independence, and originality, and constantly endeavours to keep philology distinct from exegesis, to explain the form without pronouncing on the matter.

Choice Notes on the Four Gospels, drawn from Old and New Sources. Crown 8vo. 4s. 6d. each Vol. (St. Matthew and St. Mark in one Vol. price 9s.).

These Notes are selected from the Rev. Prebendary Ford's Illustrations of the Four Gospels, the choice being chiefly confined to those of a more simple and practical character.

Church.—Works by the Very Rev. R. W. CHURCH, M.A., Dean of St. Paul's.

SERMONS PREACHED BEFORE the UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD. By the Very Rev. R. W. CHURCH, M.A., Dean of St. Paul's. Second Edition. Crown 8vo. 4s. 6d.

Sermons on the relations between Christianity and the ideas and facts of modern civilized society. The subjects of the various discourses are:—"The Gifts of Civilization," "Christ's Words and Christian Society," "Christ's Example," and "Civilization and Religion." "Thoughtful and masterly... We regard these sermons as a landmark in religious thought. They help us to understand the latent strength of a Christianity that is assailed on all sides."—Spectator.

ON SOME INFLUENCES OF CHRISTIANITY UPON
NATIONAL CHARACTER. Three Lectures delivered in St.
Paul's Cathedral, Feb. 1873. Crown 8vo. 4s. 6d.

"Few books that we have met with have given us keener pleasure than this..... It would be a real pleasure to quote extensively, so wise and so true, so tender and so discriminating are Dean Church's judgments, but the limits of our space are inexorable. We hope the book will be bought."
—Literary Churchman.

THE SACRED POETRY OF EARLY RELIGIONS.
Two Lectures in St. Paul's Cathedral. 18mo. 1s. I. The Vedas.
II. The Psalms.

Clay.—THE POWER OF THE KEYS. Sermons preached in Coventry. By the Rev. W. L. CLAY, M.A. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

Clergyman's Self-Examination concerning the APOSTLES' CREED. Extra fcap. 8vo. 1s. 6d.

Colenso.—THE COMMUNION SERVICE FROM THE BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER; with Select Readings from the Writings of the Rev. F. D. MAURICE, M.A. Edited by the Right Rev. J. W. COLENSO, D.D., Lord Bishop of Natal. New Edition. 16mo. 2s. 6d.

Collects of the Church of England. With a beautifully Coloured Floral Design to each Collect; and Illuminated Cover. Crown 8vo. 12s. Also kept in various styles of morocco.

The distinctive characteristic of this edition is the coloured floral design which accompanies each Collect, and which is generally emblematical of the character of the day or saint to which it is assigned; the flowers which have been selected are such as are likely to be in bloom on the day to which the Collect belongs. The Guardian thinks it "a successful attempt to associate in a natural and unforced manner the flowers of our fields and gardens with the course of the Christian year."

Cotton.—Works by the late GEORGE EDWARD LYNCH COTTON, D.D., Bishop of Calcutta :—

SERMONS PREACHED TO ENGLISH CONGREGATIONS IN INDIA. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

"The sermons are models of what sermons should be, not only on account of their practical teachings, but also with regard to the singular felicity with which they are adapted to times, places, and circumstances."
—Spectator.

EXPOSITORY SERMONS ON THE EPISTLES FOR THE SUNDAYS OF THE CHRISTIAN YEAR. Two Vols. Crown 8vo. 15s.

These two volumes contain in all fifty-seven Sermons. They were all preached at various stations throughout India.

Cure.—THE SEVEN WORDS OF CHRIST ON THE CROSS. Sermons preached at St. George's, Bloomsbury. By the Rev. E. CAPEL CURE, M.A. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

Of these Sermons the John Bull says, "They are earnest and practical;" the Nonconformist, "The Sermons are beautiful, tender, and instructive;" and the Spectator calls them "A set of really good Sermons."

Curteis.—DISSENT in its RELATION to the CHURCH OF ENGLAND. Eight Lectures preached before the University of Oxford, in the year 1871, on the foundation of the late Rev. John Bampton, M.A., Canon of Salisbury. By GEORGE HERBERT CURTEIS, M.A., late Fellow and Sub-Rector of Exeter College; Principal of the Lichfield Theological College, and Prebendary of Lichfield Cathedral; Rector of Turweston, Bucks. Third and Cheaper Edition, crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

"Mr. Curteis has done good service by maintaining in an eloquent, temperate, and practical manner, that discussion among Christians is really an evil, and that an intelligent basis can be found for at least a proximate union."—Saturday Review "A well timed, learned, and thoughtful book."

Davies.—Works by the Rev. J. LLEWELYN DAVIES, M.A., Rector of Christ Church, St. Marylebone, etc. :—

THE WORK OF CHRIST; or, the World Reconciled to God. With a Preface on the Atonement Controversy. Fcap. 8vo. 6s.

SERMONS on the MANIFESTATION OF THE SON OF GOD. With a Preface addressed to Laymen on the present Position of the Clergy of the Church of England; and an Appendix on the Testimony of Scripture and the Church as to the possibility of Pardon in the Future State. Fcap. 8vo. 6s. 6d.

"This volume, both in its substance, prefix, and suffix, represents the noblest type of theology now preached in the English Church."—Spectator.

BAPTISM, CONFIRMATION, AND THE LORD'S SUPPER, as Interpreted by their Outward Signs. Three Expository Addresses for Parochial use. Fcap. 8vo., limp cloth. 1s. 6d.

The method adopted in these addresses is to set forth the natural and historical meaning of the signs of the two Sacraments and of Confirmation, and thus to arrive at the spiritual realities which they symbolize. The work touches on all the principal elements of a Christian man's faith.

THE EPISTLES of ST. PAUL TO THE EPHESIANS, THE COLOSSIANS, and PHILEMON. With Introductions and Notes, and an Essay on the Traces of Foreign Elements in the Theology of these Epistles. 8vo. 7s. 6d.

THE GOSPEL AND MODERN LIFE; with a Preface on a Recent Phase of Deism. Second Edition. To which is added Morality according to the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, or Three Discourses on the Names Eucharist, Sacrifice, and Communion. Extra fcap. 8vo. 6s.

WARNINGS AGAINST SUPERSTITION IN FOUR SERMONS FOR THE DAY. Extra fcap. 8vo. 2s. 6d

"We have seldom read a wiser little book. The Sermons are short, terse, and full of true spiritual wisdom, expressed with a lucidity and a moderation that must give them weight even with those who agree least with their author. . . . Of the volume as a whole it is hardly possible to speak with too cordial an appreciation."—Spectator.

THE CHRISTIAN CALLING. Sermons. Extra fcap. 8vo. 6s.

De Teissier.—Works by G. F. DE TEISSIER, B.D.:—

VILLAGE SERMONS, FIRST SERIES. Crown 8vo. 9s.

This volume contains fifty-four short Sermons, embracing many subjects of practical importance to all Christians. The Guardian says they are "a little too scholarlike in style for a country village, but sound and practical."

VILLAGE SERMONS, SECOND SERIES. Crown 8vo. 8s. 6d.

"This second volume of Parochial Sermons is given to the public in the humble hope that it may afford many seasonable thoughts for such as are Mourners in Zion." There are in all fifty-two Sermons embracing a wide variety of subjects connected with Christian faith and practice.

Donaldson.—THE APOSTOLICAL FATHERS: a Critical Account of their Genuine Writings and of their Doctrines. By JAMES DONALDSON, LL.D. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

This book was published in 1864 as the first volume of a 'Critical History of Christian Literature and Doctrine from the death of the Apostles to the Nicene Council.' The intention was to carry down the history continuously to the time of Eusebius, and this intention has not been abandoned. But as the writers can be sometimes grouped more easily according to subject or locality than according to time, it is deemed advisable to publish the history of each group separately. The Introduction to the present volume serves as an introduction to the whole period.

Drake.—THE TEACHING OF THE CHURCH DURING THE FIRST THREE CENTURIES ON THE DOCTRINES OF THE CHRISTIAN PRIESTHOOD AND SACRIFICE. By the Rev. C. B. DRAKE, M.A., Warden of the Church of England Hall, Manchester. Crown 8vo. 4s. 6d.

Ecce Homo. A SURVEY OF THE LIFE AND WORK OF JESUS CHRIST. Eleventh Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

"A very original and remarkable book, full of striking thought and delicate perception; a book which has realised with wonderful vigour and freshness the historical magnitude of Christ's work, and which here and there gives us readings of the finest kind of the probable motive of His individual words and actions."—Spectator. "The best and most established believer will find it adding some fresh buttresses to his faith."—Literary Churchman. "If we have not misunderstood him, we have before us a writer who has a right to claim deference from those who think deepest and know most."—Guardian.

Faber.—SERMONS AT A NEW SCHOOL. By the Rev. ARTHUR FABER, M.A., Head Master of Malvern College. Cr. 8vo. 6s.

"These are high-toned, earnest Sermons, orthodox and scholarlike, and laden with encouragement and warning, wisely adapted to the needs of school-life."—Literary Churchman. "Admirably realizing that combination of fresh vigorous thought and simple expression of wise parental counsel, with brotherly sympathy and respect, which are essential to the success of such sermons, and to which so few attain."—British Quarterly Review.

Farrar.—Works by the Rev. F. W. FARRAR, M.A., F.R.S., Head Master of Marlborough College, and Hon. Chaplain to the Queen:—

THE FALL OF MAN, AND OTHER SERMONS. Third Edition. Extra fcap. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

Sermons to develope a system of doctrine. In each discourse some one aspect of truth is taken up, the chief object being to point out its bearings on practical religious life. The Nonconformist says of these Sermons,—“Mr. Farrar’s Sermons are almost perfect specimens of one type of Sermons, which we may concisely call beautiful. The style of expression is beautiful—there is beauty in the thoughts, the illustrations, the allusions—they are expressive of genuinely beautiful perceptions and feelings.” The British Quarterly says,—“Ability, eloquence, scholarship, and practical usefulness, are in these Sermons combined in a very unusual degree.”

THE WITNESS OF HISTORY TO CHRIST. Being the Hulsean Lectures for 1870. New Edition. Crown 8vo. 5s.

The following are the subjects of the Five Lectures:—I. “The Antecedent Credibility of the Miraculous.” II. “The Adequacy of the Gospel Records.” III. “The Victories of Christianity.” IV. “Christianity and the Individual.” V. “Christianity and the Race.” The subjects of the four Appendices are:—A. “The Diversity of Christian Evidences.” B. “Confucius.” C. “Buddha.” D. “Comte.”

SEEKERS AFTER GOD. The Lives of Seneca, Epictetus, and Marcus Aurelius. See SUNDAY LIBRARY at end of Catalogue.

THE SILENCE AND VOICES OF GOD: University and other Sermons. Second Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

“We can most cordially recommend Dr. Farrar’s singularly beautiful volume of Sermons. . . . For beauty of diction, felicity of style, aptness of illustration and earnest loving exhortation, the volume is without its parallel.”—John Bull. “They are marked by great ability, by an honesty which does not hesitate to acknowledge difficulties and by an earnestness which commands respect.”—Pall Mall Gazette.

Fellowship: LETTERS ADDRESSED TO MY SISTER MOURNERS. Fcap. 8vo. cloth gilt. 3s. 6d.

“A beautiful little volume, written with genuine feeling, good taste, and a right appreciation of the teaching of Scripture relative to sorrow and suffering.”—Nonconformist. “A very touching, and at the same time a very sensible book. It breathes throughout the truest Christian spirit.”—Contemporary Review.

Forbes.—THE VOICE OF GOD IN THE PSALMS. By GRANVILLE FORBES, Rector of Broughton. Cr. 8vo. 6s. 6d.

Gifford.—THE GLORY OF GOD IN MAN. By E. H. GIFFORD, D.D. Fcap. 8vo., cloth. 3s. 6d.

Golden Treasury Psalter. See p. 27.

Hardwick.—Works by the Ven. ARCHDEACON HARDWICK :
CHRIST AND OTHER MASTERS. A Historical Inquiry into some of the Chief Parallelisms and Contrasts between Christianity and the Religious Systems of the Ancient World. New Edition, revised, and a Prefatory Memoir by the Rev. FRANCIS PROCTER, M.A. Third and Cheaper Edition. Cr. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

The plan of the work is boldly and almost nobly conceived. . . . We commend it to the perusal of all those who take interest in the study of ancient mythology, without losing their reverence for the supreme authority of the oracles of the living God.—Christian Observer.

A HISTORY OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH. Middle Age. From Gregory the Great to the Excommunication of Luther, Edited by WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History in the University of Oxford. With Four Maps constructed for this work by A. KEITH JOHNSTON. New Edition. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

For this edition Professor Stubbs has carefully revised both text and notes, making such corrections of facts, dates, and the like as the results of recent research warrant. The doctrinal, historical, and generally speculative views of the late author have been preserved intact. "As a Manual for the student of ecclesiastical history in the Middle Ages, we know no English work which can be compared to Mr. Hardwick's book."—Guardian.

A HISTORY of the CHRISTIAN CHURCH DURING THE REFORMATION. New Edition, revised by Professor STUBBS. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

This volume is intended as a sequel and companion to the "History of the Christian Church during the Middle Age."

Hare.—THE VICTORY OF FAITH. By JULIUS CHARLES HARE, M.A., Archdeacon of Lewes. Edited by Prof. PLUMPTRE. With Introductory Notices by the late Prof. MAURICE and Dean STANLEY. Third Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s. 6d.

Harris.—SERMONS. By the late GEORGE COLLYER HARRIS, Prebendary of Exeter, and Vicar of St. Luke's, Torquay. With Memoir by CHARLOTTE M. YONGE, and Portrait. Extra fcap. 8vo. 6s.

Hervey.—THE GENEALOGIES OF OUR LORD AND SAVIOUR JESUS CHRIST, as contained in the Gospels of St. Matthew and St. Luke, reconciled with each other, and shown to be in harmony with the true Chronology of the Times. By Lord ARTHUR HERVEY, Bishop of Bath and Wells. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

Hymni Ecclesiæ.—Fcap. 8vo. 7s. 6d.

Hyacinthe.—CATHOLIC REFORM. By FATHER HYACINTHE. Letters, Fragments, Discourses. Translated by Madame HYACINTHE-LOYSON. With a Preface by the Very Rev. A. P. STANLEY, D.D., Dean of Westminster. Cr. 8vo. 7s. 6d.

"A valuable contribution to the religious literature of the day, and is especially opportune at a time when a controversy of no ordinary importance upon the very subject it deals with is engaged in all over Europe."—Daily Telegraph.

Imitation of Christ.—FOUR BOOKS. Translated from the Latin. With Preface by the Rev. W. BENHAM, B.D., Vicar of Margate. Printed with Borders in the Ancient Style after Holbein, Dürer, and other Old Masters. Containing Dances of Death, Acts of Mercy, Emblems, and a variety of curious ornamentation. Cr. 8vo. gilt edges. 7s. 6d.

Jennings and Lowe.—THE PSALMS, with Introductions and Critical Notes. By A. C. JENNINGS, B.A., Jesus College, Cambridge, Tyrwhitt Scholar, Crosse Scholar, Hebrew University Scholar, and Fry Scholar of St. John's College; and W. H. LOWE, M.A., Hebrew Lecturer and late Scholar of Christ's College, Cambridge, and Tyrwhitt Scholar. Books III. and IV. (Psalm lxxiii. to cvi.) Crown 8vo. 6s.

Kempis, Thos. A.—DE IMITATIONE CHRISTI. LIBRI IV. Borders in the Ancient Style, after Holbein, Durer, and other Old Masters, containing Dances of Death, Acts of Mercy, Emblems, and a variety of curious ornamentation. In white cloth, extra gilt. 7s. 6d.

Kingsley.—Works by the late Rev. CHARLES KINGSLEY, M.A., Rector of Eversley, and Canon of Westminster.

THE WATER OF LIFE, AND OTHER SERMONS. Second Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

VILLAGE SERMONS. Seventh Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

THE GOSPEL OF THE PENTATEUCH. Second Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

GOOD NEWS OF GOD. Fourth Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

SERMONS FOR THE TIMES. Third Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

Here are twenty-two Sermons, all bearing more or less on the every-day life of the present day, including such subjects as these:—"Fathers and Children;" "A Good Conscience;" "Names;" "Sponsorship;" "Duty and Superstition;" "England's Strength;" "The Lord's Prayer;" "Shame;" "Forgiveness;" "The True Gentleman;" "Public Spirit."

TOWN AND COUNTRY SERMONS. Second Edition. Extra fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

Some of these Sermons were preached before the Queen, and some in the performance of the writer's ordinary parochial duty. Of these Sermons the Nonconformist says, "They are warm with the fervour of the preacher's own heart, and strong from the force of his own convictions. There is nowhere an attempt at display, and the clearness and simplicity of the style make them suitable for the youngest or most unintelligent of his hearers."

SERMONS on NATIONAL SUBJECTS. Second Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

THE KING OF THE EARTH, and other Sermons, a Second Series of Sermons on National Subjects. Second Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

The following extract from the Preface to the 2nd Series will explain the preacher's aim in these Sermons:—"I have tried.....to proclaim the Lord Jesus Christ, as the Scriptures, both in their strictest letter and in their general method, from Genesis to Revelation, seem to me to proclaim Him; not merely as the Saviour of a few elect souls, but as the light and life of every human being who enters into the world; as the source of all reason, strength, and virtue in heathen or in Christian; as the King and Ruler of the whole universe, and of every nation, family, and man on earth; as the Redeemer of the whole earth and the whole human race.... His death, as a full, perfect, and sufficient sacrifice, oblation, and satisfaction for the sins of the whole world, by which God is reconciled to the whole human race."

DISCIPLINE, AND OTHER SERMONS. Fcp. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

The Guardian says,—“There is much thought, tenderness, and devoutness of spirit in these Sermons, and some of them are models both in matter and expression.”

DAVID. FIVE SERMONS. Second Edition, enlarged. Fcap. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

These Sermons were preached before the University of Cambridge, and are specially addressed to young men. Their titles are,—“David's Weakness;” “David's Strength;” “David's Anger;” “David's Deserts.”

Kingsley (Rev. C.)—continued.WESTMINSTER SERMONS. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

These Sermons were preached at Westminster Abbey or at one of the Chapels Royal. Their subjects are:—The Mystery of the Cross: The Perfect Love: The Spirit of Whitsuntide: Prayer: The Deaf and Dumb: The Fruits of the Spirit: Confusion: The Shaking of the Heavens and the Earth: The Kingdom of God: The Law of the Lord: God the Teacher: The Reasonable Prayer: The One Escape: The Word of God: I: The Cedars of Lebanon: Life: Death: Signs and Wonders: The Judgments of God: The War in Heaven: Noble Company: De Pro-jundis: The Blessing and the Curse: The Silence of Faith: God and Mammon: The Beatific Vision.

Lightfoot.—Works by J. B. LIGHTFOOT, D.D., Hulsean Professor of Divinity in the University of Cambridge; Canon of St. Paul's.

ST. PAUL'S EPISTLE TO THE GALATIANS. A Revised Text, with Introduction, Notes, and Dissertations. Fourth Edition, revised. 8vo. cloth. 12s.

While the Author's object has been to make this commentary generally complete, he has paid special attention to everything relating to St. Paul's personal history and his intercourse with the Apostles and Church of the Circumcision, as it is this feature in the Epistle to the Galatians which has given it an overwhelming interest in recent theological controversy. The Spectator says "there is no commentator at once of sounder judgment and more liberal than Dr. Lightfoot."

ST. PAUL'S EPISTLE TO THE PHILIPPIANS. A Revised Text, with Introduction, Notes, and Dissertations. Third Edition. 8vo. 12s.

"No commentary in the English language can be compared with it in regard to fulness of information, exact scholarship, and laboured attempts to settle everything about the epistle on a solid foundation."—Athenæum.

ST. PAUL'S EPISTLES TO THE COLOSSIANS AND PHILEMON. A Revised Text with Introduction, Notes, etc. 8vo. 12s.

ST. CLEMENT OF ROME, THE TWO EPISTLES TO THE CORINTHIANS. A Revised Text, with Introduction and Notes. 8vo. 8s. 6d.

This volume is the first part of a complete edition of the Apostolic Fathers. The Introductions deal with the questions of the genuineness and authenticity of the Epistles, discuss their date and character, and analyse their contents. An account is also given of all the different epistles which bear the name of Clement of Rome. "By far the most copiously annotated edition of St. Clement which we yet possess, and the most convenient in every way for the English reader."—Guardian.

ON A FRESH REVISION OF THE ENGLISH NEW TESTAMENT. Second Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

The Author shews in detail the necessity for a fresh revision of the authorized version on the following grounds:—1. False Readings. 2. Artificial distinctions created. 3. Real distinctions obliterated. 4. Faults of Grammar. 5. Faults of Lexicography. 6. Treatment of Proper Names, official titles, etc. 7. Archaisms, defects in the English, errors of the press, etc. "The book is marked by careful scholarship, familiarity with the subject, sobriety, and circumspection."—Athenæum.

Luckock.—THE TABLES OF STONE. A Course of Sermons preached in All Saints' Church, Cambridge, by H. M. LUCKOCK, M.A., Vicar, Canon of Ely. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.Maclaren.—SERMONS PREACHED at MANCHESTER. By ALEXANDER MACLAREN. Fifth Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

These Sermons represent no special school, but deal with the broad principles of Christian truth, especially in their bearing on practical, every day life. A few of the titles are:—"The Stone of Stumbling," "Love and Forgiveness," "The Living Dead," "Memory in Another World," "Faith in Christ," "Love and Fear," "The Choice of Wisdom," "The Food of the World."

A SECOND SERIES OF SERMONS. Third Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

The Spectator characterises them as "vigorous in style, full of thought, rich in illustration, and in an unusual degree interesting."

A THIRD SERIES OF SERMONS. Second Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

Sermons more sober and yet more forcible, and with a certain wise and practical spirituality about them it would not be easy to find."—Spectator.

Maclear.—Works by the Rev. G. F. MACLEAR, D.D., Head Master of King's College School:—A CLASS-BOOK OF OLD TESTAMENT HISTORY. With Four Maps. Eighth Edition. 18mo. 4s. 6d.

"The present volume," says the Preface, "forms a Class-Book of Old Testament History from the Earliest Times to those of Ezra and Nehemiah. In its preparation the most recent authorities have been consulted, and wherever it has appeared useful, Notes have been subjoined illustrative of the Text, and, for the sake of more advanced students, references added to larger works. The Index has been so arranged as to form a concise Dictionary of the Persons and Places mentioned in the course of the Narrative. "The Maps, prepared by Stanford, materially add to the value and usefulness of the book. The British Quarterly Review calls it "A careful and elaborate, though brief compendium of all that modern research has done for the illustration of the Old Testament. We know of no work which contains so much important information in so small a compass."

A CLASS-BOOK OF NEW TESTAMENT HISTORY.

Including the Connexion of the Old and New Testament. Fifth Edition. 18mo. 5s. 6d.

The present volume forms a sequel to the Author's Class-Book of Old Testament History, and continues the narrative to the close of St. Paul's second imprisonment at Rome. The work is divided into three Books—I. The Connection between the Old and New Testaments. II. The Gospel History. III. The Apostolic History. In the Appendix are given Chronological Tables. The Clerical Journal says, "It is not often that such an amount of useful and interesting matter on biblical subjects, is found in so convenient and small a compass, as in this well-arranged volume."

A CLASS-BOOK OF THE CATECHISM OF THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND. New and Cheaper Edition.

The present work is intended as a sequel to the two preceding books. "Like them, it is furnished with notes and references to larger works, and it is hoped that it may be found, especially in the higher forms of our Public Schools, to supply a suitable manual of instruction in the chief doctrines of our Church, and a useful help in the preparation of Candidates for Confirmation." The Literary Churchman says, "It is indeed the work of a scholar and divine, and as such, though extremely simple, it is also extremely instructive. There are few clergy who would not find it useful in preparing candidates for Confirmation; and there are not a few who would find it useful to themselves as well."

A FIRST CLASS-BOOK OF THE CATECHISM OF THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND, with Scripture Proofs for Junior Classes and Schools. New Edition. 18mo. 6d.

This is an epitome of the larger Class-book, meant for junior students and elementary classes. The book has been carefully condensed, so as to contain clearly and fully, the most important part of the contents of the larger book.

A SHILLING-BOOK OF OLD TESTAMENT HISTORY.

New Edition. 18mo. cloth limp. 1s.

This Manual bears the same relation to the larger Old Testament History, that the book just mentioned does to the larger work on the Catechism. It consists of Ten Books, divided into short chapters, and subdivided into

A SHILLING-BOOK OF NEW TESTAMENT HISTORY.
New Edition. 18mo. cloth limp. 1s.

A MANUAL OF INSTRUCTION FOR CONFIRMATION AND FIRST COMMUNION, with Prayers and Devotions. 32mo. cloth extra, red edges. 2s.

This is an enlarged and improved edition of 'The Order of Confirmation.' To it have been added the Communion Office, with Notes and Explanations, together with a brief form of Self Examination and Devotions selected from the works of Cosin, Ken, Wilson, and others.

THE ORDER OF CONFIRMATION, with Prayers and Devotions. 32mo. cloth. 6d.

THE FIRST COMMUNION, with Prayers and Devotions for the Newly Confirmed. 32mo. 6d.

THE HOUR OF SORROW ; or, The Order for the Burial of the Dead. With Prayers and Hymns. 32mo. cloth extra. 2s.

THE TRUE VINE ; or, the Analogies of our Lord's Allegory. Third Edition. Globe 8vo. 6s.

This work is not merely an exposition of the fifteenth chapter of St. John's Gospel, but also a general parable of spiritual truth from the world of plants. It describes a few of the points in which the varied realm of vegetable life comes into contact with the higher spiritual realm, and shows how rich a field of promise lies before the analogical mind in this direction. The Nonconformist says, "It abounds in exquisite bits of description, and in striking facts clearly stated." The British Quarterly says, "Readers and preachers who are unscientific will find many of his illustrations as valuable as they are beautiful."

BIBLE TEACHINGS IN NATURE. Ninth Edition. Globe 8vo. 6s.

In this volume the author has endeavoured to show that the teaching of nature and the teaching of the Bible are directed to the same great end ; that the Bible contains the spiritual truths which are necessary to make us wise unto salvation, and the objects and scenes of nature are the pictures by which these truths are illustrated. "He has made the world more beautiful to us, and unsealed our ears to voices of praise and messages of love that might otherwise have been unheard."—British Quarterly Review.

"Mr. Macmillan has produced a book which may be fitly described as one of the happiest efforts for enlisting physical science in the direct service of religion."—Guardian.

THE MINISTRY OF NATURE. Third Edition. Globe
 8vo. 6s.

In this volume the Author attempts to interpret Nature on her religious side in accordance with the most recent discoveries of physical science, and to shew how much greater significance is imparted to many passages of Scripture and many doctrines of Christianity when looked at in the light of these discoveries. Instead of regarding Physical Science as antagonistic to Christianity, the Author believes and seeks to shew that every new discovery tends more strongly to prove that Nature and the Bible have One Author. "Whether the reader agree or not with his conclusions, he will acknowledge he is in the presence of an original and thoughtful writer."—Pall Mall Gazette. "There is no class of educated men and women that will not profit by these essays."—Standard.

M'Clellan.—THE NEW TESTAMENT OF OUR LORD AND SAVIOUR JESUS CHRIST, a New Translation on the Basis of the Authorised Version, from a Critically revised Greek Text. Newly arranged in Paragraphs with Analyses, copious References and Illustrations from original authorities, New Chronological and Analytical Harmony of the Four Gospels, Notes and Dissertations. A contribution to Christian Evidence. By JOHN BROWN M'CLELLAN, M.A., Vicar of Bottisham, Rural Dean of North Camps, and late Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge. In Two Vols. Vol. I. The Four Gospels with the Chronological and Analytical Harmony. 8vo. 3os.

Maurice.—Works by the late Rev. F. DENISON MAURICE, M.A., Professor of Moral Philosophy in the University of Cambridge.

The Spectator says—"Few of those of our own generation whose names will live in English history or literature have exerted so profound and so permanent an influence as Mr. Maurice."

THE PATRIARCHS AND LAWGIVERS OF THE OLD TESTAMENT. Third and Cheaper Edition. Crown
 8vo. 5s.

The Nineteen Discourses contained in this volume were preached in the chapel of Lincoln's Inn during the year 1851. The texts are taken from the books of Genesis, Exodus, Numbers, Deuteronomy, Joshua, Judges, and Samuel, and involve some of the most interesting biblical topics discussed in recent times.

THE PROPHETS AND KINGS OF THE OLD TESTAMENT. Third Edition, with new Preface. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

Mr. Maurice, in the spirit which animated the compilers of the Church Lessons, has in these Sermons regarded the Prophets more as preachers of righteousness than as mere predictors—an aspect of their lives which, he thinks, has been greatly overlooked in our day, and than which, there is none we have more need to contemplate. He has found that the Old Testament Prophets, taken in their simple natural sense, clear up many of the difficulties which beset us in the daily work of life; make the past intelligible, the present endurable, and the future real and hopeful.

THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN.

A Series of Lectures on the Gospel of St. Luke. Crown 8vo. 9s.

Mr. Maurice, in his Preface to these Twenty-eight Lectures, says,—“In these Lectures I have endeavoured to ascertain what is told us respecting the life of Jesus by one of those Evangelists who proclaim Him to be the Christ, who says that He did come from a Father, that He did baptize with the Holy Spirit, that He did rise from the dead. I have chosen the one who is most directly connected with the later history of the Church, who was not an Apostle, who professedly wrote for the use of a man already instructed in the faith of the Apostles. I have followed the course of the writer’s narrative, not changing it under any pretext. I have adhered to his phraseology, striving to avoid the substitution of any other for his.”

THE GOSPEL OF ST. JOHN. A Series of Discourses.

Third and Cheaper Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

These Discourses, twenty-eight in number, are of a nature similar to those on the Gospel of St. Luke, and will be found to render valuable assistance to any one anxious to understand the Gospel of the beloved disciple, so different in many respects from those of the other three Evangelists. Appended are eleven notes illustrating various points which occur throughout the discourses. The Literary Churchman thus speaks of this volume:—“Thorough honesty, reverence, and deep thought pervade the work, which is every way solid and philosophical, as well as theological, and abounding with suggestions which the patient student may draw out more at length for himself.”

THE EPISTLES OF ST. JOHN. A Series of Lectures on Christian Ethics. Second and Cheaper Edition. Cr. 8vo. 6s.

These Lectures on Christian Ethics were delivered to the students of the Working Men’s College, Great Ormond Street, London, on a series of Sunday mornings. Mr. Maurice believes that the question in which we are most interested, the question which most affects our studies and our daily lives, is the question, whether there is a foundation for human morality, or whether it is dependent upon the opinions and fashions of different ages and countries. This important question will be found amply and fairly discussed in this volume, which the National Review calls "Mr. Maurice's most effective and instructive work. He is peculiarly fitted by the constitution of his mind, to throw light on St. John's writings." Appended is a note on "Positivism and its Teacher."

EXPOSITORY SERMONS ON THE PRAYER-BOOK.

The Prayer-book considered especially in reference to the Romish System. Second Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 5s. 6d.

After an Introductory Sermon, Mr. Maurice goes over the various parts of the Church Service, expounds in eighteen Sermons, their intention and significance, and shews how appropriate they are as expressions of the deepest longings and wants of all classes of men.

LECTURES ON THE APOCALYPSE, or Book of the Revelation of St. John the Divine. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

Mr. Maurice, instead of trying to find far-fetched allusions to great historical events in the distant future, endeavours to discover the plain, literal, obvious meaning of the words of the writer, and shews that as a rule these refer to events contemporaneous with or immediately succeeding the time when the book was written. At the same time he shews the applicability of the contents of the book to the circumstances of the present day and of all times. "Never," says the Nonconformist, "has Mr. Maurice been more reverent, more careful for the letter of the Scripture, more discerning of the purpose of the Spirit, or more sober and practical in his teaching, than in this volume on the Apocalypse."

WHAT IS REVELATION? A Series of Sermons on the Epiphany; to which are added, Letters to a Theological Student on the Bampton Lectures of Mr. Mansel. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

Both Sermons and Letters were called forth by the doctrine maintained by Mr. Mansel in his Bampton Lectures, that Revelation cannot be a direct Manifestation of the Infinite Nature of God. Mr. Maurice maintains the opposite doctrine, and in his Sermons explains why, in spite of the high authorities on the other side, he must still assert the principle which he discovers in the Services of the Church and throughout the Bible.

SEQUEL TO THE INQUIRY, "WHAT IS REVELATION?" Letters in Reply to Mr. Mansel's Examination of "Strictures on the Bampton Lectures." Crown 8vo. 6s.

This, as the title indicates, was called forth by Mr. Mansel's Examination of Mr. Maurice's Strictures on his doctrine of the Infinite.

THEOLOGICAL ESSAYS. Third Edition. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

"The book," says Mr. Maurice, "expresses thoughts which have been working in my mind for years; the method of it has not been adopted carelessly; even the composition has undergone frequent revision." There are seventeen Essays in all, and although meant primarily for Unitarians, to quote the words of the Clerical Journal, "it leaves untouched scarcely any topic which is in agitation in the religious world; scarcely a moot point between our various sects; scarcely a plot of debateable ground between Christians and Infidels, between Romanists and Protestants, between Socinians and other Christians, between English Churchmen and Dissenters on both sides. Scarce is there a misgiving, a difficulty, an aspiration stirring amongst us now,—now, when men seem in earnest as hardly ever before about religion, and ask and demand satisfaction with a fearlessness which seems almost awful when one thinks what is at stake—which is not recognised and grappled with by Mr. Maurice."

THE DOCTRINE OF SACRIFICE DEDUCED FROM THE SCRIPTURES. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

Throughout the Nineteen Sermons contained in this volume, Mr. Maurice expounds the ideas which he has formed of the Doctrine of Sacrifice, as it is set forth in various parts of the Bible.

THE RELIGIONS OF THE WORLD, AND THEIR RELATIONS TO CHRISTIANITY. Fourth Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 5s.

These Eight Boyle Lectures are divided into two parts, of four Lectures each. In the first part Mr. Maurice examines the great Religious systems which present themselves in the history of the world, with the purpose of inquiring what is their main characteristic principle. The second four Lectures are occupied with a discussion of the questions, "In what relation does Christianity stand to these different faiths? If there be a faith which is meant for mankind, is this the one, or must we look for another?"

ON THE LORD'S PRAYER. Fourth Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

In these Nine Sermons the successive petitions of the Lord's Prayer are taken up by Mr. Maurice, their significance expounded, and, as was usual with him, connected with the every-day lives, feelings, and aspirations of the men of the present time.

ON THE SABBATH DAY; the Character of the Warrior, and on the Interpretation of History. Fcap. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

THE GROUND AND OBJECT OF HOPE FOR MANKIND. Four Sermons preached before the University of Cambridge. Crown 8vo. 3s. 6d.

In these Four Sermons Mr. Maurice views the subject in four aspects:—I. The Hope of the Missionary. II. The Hope of the Patriot. III. The Hope of the Churchman. IV. The Hope of Man. The Spectator says, "It is impossible to find anywhere deeper teaching than this ;" and the Nonconformist, "We thank him for the manly, noble, stirring words in these Sermons—words fitted to quicken thoughts, to awaken high aspiration, to stimulate to lives of goodness."

THE LORD'S PRAYER, THE CREED, AND THE COMMANDMENTS. A Manual for Parents and Schoolmasters.

To which is added the Order of the Scriptures. 18mo. cloth limp. 1s.

This book is not written for clergymen, as such, but for parents and teachers, who are often either prejudiced against the contents of the Catechism, or regard it peculiarly as the clergyman's book, but, at the same time, have a general notion that a habit of prayer ought to be cultivated, that there are some things which ought to be believed, and some things which ought to be done. It will be found to be peculiarly valuable at the present time, when the question of religious education is occupying so much attention.

THE CLAIMS OF THE BIBLE AND OF SCIENCE.

A Correspondence on some Questions respecting the Pentateuch.

Crown 8vo. 4s. 6d.

This volume consists of a series of Fifteen Letters, the first and last addressed by a 'Layman' to Mr. Maurice, the intervening thirteen written by Mr. Maurice himself.

DIALOGUES ON FAMILY WORSHIP. Crown 8vo. 6s.

"The parties in these Dialogues," says the Preface, "are a Clergyman who accepts the doctrines of the Church, and a Layman whose faith in them is nearly gone. The object of the Dialogues is not confutation, but the discovery of a ground on which two Englishmen and two fathers may stand, and on which their country and their children may stand when their places know them no more."

THE COMMANDMENTS CONSIDERED AS INSTRUMENTS OF NATIONAL REFORMATION. Crown

8vo. 4s. 6d.

The author endeavours to shew that the Commandments are now, and ever have been, the great protesters against Presbyteral and Prelatical assumptions, and that if we do not receive them as Commandments of the Lord God spoken to Israel, and spoken to every people under heaven now, we lose the greatest witnesses we possess for national morality and civil freedom.

MORAL AND METAPHYSICAL PHILOSOPHY. Vol.

I. Ancient Philosophy from the First to the Thirteenth Centuries.

Vol. II. Fourteenth Century and the French Revolution, with a Glimpse into the Nineteenth Century. Two Vols. 8vo. 25s.

Philosophy from the earliest period to the present time. It was formerly issued in a number of separate volumes, and it is believed that all admirers of the author and all students of philosophy will welcome this compact edition. In a long introduction to this edition, in the form of a dialogue, Professor Maurice justifies his own views, and touches upon some of the most important topics of the time.

SOCIAL MORALITY. Twenty-one Lectures delivered in the University of Cambridge. New and Cheaper Edition. Cr. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

"Whilst reading it we are charmed by the freedom from exclusiveness and prejudice, the large charity, the loftiness of thought, the eagerness to recognise and appreciate whatever there is of real worth extant in the world, which animates it from one end to the other. We gain new thoughts and new ways of viewing things, even more, perhaps, from being brought for a time under the influence of so noble and spiritual a mind."
—Athenæum.

THE CONSCIENCE: Lectures on Casuistry, delivered in the University of Cambridge. Second and Cheaper Edition. Crown 8vo. 5s.

In this series of nine Lectures, Professor Maurice, endeavours to settle what is meant by the word "Conscience," and discusses the most important questions immediately connected with the subject. Taking "Casuistry" in its old sense as being the "study of cases of Conscience," he endeavours to show in what way it may be brought to bear at the present day upon the acts and thoughts of our ordinary existence. He shows that Conscience asks for laws, not rules; for freedom, not chains; for education, not suppression. He has abstained from the use of philosophical terms, and has touched on philosophical systems only when he fancied "they were interfering with the rights and duties of wayfarers." The Saturday Review says: "We rise from the perusal of these lectures with a detestation of all that is selfish and mean, and with a living impression that there is such a thing as goodness after all."

LECTURES ON THE ECCLESIASTICAL HISTORY OF THE FIRST AND SECOND CENTURIES. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

In the first chapter on "The Jewish Calling," besides expounding his idea of the true nature of a "Church," the author gives a brief sketch of the position and economy of the Jews; while in the second he points out their relation to "the other Nations." Chapter Third contains a succinct account of the various Jewish Sects, while in Chapter Fourth are briefly set forth Mr. Maurice's ideas of the character of Christ and the nature of His mission, and a sketch of events is given up to the Day of Pentecost. The remaining Chapters, extending from the Apostles' personal Ministry to the end of the Second Century, contain sketches of the character and work of all the prominent men in any way connected with the Early Church, accounts of the origin and nature of the various doctrines orthodox and heretical which had their birth during the period, as well as of the planting and early history of the Chief Churches in Asia, Africa and Europe.

LEARNING AND WORKING. Six Lectures delivered in Willis's Rooms, London, in June and July, 1854.—THE RELIGION OF ROME, and its Influence on Modern Civilisation. Four Lectures delivered in the Philosophical Institution of Edinburgh, in December, 1854. Crown 8vo. 5s.

SERMONS PREACHED IN COUNTRY CHURCHES. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

"Earnest, practical, and extremely simple."—Literary Churchman.
"Good specimens of his simple and earnest eloquence. The Gospel incidents are realized with a vividness which we can well believe made the common people hear him gladly. Moreover they are sermons which must have done the hearers good."—John Bull.

Moorhouse.—Works by JAMES MOORHOUSE, M.A., Vicar of Paddington:—

SOME MODERN DIFFICULTIES RESPECTING THE FACTS OF NATURE AND REVELATION. Fcap. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

The first of these Four Discourses is a systematic reply to the Essay of the Rev. Baden Powell on Christian Evidences in "Essays and Reviews." The fourth Sermon, on "The Resurrection," is in some measure complementary to this, and the two together are intended to furnish a tolerably complete view of modern objections to Revelation. In the second and third Sermons, on the "Temptation" and "Passion," the author has endeavoured "to exhibit the power and wonder of those great facts within the spiritual sphere, which modern theorists have especially sought to discredit."

JACOB. Three Sermons preached before the University of Cambridge in Lent 1870. Extra fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

THE HULSEAN LECTURES FOR 1865. Cr. 8vo. 5s.

"Few more valuable works have come into our hands for many years. . . a most fruitful and welcome volume."—Church Review.

O'Brien.—AN ATTEMPT TO EXPLAIN and ESTABLISH THE DOCTRINE OF JUSTIFICATION by FAITH ONLY. By JAMES THOMAS O'BRIEN, D.D., Bishop of Ossory. Third Edition. 8vo. 12s.

This work consists of Ten Sermons. The first four treat of the nature and mutual relations of Faith and Justification; the fifth and sixth examine the corruptions of the doctrine of Justification by Faith only, and the objections which have been urged against it. The four concluding sermons deal with the moral effects of Faith. Various Notes are added explanatory of the Author's reasoning.

Palgrave.—HYMNS. By FRANCIS TURNER PALGRAVE.
Third Edition, enlarged. 18mo. 1s. 6d.

This is a collection of twenty original Hymns, which the Literary Churchman speaks of as "so choice, so perfect, and so refined,—so tender in feeling, and so scholarly in expression."

Paul of Tarsus. An Inquiry into the Times and the Gospel of the Apostle of the Gentiles. By a GRADUATE. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

The Author of this work has attempted, out of the materials which were at his disposal, to construct for himself a sketch of the time in which St. Paul lived, of the religious systems with which he was brought in contact, of the doctrine which he taught, and of the work which he ultimately achieved. "Turn where we will throughout the volume, we find the best fruit of patient inquiry, sound scholarship, logical argument, and fairness of conclusion. No thoughtful reader will rise from its perusal without a real and lasting profit to himself, and a sense of permanent addition to the cause of truth."—Standard.

Picton.—THE MYSTERY OF MATTER; and other Essays. By J. ALLANSON PICTON, Author of "New Theories and the Old Faith." Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

Contents—The Mystery of Matter: The Philosophy of Ignorance: The Antithesis of Faith and Sight: The Essential Nature of Religion: Christian Pantheism.

Prescott.—THE THREEFOLD CORD. Sermons preached before the University of Cambridge. By J. E. PRESCOTT, B.D. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

Procter.—A HISTORY OF THE BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER: With a Rationale of its Offices. By FRANCIS PROCTER, M.A. Twelfth Edition, revised and enlarged. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

The Athenæum says:—"The origin of every part of the Prayer-book has been diligently investigated,—and there are few questions or facts connected with it which are not either sufficiently explained, or so referred to, that persons interested may work out the truth for themselves."

Procter and Maclear.—AN ELEMENTARY INTRODUCTION TO THE BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER. Re-arranged and Supplemented by an Explanation of the Morning and Evening Prayer and the Litany. By F. PROCTER, M.A. and G. F. MACLEAR, D.D. New Edition. 18mo. 2s. 6d.

This book has the same object and follows the same plan as the Manuals already noticed under Mr. Maclear's name. Each book is subdivided into chapters and sections. In Book I. is given a detailed History of the Book of Common Prayer down to the Attempted Revision in the Reign of William III. Book II., consisting of four Parts, treats in order the various parts of the Prayer Book. Notes, etymological, historical, and critical, are given throughout the book, while the Appendix contains several articles of much interest and importance. Appended is a General Index and an Index of Words explained in the Notes. The Literary Churchman characterizes it as "by far the completest and most satisfactory book of its kind we know. We wish it were in the hands of every schoolboy and every schoolmaster in the kingdom."

Psalms of David CHRONOLOGICALLY ARRANGED.

An Amended Version, with Historical Introductions and Explanatory Notes. By FOUR FRIENDS. Second and Cheaper Edition, much enlarged. Crown 8vo. 8s. 6d.

One of the chief designs of the Editors, in preparing this volume, was to restore the Psalter as far as possible to the order in which the Psalms were written. They give the division of each Psalm into strophes, and of each strophe into the lines which composed it, and amend the errors of translation. The Spectator calls it "One of the most instructive and valuable books that have been published for many years."

Golden Treasury Psalter.—THE STUDENT'S EDITION.

Being an Edition with briefer Notes of the above. 18mo. 3s. 6d.

This volume will be found to meet the requirements of those who wish for a smaller edition of the larger work, at a lower price for family use, and for the use of younger pupils in Public Schools. The short notes which are appended to the volume will, it is hoped, suffice to make the meaning intelligible throughout. The aim of this edition is simply to put the reader as far as possible in possession of the plain meaning of the writer. "It is a gem," the Nonconformist says.

Ramsay.—THE CATECHISER'S MANUAL; or, the Church Catechism Illustrated and Explained, for the Use of Clergymen, Schoolmasters, and Teachers. By ARTHUR RAMSAY, M.A. Second Edition. 18mo. 1s. 6d.

Rays of Sunlight for Dark Days. A Book of Selections for the Suffering. With a Preface by C. J. VAUGHAN, D.D. 18mo. New Edition. 3s. 6d. Also in morocco, old style.

Dr. Vaughan says in the Preface, after speaking of the general run of Books of Comfort for Mourners, "It is because I think that the little volume now offered to the Christian sufferer is one of greater wisdom and of deeper experience, that I have readily consented to the request that I would introduce it by a few words of Preface." The book consists of a series of very brief extracts from a great variety of authors, in prose and poetry, suited to the many moods of a mourning or suffering mind. "Mostly gems of the first water."—Clerical Journal.

Reynolds.—NOTES OF THE CHRISTIAN LIFE. A Selection of Sermons by HENRY ROBERT REYNOLDS, B.A., President of Cheshunt College, and Fellow of University College, London. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

This work may be taken as representative of the mode of thought and feeling which is most popular amongst the freer and more cultivated Nonconformists. "It is long," says the Nonconformist, "since we have met with any published sermons better calculated than these to stimulate devout thought, and to bring home to the soul the reality of a spiritual life."

Roberts.—DISCUSSIONS ON THE GOSPELS. By the Rev. ALEXANDER ROBERTS, D.D. Second Edition, revised and enlarged. 8vo. 16s.

"The author brings the valuable qualifications of learning, temper, and an independent judgment."—Daily News.

Robertson.—PASTORAL COUNSELS. Being Chapters on Practical and Devotional Subjects. By the late JOHN ROBERTSON, D.D. Third Edition, with a Preface by the Author of "The Recreations of a Country Parson." Extra fcap. 8vo. 6s.

These Sermons are the free utterances of a strong and independent thinker. He does not depart from the essential doctrines of his Church, but he expounds them in a spirit of the widest charity, and always having most prominently in view the requirements of practical life. "The sermons are admirable specimens of a practical, earnest, and instructive style of pulpit teaching."—Nonconformist.

Romanes.—CHRISTIAN PRAYER AND GENERAL LAWS, being the Burney Prize Essay for 1873. With an Appendix, examining the views of Messrs. Knight, Robertson, Brooke, Tyndall, and Galton. By GEORGE J. ROMANES, M.A. Crown 8vo. 5s.

Rowsell.—MAN'S LABOUR AND GOD'S HARVEST. Sermons preached before the University of Cambridge in Lent, 1861. Fcap. 8vo. 3s.

"We strongly recommend this little volume to young men, and especially to those who are contemplating working for Christ in Holy Orders."—Literary Churchman.

Salmon.—THE REIGN OF LAW, and other Sermons, preached in the Chapel of Trinity College, Dublin. By the Rev. GEORGE SALMON, D.D., Regius Professor of Divinity in the University of Dublin. Crown 8vo. 6s.

"Well considered, learned, and powerful discourses."—Spectator.

Sanday.—THE AUTHORSHIP AND HISTORICAL CHARACTER OF THE FOURTH GOSPEL, considered in reference to the Contents of the Gospel itself. A Critical Essay. By WILLIAM SANDAY, M.A., Fellow of Trinity College, Oxford. Crown 8vo. 8s. 6d.

"The Essay is not only most valuable in itself, but full of promise for the future."—Canon Westcott in the Academy.

Selborne.—THE BOOK OF PRAISE: From the Best English Hymn Writers. Selected and arranged by Lord SELBORNE. With Vignette by WOOLNER. 18mo. 4s. 6d.

It has been the Editor's desire and aim to adhere strictly, in all cases in which it could be ascertained, to the genuine uncorrupted text of the authors themselves. The names of the authors and date of composition of the hymns, when known, are affixed, while notes are added to the volume, giving further details. The Hymns are arranged according to subjects. "There is not room for two opinions as to the value of the 'Book of Praise.'" —Guardian. "Approaches as nearly as one can conceive to perfection." —Nonconformist.

Sergeant.—SERMONS. By the Rev. E. W. SERGEANT, M.A., Balliol College, Oxford; Assistant Master at Westminster College. Fcap. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

Shipley.—A THEORY ABOUT SIN, in relation to some Facts of Daily Life. Lent Lectures on the Seven Deadly Sins. By the Rev. ORBY SHIPLEY, M.A. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

"Two things Mr. Shipley has done, and each of them is of considerable worth. He has grouped these sins afresh on a philosophic principle and he has applied the touchstone to the facts of our moral life . . . so wisely and so searchingly as to constitute his treatise a powerful antidote to self-deception."—Literary Churchman.

Smith.—PROPHECY A PREPARATION FOR CHRIST. Eight Lectures preached before the University of Oxford, being the Bampton Lectures for 1869. By R. PAYNE SMITH, D.D., Dean of Canterbury. Second and Cheaper Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

The author's object in these Lectures is to shew that there exists in the Old Testament an element, which no criticism on naturalistic principles can either account for or explain away: that element is Prophecy. The author endeavours to prove that its force does not consist merely in its predictions. "These Lectures overflow with solid learning."—Record.

Smith.—CHRISTIAN FAITH. Sermons preached before the University of Cambridge. By W. SAUMAREZ SMITH, M.A., Principal of St. Aidan's College, Birkenhead. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

"Appropriate and earnest sermons, suited to the practical exhortation of an educated congregation."—Guardian.

Stanley.—Works by the Very Rev. A. P. STANLEY, D.D., Dean of Westminster.

THE ATHANASIAN CREED, with a Preface on the General Recommendations of the RITUAL COMMISSION. Cr. 8vo. 2s.

The object of the work is not so much to urge the omission or change of the Athanasian Creed, as to shew that such a relaxation ought to give offence to no reasonable or religious mind. With this view, the Dean of Westminster discusses in succession—(1) the Authorship of the Creed, (2) its Internal Characteristics, (3) the Peculiarities of its Use in the Church of England, (4) its Advantages and Disadvantages, (5) its various Interpretations, and (6) the Judgment passed upon it by the Ritual Commission. In conclusion, Dr. Stanley maintains that the use of the Athanasian Creed should no longer be made compulsory. "Dr. Stanley puts with admirable force the objections which may be made to the Creed; equally admirable, we think, in his statement of its advantages."—Spectator.

THE NATIONAL THANKSGIVING. Sermons preached in Westminster Abbey. Second Edition. Crown 8vo. 2s. 6d.

These Sermons are (1) "Death and Life," preached December 10, 1871; (2) "The Trumpet of Patmos," December 17, 1871; (3) "The Day of Thanksgiving," March 3, 1872. "In point of fervour and polish by far the best specimens in print of Dean Stanley's eloquent style."—Standard.

Swainson.—Works by C. A. SWAINSON, D.D., Canon of Chichester :—

THE CREEDS OF THE CHURCH IN THEIR RELATIONS TO HOLY SCRIPTURE and the CONSCIENCE OF THE CHRISTIAN. 8vo. cloth. 9s.

The Lectures which compose this volume discuss, amongst others, the following subjects: "Faith in God," "Exercise of our Reason," "Origin and Authority of Creeds," and "Private Judgment, its use and exercise." "Treating of abstruse points of Scripture, he applies them so forcibly to Christian duty and practice as to prove eminently serviceable to the Church."—John Bull.

THE AUTHORITY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT, and other LECTURES, delivered before the University of Cambridge. 8vo. cloth. 12s.

The first series of Lectures in this work is on "The Words spoken by the Apostles of Jesus," "The Inspiration of God's Servants," "The Human Character of the Inspired Writers," and "The Divine Character of the Word written." The second embraces Lectures on "Sin as Imperfection," "Sin as Self-will," "Whatsoever is not of Faith is Sin," "Christ the Saviour," and "The Blood of the New Covenant." The third is on "Christians One Body in Christ," "The One Body the Spouse of Christ," "Christ's Prayer for Unity," "Our Reconciliation should be manifested in common Worship," and "Ambassadors for Christ."

Taylor.—THE RESTORATION OF BELIEF. New and Revised Edition. By ISAAC TAYLOR, Esq. Crown 8vo. 8s. 6d.

The earlier chapters are occupied with an examination of the primitive history of the Christian Religion, and its relation to the Roman government; and here, as well as in the remainder of the work, the author shews the bearing of that history on some of the difficult and interesting questions which have recently been claiming the attention of all earnest men. The last chapter of this New Edition treats of "The Present Position of the Argument concerning Christianity," with special reference to M. Renan's Vie de Jésus.

Temple.—SERMONS PREACHED IN THE CHAPEL OF RUGBY SCHOOL. By F. TEMPLE, D.D., Bishop of Exeter. New and Cheaper Edition. Extra fcap. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

This volume contains Thirty-five Sermons on topics more or less intimately connected with every-day life. The following are a few of the subjects discoursed upon:—"Love and Duty;" "Coming to Christ;" "Great Men;" "Faith;" "Doubts;" "Scruples;" "Original Sin;" "Friendship;" "Helping Others;" "The Discipline of Temptation;" "Strength a Duty;" "Worldliness;" "Ill Temper;" "The Burial of the Past."

A SECOND SERIES OF SERMONS PREACHED IN THE CHAPEL OF RUGBY SCHOOL. Second Edition. Extra fcap. 8vo. 6s.

This Second Series of Forty-two brief, pointed, practical Sermons, on topics intimately connected with the every-day life of young and old, will be acceptable to all who are acquainted with the First Series. The following are a few of the subjects treated of:—"Disobedience," "Almsgiving," "The Unknown Guidance of God," "Apathy one of our Trials," "High Aims in Leaders," "Doing our Best," "The Use of Knowledge," "Use of Observances," "Martha and Mary," "John the Baptist," "Severity

A THIRD SERIES OF SERMONS PREACHED IN RUGBY SCHOOL CHAPEL IN 1867—1869. Extra fcap. 8vo. 6s.

This third series of Bishop Temple's Rugby Sermons, contains thirty-six brief discourses, including the "Good-bye" sermon preached on his leaving Rugby to enter on the office he now holds.

Thring.—Works by Rev. EDWARD THRING, M.A.

SERMONS DELIVERED AT UPPINGHAM SCHOOL. Crown 8vo. 5s.

In this volume are contained Forty-seven brief Sermons, all on subjects more or less intimately connected with Public-school life. "We desire very highly to commend these capital Sermons which treat of a boy's life and trials in a thoroughly practical way and with great simplicity and impressiveness. They deserve to be classed with the best of their kind."—Literary Churchman.

THOUGHTS ON LIFE-SCIENCE. New Edition, enlarged and revised. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

In this volume are discussed in a familiar manner some of the most interesting problems between Science and Religion, Reason and Feeling.

Trench.—Works by R. CHENEVIX TRENCH, D.D., Archbishop of Dublin. (For other Works by the same author, see BIOGRAPHICAL, BELLES LETTRES, and LINGUISTIC CATALOGUES).

NOTES ON THE PARABLES OF OUR LORD. Twelfth Edition. 8vo. 12s.

This work has taken its place as a standard exposition and interpretation of Christ's Parables. The book is prefaced by an Introductory Essay in four chapters:—I. On the definition of the Parable. II. On Teaching by Parables. III. On the Interpretation of the Parables. IV. On other Parables besides those in the Scriptures. The author then proceeds to take up the Parables one by one, and by the aid of philology, history, antiquities, and the researches of travellers, shews forth the significance, beauty, and applicability of each, concluding with what he deems its true moral interpretation. In the numerous Notes are many valuable references, illustrative quotations, critical and philological annotations, etc., and appended to the volume is a classified list of fifty-six works on the Parables.

NOTES ON THE MIRACLES OF OUR LORD.

Tenth Edition. 8vo. 12s.

In the 'Preliminary Essay' to this work, all the momentous and interesting questions that have been raised in connection with Miracles, are discussed with considerable fulness. The Essay consists of six chapters:— I. On the Names of Miracles, i. e. the Greek words by which they are designated in the New Testament. II. The Miracles and Nature—What is the difference between a Miracle and any event in the ordinary course of Nature? III. The Authority of Miracles—Is the Miracle to command absolute obedience? IV. The Evangelical, compared with the other cycles of Miracles. V. The Assaults on the Miracles—1. The Jewish. 2. The Heathen (Celsus etc.). 3. The Pantheistic (Spinoza etc.). 4. The Sceptical (Hume). 5. The Miracles only relatively miraculous (Schleiermacher). 6. The Rationalistic (Paulus). 7. The Historico-Critical (Woolston, Strauss). VI. The Apologetic Worth of the Miracles. The author then treats the separate Miracles as he does the Parables.

SYNONYMS OF THE NEW TESTAMENT. New

Edition, enlarged. 8vo. cloth. 12s.

The study of synonyms in any language is valuable as a discipline for training the mind to close and accurate habits of thought; more especially is this the case in Greek—"a language spoken by a people of the finest and subtlest intellect; who saw distinctions where others saw none; who divided out to different words what others often were content to huddle confusedly under a common term. . . . Where is it so desirable that we should miss nothing, that we should lose no finer intention of the writer, as in those words which are the vehicles of the very mind of God Himself?" This Edition has been carefully revised, and a considerable number of new synonyms added. Appended is an Index to the Synonyms, and an Index to many other words alluded to or explained throughout the work. "He is," the Athenæum says, "a guide in this department of knowledge to whom his readers may intrust themselves with confidence. His sober judgment and sound sense are barriers against the misleading influence of arbitrary hypotheses."

ON THE AUTHORIZED VERSION OF THE NEW TESTAMENT. Second Edition. 8vo. 7s.

After some Introductory Remarks, in which the propriety of a revision is briefly discussed, the whole question of the merits of the present version is gone into in detail, in eleven chapters. Appended is a chronological list of works bearing on the subject, an Index of the principal Texts considered, an Index of Greek Words, and an Index of other Words referred to throughout the book.

STUDIES IN THE GOSPELS. Third Edition. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

This book is published under the conviction that the assertion often made is untrue,—viz. that the Gospels are in the main plain and easy, and that all the chief difficulties of the New Testament are to be found in the Epistles. These "Studies," sixteen in number, are the fruit of a much larger scheme, and each Study deals with some important episode mentioned in the Gospels, in a critical, philosophical, and practical manner. Many references and quotations are added to the Notes. Among the subjects treated are:—The Temptation; Christ and the Samaritan Woman; The Three Aspirants; The Transfiguration; Zacchæus; The True Vine; The Penitent Malefactor; Christ and the Two Disciples on the way to Emmaus.

COMMENTARY ON THE EPISTLES to the SEVEN CHURCHES IN ASIA. Third Edition, revised. 8vo. 8s. 6d.

The present work consists of an Introduction, being a commentary on Rev. i. 4—20, a detailed examination of each of the Seven Epistles, in all its bearings, and an Excursus on the Historico-Prophetical Interpretation of the Epistles.

THE SERMON ON THE MOUNT. An Exposition drawn from the writings of St. Augustine, with an Essay on his merits as an Interpreter of Holy Scripture. Third Edition, enlarged. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

The first half of the present work consists of a dissertation in eight chapters on "Augustine as an Interpreter of Scripture," the titles of the several chapters being as follow:—I. Augustine's General Views of Scripture and its Interpretation. II. The External Helps for the Interpretation of Scripture possessed by Augustine. III. Augustine's Principles and Canons of Interpretation. IV. Augustine's Allegorical Interpretation of Scripture. V. Illustrations of Augustine's Skill as an Interpreter of Scripture. VI. Augustine on John the Baptist and on St. Stephen. VII. Augustine on the Epistle to the Romans. VIII. Miscellaneous Examples of Augustine's Interpretation of Scripture. The latter half of the work consists of Augustine's Exposition of the Sermon on the Mount, not however a mere series of quotations from Augustine, but a connected account of his sentiments on the various passages of that Sermon, interspersed with criticisms by Archbishop Trench.

SERMONS PREACHED IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY. Second Edition. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

These Sermons embrace a wide variety of topics, and are thoroughly practical, earnest, and evangelical, and simple in style. The following are a few of the subjects:—"Tercentenary Celebration of Queen Elizabeth's Accession;" "Contrition and Conversion;" "The Incredulity of Thomas;" "The Angels' Hymn;" "Counting the Cost;" "The Holy Trinity in Relation to our Prayers;" "On the Death of General Havelock;" "Christ Weeping over Jerusalem;" "Walking with Christ in White."

SHIPWRECKS OF FAITH. Three Sermons preached before the University of Cambridge in May, 1867. Fcap. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

These Sermons are especially addressed to young men. The subjects are "Balaam," "Saul," and "Judas Iscariot." These lives are set forth as beacon-lights, "to warn us off from perilous reefs and quicksands, which have been the destruction of many, and which might only too easily be ours." The John Bull says, "they are, like all he writes, affectionate and earnest discourses."

SERMONS Preached for the most part in Ireland. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

This volume consists of Thirty-two Sermons, the greater part of which were preached in Ireland; the subjects are as follows:—Jacob, a Prince with God and with Men—Agrippa—The Woman that was a Sinner—Secret Faults—The Seven Worse Spirits—Freedom in the Truth—Joseph and his Brethren—Bearing one another's Burdens—Christ's Challenge to the World—The Love of Money—The Salt of the Earth—The Armour of God—Light in the Lord—The Failer of Philippi—The Thorn in the Flesh—Isaiah's Vision—Selfishness—Abraham interceding for Sodom—Vain Thoughts—Pontius Pilate—The Brazen Serpent—The Death and Burial of Moses—A Word from the Cross—The Church's Worship in the Beauty of Holiness—Every Good Gift from Above—On the Hearing of Prayer—The Kingdom which cometh not with Observation—Pressing towards the Mark—Saul—The Good Shepherd—The Valley of Dry Bones—All Saints.

Tudor.—The DECALOGUE VIEWED as the CHRISTIAN'S LAW. With Special Reference to the Questions and Wants of the Times. By the Rev. RICH. TUDOR, B.A. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

The author's aim is to bring out the Christian sense of the Decalogue in its application to existing needs and questions. The work will be found to occupy ground which no other single work has hitherto filled. It is divided into Two Parts, the First Part consisting of three lectures on "Duty," and the Second Part of twelve lectures on the Ten Commandments. The Guardian says of it, "His volume throughout is an outspoken and sound exposition of Christian morality, based deeply upon true foundations, set forth systematically, and forcibly and plainly expressed—as good a specimen of what pulpit lectures ought to be as is often to be found."

Tulloch.—THE CHRIST OF THE GOSPELS AND THE CHRIST OF MODERN CRITICISM. Lectures on M. RENAN'S "Vie de Jésus." By JOHN TULLOCH, D.D., Principal of the College of St. Mary, in the University of St. Andrew's. Extra fcap. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

Unseen Universe (The): or, Physical Speculations on Immortality. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

Vaughan.—Works by CHARLES J. VAUGHAN, D.D., Master of the Temple:—

CHRIST SATISFYING THE INSTINCTS OF HUMANITY. Eight Lectures delivered in the Temple Church. New Edition. Extra fcp. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

"We are convinced that there are congregations, in number unmistakably increasing, to whom such Essays as these, full of thought and learning, are infinitely more beneficial, for they are more acceptable, than the recognised type of sermons."—John Bull.

MEMORIALS OF HARROW SUNDAYS. A Selection of Sermons preached in Harrow School Chapel. With a View of the Chapel. Fourth Edition. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

"Discussing," says the John Bull, "those forms of evil and impediments to duty which peculiarly beset the young, Dr. Vaughan has, with singular tact, blended deep thought and analytical investigation of principles with interesting earnestness and eloquent simplicity." The Nonconformist says "the volume is a precious one for family reading, and for the hand of the thoughtful boy or young man entering life."

THE BOOK AND THE LIFE, and other Sermons, preached before the University of Cambridge. New Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

These Sermons are all of a thoroughly practical nature, and some of them are especially adapted to those who are in a state of anxious doubt.

TWELVE DISCOURSES on SUBJECTS CONNECTED WITH THE LITURGY and WORSHIP of the CHURCH OF ENGLAND. Fcap. 8vo. 6s.

Four of these discourses were published in 1860, in a work entitled Revision of the Liturgy; four others have appeared in the form of separate sermons, delivered on various occasions, and published at the time by request; and four are new. The Appendix contains two articles,—one on "Subscription and Scruples," the other on the "Rubric and the Burial Service." The Press characterises the volume as "eminently wise and temperate."

LESSONS OF LIFE AND GODLINESS. A Selection of Sermons preached in the Parish Church of Doncaster. Fourth and Cheaper Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

This volume consists of Nineteen Sermons, mostly on subjects connected with the every-day walk and conversation of Christians. They bear such titles as "The Talebearer," "Features of Charity," "The Danger of Relapse," "The Secret Life and the Outward," "Family Prayer," "Zeal without Consistency," "The Gospel an Incentive to Industry in Business," "Use and Abuse of the World." The Spectator styles them "earnest and human. They are adapted to every class and order in the social system, and will be read with wakeful interest by all who seek to amend whatever may be amiss in their natural disposition or in their acquired habits."

WORDS FROM THE GOSPELS. A Second Selection of Sermons preached in the Parish Church of Doncaster. Second Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

The Nonconformist characterises these Sermons as "of practical earnestness, of a thoughtfulness that penetrates the common conditions and experiences of life, and brings the truths and examples of Scripture to bear on them with singular force, and of a style that owes its real elegance to the simplicity and directness which have fine culture for their roots."

LESSONS OF THE CROSS AND PASSION. Six Lectures delivered in Hereford Cathedral during the Week before Easter, 1869. Fcap. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

The titles of the Sermons are:—I. "Too Late" (Matt. xxvi. 45). II. "The Divine Sacrifice and the Human Priesthood." III. "Love not the World." IV. "The Moral Glory of Christ." V. "Christ made perfect through Suffering." VI. "Death the Remedy of Christ's Loneliness." "This little volume," the Nonconformist says, "exhibits all his best characteristics. Elevated, calm, and clear, the Sermons owe much to their force, and yet they seem literally to owe nothing to it. They are studied, but their grace is the grace of perfect simplicity."

LIFE'S WORK AND GOD'S DISCIPLINE. Three Sermons. New Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

The Three Sermons are on the following subjects:—I. "The Work burned and the Workmen saved." II. "The Individual Hiring." III. "The Remedial Discipline of Disease and Death."

THE WHOLESOME WORDS OF JESUS CHRIST.

Four Sermons preached before the University of Cambridge in November 1866. Second Edition. Fcap. 8vo. cloth. 3s. 6d.

Dr. Vaughan uses the word "Wholesome" here in its literal and original sense, the sense in which St. Paul uses it, as meaning healthy, sound, conducing to right living; and in these Sermons he points out and illustrates several of the "wholesome" characteristics of the Gospel, —the Words of Christ. The John Bull says this volume is "replete with all the author's well-known vigour of thought and richness of expression."

FOES OF FAITH. Sermons preached before the University of Cambridge in November 1868. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

The "Foes of Faith" preached against in these Four Sermons are:— I. "Unreality." II. "Indolence." III. "Irreverence." IV. "Inconsistency." "They are written," the London Review says, "with culture and elegance, and exhibit the thoughtful earnestness, piety, and good sense of their author."

LECTURES ON THE EPISTLE to the PHILIPPIANS.

Third and Cheaper Edition. Extra fcap. 8vo. 5s.

Each Lecture is prefaced by a literal translation from the Greek of the paragraph which forms its subject, contains first a minute explanation of the passage on which it is based, and then a practical application of the verse or clause selected as its text.

LECTURES ON THE REVELATION OF ST. JOHN.

Fourth Edition. Two Vols. Extra fcap. 8vo. 9s.

In this Edition of these Lectures, the literal translations of the passages expounded will be found interwoven in the body of the Lectures themselves. In attempting to expound this most-hard-to-understand Book, Dr. Vaughan, while taking from others what assistance he required, has not adhered to any particular school of interpretation, but has endeavoured to shew forth the significance of this Revelation by the help of his strong common sense, critical acumen, scholarship, and reverent spirit. "Dr. Vaughan's Sermons," the Spectator says, "are the most practical discourses on the Apocalypse with which we are acquainted." Prefixed is a Synopsis of the Book of Revelation, and appended is an Index of passages illustrating the language of the Book.

EPIPHANY, LENT, AND EASTER. A Selection of Expository Sermons. Third Edition. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

The first eighteen of these Sermons were preached during the seasons of 1860, indicated in the title, and are practical expositions of passages taken from the lessons of the days on which they were delivered. Each Lecture is prefaced with a careful and literal rendering of the original of the passage of which the Lecture is an exposition. The Nonconformist says that "in simplicity, dignity, close adherence to the words of Scripture, insight into 'the mind of the Spirit,' and practical thoughtfulness, they are models of that species of pulpit instruction to which they belong."

THE EPISTLES OF ST. PAUL. For English Readers.

PART I., containing the FIRST EPISTLE TO THE THESSALONIANS.

It is the object of this work to enable English readers, unacquainted with Greek, to enter with intelligence into the meaning, connection, and phraseology of the writings of the great Apostle.

ST. PAUL'S EPISTLE TO THE ROMANS. The Greek Text, with English Notes. Fourth Edition. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

This volume contains the Greek Text of the Epistle to the Romans as settled by the Rev. B. F. Westcott, D.D., for his complete recension of the Text of the New Testament. Appended to the text are copious critical and exegetical Notes, the result of almost eighteen years' study on the part of the author. The "Index of Words illustrated or explained in the Notes" will be found, in some considerable degree, an Index to the Epistles as a whole. Prefixed to the volume is a discourse on "St. Paul's Conversion and Doctrine," suggested by some recent publications on St. Paul's theological standing. The Guardian says of the work,—“For educated young men his commentary seems to fill a gap hitherto unfilled. . . . As a whole, Dr. Vaughan appears to us to have given to the world a valuable book of original and careful and earnest thought bestowed on the accomplishment of a work which will be of much service and which is much needed.”

THE CHURCH OF THE FIRST DAYS.

Series I. The Church of Jerusalem. Third Edition.

" II. The Church of the Gentiles. Third Edition.

" III. The Church of the World. Second Edition.

Fcap. 8vo. cloth. 4s. 6d. each.

Where necessary, the Authorized Version has been departed from, and a new literal translation taken as the basis of exposition. All possible topographical and historical light has been brought to bear on the subject; and while thoroughly practical in their aim, these Lectures will be found to afford a fair notion of the history and condition of the Primitive Church. The British Quarterly says,—“These Sermons are worthy of all praise, and are models of pulpit teaching.”

COUNSELS for YOUNG STUDENTS. Three Sermons preached before the University of Cambridge at the Opening of the Academical Year 1870-71. Fcap. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

The titles of the Three Sermons contained in this volume are:—I. “The Great Decision.” II. “The House and the Builder.” III. “The Prayer and the Counter-Prayer.” They all bear pointedly, earnestly, and sympathisingly upon the conduct and pursuits of young students and young men generally.

NOTES FOR LECTURES ON CONFIRMATION, with suitable Prayers. Eighth Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 1s. 6d.

In preparation for the Confirmation held in Harrow School Chapel, Dr. Vaughan was in the habit of printing week by week, and distributing among the Candidates, somewhat full notes of the Lecture he purposed to deliver to them, together with a form of Prayer adapted to the particular subject. He has collected these weekly Notes and Prayers into this little volume, in the hope that it may assist the labours of those who are engaged in preparing Candidates for Confirmation, and who find it difficult to lay their hand upon any one book of suitable instruction.

CHRISTIAN EVIDENCES AND THE BIBLE. New Edition, revised and enlarged. Fcap. 8vo. cloth. 5s. 6d.

"This little volume," the Spectator says, "is a model of that honest and reverent criticism of the Bible which is not only right, but the duty of English clergymen in such times as these to put forth from the pulpit."

Venn.—ON SOME OF THE CHARACTERISTICS OF BELIEF, Scientific and Religious. Being the Hulsean Lectures for 1869. By the Rev. J. VENN, M.A. 8vo. 6s. 6d.

These discourses are intended to illustrate, explain, and work out into some of their consequences, certain characteristics by which the attainment of religious belief is prominently distinguished from the attainment of belief upon most other subjects.

Warington.—THE WEEK OF CREATION; OR, THE COSMOGONY OF GENESIS CONSIDERED IN ITS RELATION TO MODERN SCIENCE. By GEORGE WARINGTON, Author of "The Historic Character of the Pentateuch Vindicated." Crown 8vo. 4s. 6d.

The greater part of this work is taken up with the teaching of the Cosmogony. Its purpose is also investigated, and a chapter is devoted to the consideration of the passage in which the difficulties occur. "A very able vindication of the Mosaic Cosmogony by a writer who unites the advantages of a critical knowledge of the Hebrew text and of distinguished scientific attainments."—Spectator.

Westcott.—Works by BROOKE FOSS WESTCOTT, D.D., Regius Professor of Divinity in the University of Cambridge; Canon of Peterborough :—

The London Quarterly, speaking of Mr. Westcott, says,—"To a learning and accuracy which command respect and confidence, he unites what are not always to be found in union with these qualities, the no less valuable faculties of lucid arrangement and graceful and facile expression."

AN INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY OF THE GOSPELS. Fourth Edition. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

The author's chief object in this work has been to shew that there is a true mean between the idea of a formal harmonization of the Gospels and the abandonment of their absolute truth. After an Introduction on the General Effects of the course of Modern Philosophy on the popular views of Christianity, he proceeds to determine in what way the principles therein indicated may be applied to the study of the Gospels. The treatise is divided into eight Chapters:—I. The Preparation for the Gospel. II. The Jewish Doctrine of the Messiah. III. The Origin of the Gospels. IV. The Characteristics of the Gospels. V. The Gospel of St. John. VI. and VII. The Differences in detail and of arrangement in the Synoptic Evangelists. VIII. The Difficulties of the Gospels. The Appendices contain much valuable subsidiary matter.

A GENERAL SURVEY OF THE HISTORY OF THE CANON OF THE NEW TESTAMENT DURING THE FIRST FOUR CENTURIES. Fourth Edition, revised, with a Preface on "Supernatural Religion." Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

The object of this treatise is to deal with the New Testament as a whole, and that on purely historical grounds. The separate books of which it is composed are considered not individually, but as claiming to be parts of the apostolic heritage of Christians. The Author has thus endeavoured to connect the history of the New Testament Canon with the growth and consolidation of the Catholic Church, and to point out the relation existing between the amount of evidence for the authenticity of its component parts and the whole mass of Christian literature. "The treatise," says the British Quarterly, "is a scholarly performance, learned, dispassionate, discriminating, worthy of his subject and of the present state of Christian literature in relation to it."

THE BIBLE IN THE CHURCH. A Popular Account of the Collection and Reception of the Holy Scriptures in the Christian Churches. New Edition. 18mo. 4s. 6d.

The present volume has been written under the impression that a History of the whole Bible, and not of the New Testament only, would be required, if those unfamiliar with the subject were to be enabled to learn in what manner and with what consent the collection of Holy Scriptures was first made and then enlarged and finally closed by the Church. Though the work is intended to be simple and popular in its method, the author, for this very reason, has aimed at the strictest accuracy.

A GENERAL VIEW OF THE HISTORY OF THE ENGLISH BIBLE. Second Edition. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

In the Introduction the author notices briefly the earliest vernacular versions of the Bible, especially those in Anglo-Saxon. Chapter I. is occupied with an account of the Manuscript English Bible from the 14th century downwards; and in Chapter II. is narrated, with many interesting personal and other details, the External History of the Printed Bible. In Chapter III. is set forth the Internal History of the English Bible, shewing to what extent the various English Translations were independent, and to what extent the translators were indebted to earlier English and foreign versions. In the Appendices, among other interesting and valuable matter, will be found "Specimens of the Earlier and Later Wycliffite Versions;" "Chronological List of Bibles;" "An Examination of Mr. Froude's History of the English Bible." The Pall Mall Gazette calls the work "A brief, scholarly, and, to a great extent, an original contribution to theological literature."

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE, MANIFOLD AND ONE.

Six Sermons preached in Peterborough Cathedral. Crown 8vo. 2s. 6d.

The Six Sermons contained in this volume are the first preached by the author as a Canon of Peterborough Cathedral. The subjects are:— I. "Life consecrated by the Ascension." II. "Many Gifts, One Spirit." III. "The Gospel of the Resurrection." IV. "Sufficiency of God." V. "Action the Test of Faith." VI. "Progress from the Confession of God." The Nonconformist calls them "Beautiful discourses, singularly devout and tender."

THE GOSPEL OF THE RESURRECTION. Thoughts on its Relation to Reason and History. Fourth Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

The present Essay is an endeavour to consider some of the elementary truths of Christianity, as a miraculous Revelation, from the side of History and Reason. The author endeavours to shew that a devout belief in the Life of Christ is quite compatible with a broad view of the course of human progress and a frank trust in the laws of our own minds. In the third edition the author has carefully reconsidered the whole argument, and by the help of several kind critics has been enabled to correct some faults and to remove some ambiguities, which had been overlooked before. He has not however made any attempt to alter the general character of the book.

ON THE RELIGIOUS OFFICE OF THE UNIVERSITIES. Crown 8vo. 4s. 6d.

"There is certainly, no man of our time—no man at least who has obtained the command of the public ear—whose utterances can compare with those of Professor Westcott for largeness of views and comprehensiveness of grasp. . . . There is wisdom, and truth, and thought enough, and a harmony and mutual connection running through them all, which makes the collection of more real value than many an ambitious treatise."—Literary Churchman.

Wilkins.—THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD. An Essay, by A. S. WILKINS, M.A., Professor of Latin in Owens College, Manchester. Second Edition. Crown 8vo. 3s. 6d.

This is the Hulsean Prize Essay for 1869. The subject proposed by the Trustees was, "The Distinctive Features of Christian as compared with Pagan Ethics." The author has tried to show that the Christian ethics so far transcend the ethics of any or all of the Pagan systems in method, in purity and in power, as to compel us to assume for them an origin, differing in kind from the origin of any purely human system. "It would be difficult to praise too highly the spirit, the burden, the conclusions, or the scholarly finish of this beautiful Essay."—British Quarterly Review.

Wilson.—RELIGIO CHEMICI. With a Vignette beautifully engraved after a Design by Sir NOEL PATON. By GEORGE WILSON, M.D. Crown 8vo. 8s. 6d.

"George Wilson," says the Preface to this volume, "had it in his heart for many years to write a book corresponding to the Religio Medici of Sir Thomas Browne, with the title Religio Chemicæ. Several of the Essays in this volume were intended to form chapters of it, but the health and leisure necessary to carry out his plans were never attainable, and thus fragments only of the designed work exist. These fragments, however, being in most cases like finished gems waiting to be set, some of them are now given in a collected form to his friends and the public."—"A more fascinating volume," the Spectator says, "has seldom fallen into our hands."

Wilson.—THE BIBLE STUDENT'S GUIDE TO THE MORE CORRECT UNDERSTANDING of the ENGLISH TRANSLATION OF THE OLD TESTAMENT, BY REFERENCE TO THE ORIGINAL HEBREW. By WILLIAM WILSON, D.D., Canon of Winchester. Second Edition, carefully revised. 4to. 25s.

"The author believes that the present work is the nearest approach to a complete Concordance of every word in the original that has yet been made: and as a Concordance, it may be found of great use to the Bible student, while at the same time it serves the important object of furnishing the means of comparing synonymous words, and of eliciting their precise and distinctive meaning. The knowledge of the Hebrew language is not absolutely necessary to the profitable use of the work. The plan of the work is simple: every word occurring in the English Version is arranged alphabetically, and under it is given the Hebrew word or words, with a full explanation of their meaning, of which it is meant to be a translation, and a complete list of the passages where it occurs. Following the general work is a complete Hebrew and English Index, which is, in effect, a Hebrew-English Dictionary.

Worship (The) of God and Fellowship among Men. Sermons on Public Worship. By Professor MAURICE, and others. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

This volume consists of Six Sermons preached by various clergymen, and although not addressed specially to any class, were suggested by recent efforts to bring the members of the Working Class to our Churches. The preachers were—Professor Maurice, Rev. T. F. Rowsell, Rev. J. Ll. Davies, Rev. D. F. Vaughan.

Yonge (Charlotte M.)—SCRIPTURE READINGS for SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES. By CHARLOTTE M. YONGE, Author of "The Heir of Redclyffe." Globe 8vo. 1s. 6d. With Comments. 3s. 6d.

SECOND SERIES. From Joshua to Solomon. Extra fcap. 8vo. 1s. 6d. With Comments. 3s. 6d.

THIRD SERIES. The Kings and Prophets. Extra fcap. 8vo., 1s. 6d., with Comments, 3s. 6d.

Actual need has led the author to endeavour to prepare a reading book convenient for study with children, containing the very words of the Bible, with only a few expedient omissions, and arranged in Lessons of such length as by experience she has found to suit with children's ordinary power of accurate attentive interest. The verse form has been retained because of its convenience for children reading in class, and as more resembling their Bibles; but the poetical portions have been given in their lines. Professor Huxley at a meeting of the London School-board, particularly mentioned the Selection made by Miss Yonge, as an example of how selections might be made for School reading. "Her Comments are models of their kind."—Literary Churchman.

In crown 8vo. cloth extra, Illustrated, price 4s. 6d. each Volume; also kept in morocco and calf bindings at moderate prices, and in Ornamental Boxes containing Four Vols., 21s. each.

MACMILLAN'S SUNDAY LIBRARY.

A SERIES OF ORIGINAL WORKS BY EMINENT AUTHORS.

The Guardian says—"All Christian households owe a debt of gratitude to Mr. Macmillan for that useful 'Sunday Library.'"

THE FOLLOWING VOLUMES ARE NOW READY:—

The Pupils of St. John the Divine.—By CHARLOTTE M. YONGE, Author of "The Heir of Redclyffe."

The author first gives a full sketch of the life and work of the Apostle himself, drawing the material from all the most trustworthy authorities, sacred and profane; then follow the lives of his immediate disciples, Ignatius, Quadratus, Polycarp, and others; which are succeeded by the lives of many of their pupils. She then proceeds to sketch from their foundation the history of the many churches planted or superintended by St. John and his pupils, both in the East and West. In the last chapter is given an account of the present aspect of the Churches of St. John,—the Seven Churches of Asia mentioned in Revelations; also those of Athens, of Nîmes, of Lyons, and others in the West. "Young and old will be equally refreshed and taught by these pages, in which nothing is dull, and nothing is far-fetched."—Churchman.

The Hermits.—By CANON KINGSLEY.

The volume contains the lives of some of the most remarkable early Egyptian, Syrian, Persian, and Western hermits. The lives are mostly translations from the original biographies. "It is from first to last a production full of interest, written with a liberal appreciation of what is memorable for good in the lives of the Hermits, and with a wise forbearance towards legends which may be due to the ignorance, and, no doubt, also to the strong faith of the early chroniclers."—London Review.

Seekers after God.—LIVES OF SENECA, EPICTETUS, AND MARCUS AURELIUS. By the Rev. F. W. FARRAR, M.A., F.R.S., Head Master of Marlborough College.

In this volume the author seeks to record the lives, and gives copious samples of the almost Christ-like utterances of, with perhaps the exception of Socrates, "the best and holiest characters presented to us in the records of antiquity." The volume contains portraits of Aurelius, Seneca, and Antoninus Pius. "We can heartily recommend it as healthy in tone, instructive, interesting, mentally and spiritually stimulating and nutritious."—Nonconformist.

England's Antiphon.—By GEORGE MACDONALD.

This volume deals chiefly with the lyric or song-form of English religious poetry, other kinds, however, being not infrequently introduced. The author has sought to trace the course of our religious poetry from the 13th to the 19th centuries, from before Chaucer to Tennyson. He endeavours to accomplish his object by selecting the men who have produced the finest religious poetry, setting forth the circumstances in which they were placed, characterising the men themselves, critically estimating their productions, and giving ample specimens of their best religious lyrics, and quotations from larger poems, illustrating the religious feeling of the poets or their times. "Dr. Macdonald has very successfully endeavoured to bring together in his little book a whole series of the sweet singers of England, and makes them raise, one after the other, their voices in praise of God."—Guardian.

Great Christians of France: ST. LOUIS and CALVIN. By M. GUIZOT.

From among French Catholics, M. Guizot has, in this volume, selected

Louis, King of France in the 13th century, and among Protestants, Calvin the Reformer in the 16th century, "as two earnest and illustrious representatives of the Christian faith and life, as well as of the loftiest thought and purest morality of their country and generation." In setting forth with considerable fulness the lives of these prominent and representative Christian men, M. Guizot necessarily introduces much of the political and religious history of the periods during which they lived. "A very interesting book," says the Guardian.

Christian Singers of Germany.—By CATHERINE WINKWORTH.

In this volume the authoress gives an account of the principal hymn-writers of Germany from the 9th to the 19th century, introducing ample specimens from their best productions. In the translations, while the English is perfectly idiomatic and harmonious, the characteristic differences of the poems have been carefully imitated, and the general style and metre retained. "Miss Winkworth's volume of this series is, according to our view, the choicest production of her pen."—British Quarterly Review.

Apostles of Mediæval Europe.—By the Rev. G. F. MACLEAR, D.D., Head Master of King's College School, London.

In two Introductory Chapters the author notices some of the chief characteristics of the mediæval period itself; gives a graphic sketch of the devastated state of Europe at the beginning of that period, and an interesting account of the religions of the three great groups of vigorous barbarians—the Celts, the Teutons, and the Slaves—who had, wave after wave, overflowed its surface. He then proceeds to sketch the lives and work of the chief of the courageous men who devoted themselves to the stupendous task of their conversion and civilization, during a period extending from the 5th to the 13th century; such as St. Patrick, St. Columba, St. Columbanus, St. Augustine of Canterbury, St. Boniface, St. Olaf, St. Cyril, Raymond Sully, and others. "Mr. Maclear will have done a great work if his admirable little volume shall help to break up the dense ignorance which is still prevailing among people at large."—Literary Churchman.

Alfred the Great.—By THOMAS HUGHES, Author of "Tom Brown's School Days." Third Edition.

"The time is come when we English can no longer stand by as interested spectators only, but in which every one of our institutions will be sifted with rigour, and will have to shew cause for its existence. . . . As a help in this search, this life of the typical English King is here offered." Besides other illustrations in the volume, a Map of England is prefixed, shewing its divisions about 1000 A.D., as well as at the present time. "Mr. Hughes has indeed written a good book, bright and readable we need hardly say, and of a very considerable historical value."—Spectator.

Nations Around.—By Miss A. KEARY.

This volume contains many details concerning the social and political life, the religion, the superstitions, the literature, the architecture, the commerce, the industry, of the Nations around Palestine, an acquaintance with which is necessary in order to a clear and full understanding of the history of the Hebrew people. The authoress has brought to her aid all the most recent investigations into the early history of these nations, referring frequently to the fruitful excavations which have brought to light the ruins and hieroglyphic writings of many of their buried cities. "Miss Keary has skilfully availed herself of the opportunity to write a pleasing and instructive book."—Guardian. "A valuable and interesting volume."—Illustrated Times.

St. Anselm.—By the Very Rev. R. W. CHURCH, M.A., Dean of St. Paul's. Second Edition.

In this biography of St. Anselm, while the story of his life as a man, a Christian, a clergyman, and a politician, is told impartially and fully, much light is shed on the ecclesiastical and political history of the time during which he lived, and on the internal economy of the monastic establishments of the period. The author has drawn his materials from contemporary biographers and chroniclers, while at the same time he has consulted the best recent authors who have treated of the man and his time. "It is a sketch by the hand of a master, with every line marked by taste, learning, and real apprehension of the subject."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Francis of Assisi.—By Mrs. OLIPHANT.

The life of this saint, the founder of the Franciscan order, and one of the most remarkable men of his time, illustrates some of the chief characteristics of the religious life of the Middle Ages. Much information is given concerning the missionary labours of the saint and his companions, as well as concerning the religious and monastic life of the time. Many graphic details are introduced from the saint's contemporary biographers, which shew forth the prevalent beliefs of the period; and abundant samples are given of St. Francis's own sayings, as well as a few specimens of his simple tender hymns. "We are grateful to Mrs. Oliphant for a book of much interest and pathetic beauty, a book which none can read without being the better for it."—John Bull.

Pioneers and Founders; or, Recent Workers in the Mission Field. By CHARLOTTE M. YONGE, Author of "The Heir of Redclyffe." With Frontispiece, and Vignette Portrait of BISHOP HEBER.

The missionaries whose biographies are here given, are—John Eliot, the Apostle of the Red Indians; David Brainerd, the Enthusiast; Christian F. Schwartz, the Councillor of Tanjore; Henry Martyn, the Scholar-Missionary; William Carey and Joshua Marshman, the Serampore Missionaries; the Judson Family; the Bishops of Calcutta,—Thomas Middleton, Reginald Heber, Daniel Wilson; Samuel Marsden, the Australian Chaplain and Friend of the Maori; John Williams, the Martyr of Erromango; Allen Gardener, the Sailor Martyr; Charles Frederick Mackenzie, the Martyr of Zambesi. "Likely to be one of the most popular of the 'Sunday Library' volumes."—Literary Churchman.

Angelique Arnould, Abbess of Port Royal. By FRANCES MARTIN. Crown 8vo. 4s. 6d.

This new volume of the 'Sunday Library' contains the life of a very remarkable woman founded on the best authorities. She was a Roman Catholic Abbess who lived more than 200 years ago, whose life contained much struggle and suffering. But if we look beneath the surface, we find that sublime virtues are associated with her errors, there is something admirable in everything she does, and the study of her history leads to a continual enlargement of our own range of thought and sympathy.

THE "BOOK OF PRAISE" HYMNAL,

COMPILED AND ARRANGED BY LORD SELBORNE.

In the following four forms:—

A. Beautifully printed in Royal 32mo., limp cloth, price 6d.

B. " " Small 18mo., larger type, cloth limp, 1s.

C. Same edition on fine paper, cloth, 1s. 6d.

Also an edition with Music, selected, harmonized, and composed by JOHN HULLAH, in square 18mo., cloth, 3s. 6d.

The large acceptance which has been given to "The Book of Praise" by all classes of Christian people encourages the Publishers in entertaining the hope that this Hymnal, which is mainly selected from it, may be extensively used in Congregations, and in some degree at least meet the desires of those who seek uniformity in common worship as a means towards that unity which pious souls yearn after, and which our Lord prayed for in behalf of his Church. "The office of a hymn is not to teach controversial Theology, but to give the voice of song to practical religion. No doubt, to do this, it must embody sound doctrine; but it ought to do so, not after the manner of the schools, but with the breadth, freedom, and simplicity of the Fountain-head." On this principle has Sir R. Palmer proceeded in the preparation of this book.

The arrangement adopted is the following:—

PART I. consists of Hymns arranged according to the subjects of the Creed—"God the Creator," "Christ Incarnate," "Christ Crucified," "Christ Risen," "Christ Ascended," "Christ's Kingdom and Judgment," etc.

PART II. comprises Hymns arranged according to the subjects of the Lord's Prayer.

PART III. Hymns for natural and sacred seasons.

There are 320 Hymns in all.
